SNOW TIES UP TRAFFIC; TOTAL OF MORE THAN FOOT EXPECTED

Rising Wind, Falling Temperatures Likely to Increase Hazards — Transit Vehicles Behind Schedule.

Traffic in the St. Louis area was tied up today as a swiftly-moving snowstorm blew in from the northwest and blanketed streets and highways with seven to nine inches of packed snow and freezing slush.

The Weather Bureau revised its forecasts early in the afternoon, predicting that more than a foot of snow will accumulate in some parts of the city and county by early evening. Quickening winds and falling temperatures were expected to add to the hazards.

Busses and streetcars of the Public Service Co. were running far behind schedule and were halted in some areas because of tie-ups resulting from stalled and abandoned automobiles.

Vain Waits for Rides.

Many public transit riders stood at bus and streetcar stops for long periods, ranging up to one and two hours, waiting in vain for transportation. The worst traffic nnarl in the city was reported on Oakland avenue near the Arena.

Business establishments, industries and governmental offices released employes early, anticipating they would have difficulty getting home. Schools also dismissed students early.

A spokesman for McDonnell Aircraft Corp. announced cancellation of the 3:30 and 11:30 p.m. shifts. The heaviest snowfall was reported in the area around McDonnell plant. About nine inches had fallen there by 2 p.m.

Automobiles and trucks were slowed to a snail's pace everywhere except on a few downtown streets. Many stalled on grades. Along Natural Bridge road and other county highways, machines were abandoned by drivers, some of them after sliding into drainage ditches.

Line a Mile Long.

In mid-afternoon there was a line of stalled vehicles a mile long on Daniel Boone Highway east of Lindbergh boulevard.

Lambert-St. Louis Field was closed down at 10:41 a.m. after the ceiling dropped below 100 feet. Visibility was reduced to one-eighth to one-fourth of a mile.

Union Station reported trains from the east were arriving a half hour late. Departures were on schedule. Interstate busses from the east were up to a half hour late. Local busses between St. Louis and Alton were more than an hour behind schedule.

Many telephone lines appeared to be dead. The Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. explained that switchboards were overloaded with calls. The equipment was under such a strain, the company said, that callers could not get a dial tone.

Switchboards of taxicab companies were swamped with calls and it was difficult to find an unused cab anywhere.

Highways Hazardous.

Highway patrols reported driving conditions hazardous on virtually all highways. Some roads were blocked by stalled vehicles on grades, they said.

City, county and state street and road crews were at work spreading salt and cinders. Public Service Co. crews also were out attempting to get traffic started where the company's busses and streetcars were stalled.

HOUSE UNIT WILL QUESTION FIVE FCC MEMBERS

Committee to Ask Them About Charges They Got Favors From Broadcasters.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—The House investigating subcommittee plans to question at least five of the seven members of the Federal Communications Commission on charges of "personal and official misconduct" when it resumes hearings next Monday.

Chairman Morgan M. Molder (Dem.), Missouri, announced today that Chairman John C. Doerfer and members Robert E. Lee, Richard A. Mack, Rosel H. Hyde and Robert T. Bartley would be asked to answer charges.

Doerfer, Lee, and Mack were appointed by President Eisenhower, Hyde and Bartley by President Truman. Bartley is a nephew of Speaker Sam Rayburn.

The other two, recent appointees by Mr. Eisenhower, are T. A. M. Craven and Frederick W. Ford.

Also called to testify were: Former FCC Chairman George C. McConnaughey; former FCC members Frieda B. Hennock and Edward M. Webster; Harold E. Fellows, president of the national association of radio broadcasters; Robert K. Richards, a former officers of this association; Frank Russell, vice president of the National Broadcasting Co., and Frank U. Fletcher, an attorney for station KWTV, Oklahoma City.

Student Resigns.

Meanwhile, Norman Gelman, a fellowship student working without pay for the subcommittee, handed in his resignation. Two subcommittee Democrats said Gelman, a reporter on leave from the St. Petersburg, (Fla.) Times, apparently had a "conflict of interest" because the publisher of the Times, Nelson Poynter, is president of a group applying for a contested TV channel.

Gelman, in a letter of resignation to Moulder, said there was no such "conflict of interest." He said he resigned because he could not be useful without "mutual confidence."

Emerging from a three-hour closed meeting of the subcommittee yesterday, Moulder told reporters all seven FCC members would be called to testify at next week's more detailed

RUSSIANS HEAP INSULTING WORDS ON HOWARD FAST

© New York Times News Service

MOSCOW, Jan. 31—Howard Fast was treated here today to a scathing denunciation that covered more than a page of Moscow's chief literary newspaper. The American novelist, who won a 1953 Stalin peace prize while still a member of the Communist party, was condemned as a "militant Zionist" and an apologist for Israel.

He was called a swindler, opportunist, savage and deserter and was characterized as immodest; discourteous, cheap, cowardly, dishonest and indecent.

The newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta said that the man who had been the most popular American writer here "was never capable of good logical thought." It charged that Fast had confused religion with Marxism and therefore in essence "had never been a member of the party."

Since his public break with Communism a year ago, the paper said Fast had turned to writing "sour, eclectic hodgepodge" against the Soviet Union for profit.

REPORTS PAIR BEAT HIM AND STOLE $25,000

Investment Man Says Most of Loot Was Money Collected From Client.

Marco D. Vainikos, an investment company employe, reported to police last night that he was beaten and robbed of $25,216 by two men who accosted him in the 7200 block of Balson avenue, University City.

Vainikos said he had just collected $24,406 in cash from a client, Mrs. Estelle Binowitz, 7239 Balson, and had placed the money in a briefcase also containing an envelope with $810 of his own money.

A spokesman for Vainiko's firm, Edward D. Jones & Co., 300 North Fourth street, said the loss was covered by a broker's blanket bond. He said this was the first time the company ever lost a client's money in a holdup.

Uncertain on Insurance.

Vainikos, interviewed today at his home, 6376 Alamo avenue, Clayton, said he was uncertain whether the loss was insured.

"This is catastrophic," he said, "but I will make restitution one way or another."

Vainikos, an employe of the Jones company for about a year, said he was reminded by his office yesterday to pick up the money from Mrs. Binowitz, widow of a former hat manufacturer. The $24,406 was in payment for stock purchased through the brokerage house several days ago.

Mrs. Binowitz told University City police she remarked to Vainikos as she was handing him the cash: "You are carrying a lot of money. Aren't you scared?"

Vainikos was quoted as replying, "No, I'll just put it in my briefcase. Who will bother me?"

Says He Was Hit on Head.

Vainikos said he left Mrs. Binowitz about 7:50 p.m. and walked to his automobile parked in a center parkway. As he was about to enter the car, he said, he was struck on the head by a blunt object.

"I turned around and saw two men," he said. "They hit me several times in the head and abdomen. I was dazed and knocked down."

Vainikos said each of his assailants was about 40 years old, of medium height and weighed about 190 pounds. One of the men had a large, wide nose and a dark complexion, he said. He said both men wore dark clothing, one a long dark coat and the other, a dark jacket.

SENATE GROUP PUTS ITS OK ON $1,410,000,000 DEFENSE BILL

Emergency Measure, Passed by House, Is Unanimously Approved by Appropriations Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee approved unanimously today a $1,410,000,000 emergency defense money bill.

Only one major change was made in the measure as it passed the House last week. Chairman Carl Hayden (Dem.), Arizona, said the Senate group knocked out all reference to the Advance Research Project Agency the Pentagon is about to set up.

Hayden said, however, that $10,000,000 would be made directly available to Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy for use in any such agency.

Some Democratic Senators have advocated voting as much as one or two billion dollars more now to step up missile and bomber production, but Hayden said the committee decided to go along with McElroy's request.

"This secretary is an able man," Hayden said. "He's new on the job. He said he wanted to study things before asking more money for them."

Could Vote More Later.

Hayden said that if the Pentagon decides it needs more money before Congress acts on the regular appropriation for the fiscal year starting next July, "we are ready to give it to them."

Committee approval sends the bill on to the Senate for action, perhaps early next week.

Actual timing of a Senate vote may hinge, however, on how rapidly the House acts on an authorization bill which the Senate sent back to it yesterday. Some of the items in the appropriation bill depend on authorizations in the measure which the Senate passed after changing some House provisions.

None of the changes involved amounts of money, but the House must act on the Senate amendments before the bill can become law.

Provisions of Bill.

As passed by the House, the appropriation bill would provide $1,260,000,000 in new funds and authority to transfer to other uses another $150,000,000 previously appropriated.

Of this, $910,000,000 would be for the Air Force for new missiles, ballistic missile platforms, enemy missile and airplane warning system and dispersal of Strategic Air Command bombers.

The other $350,000,000 of new funds is for the Navy, with $296,000,000 to go for construction of three atomic submarines capable of firing the Polaris ballistic missile.

Forty million dollars of the transferred funds, an addition to President Eisenhower's initial request, would go to the Army for missile programs.

Air Force Construction.

The authorization bill provides for various Air Force construction projects, for which part of the Air Force money is to be used. Already passed by the House, it went through the Senate yesterday on a voice vote of the only nine Senators present. Its total is $549,670,000.

Although the Senate accepted the exact authorization total voted by the House, it made two changes in the construction bill that require House approval or a Senate-House compromise later.

One of these would give the Secretary of the Air Force authority to relocate some of the proposed bases for the Strategic Air Command.

Senator John C. Stennis (Dem.), Mississippi, said the Armed Services Committee discovered that several of the proposed new SAC dispersal bases already are classed as "prime targets" for the enemy.

The committee questioned adding additional jet bombers and other facilities to these bases or to those near urban or industrial centers.

Knocked out by the Senate was a change on the House

EISENHOWER SAYS G.O.P. STILL CAN CAMPAIGN ON '5 YEARS OF PROSPERITY'

U.S. Studies Report That Russia Has Fired a Very Large Missile

Actual Mission of Rocket Unknown, but It Possibly Was for Purpose of Launching Third and Bigger Sputnik.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Official Washington today was reported studying information that the Soviet Union has fired a very large missile, possibly for the purpose of putting a third and bigger Sputnik into orbit.

What the missile actually was intended to accomplish, however, appeared to be a matter of speculation so far as United States information goes at the moment.

Informants who were willing to discuss the reports of a new firing did so on a very restricted basis and with no identification as to the nature or sources of their information. They said they did not know whether this reported firing was simply a long-range test of a big intercontinental ballistic missile, an effort to put a new satellite into flight, an attempt to hit the moon, or some other kind of operation.

The whole matter was obviously one for intensive intelligence work with careful checking of the skies to determine whether anything new is up there.

Reports reached here yesterday that the Soviets were about to fire a huge new space missile, some accounts relating that a long count-down had started.

Officials familiar with these initial reports said information now available affords very good evidence that the firing actually has taken place—although in matters of this sort precise and verifiable information is often difficult and slow to come by.

The fact that some government officials were willing to talk at all on the report marked a departure from the policy of strict secrecy which has applied to all Soviet missile and satellite developments.

That switch appeared to indicate one or both of these possibilities:

1. The United States is seeking to take the edge off any Soviet announcement of a successful launching of a third artificial satellite, or

2. It may be involved in a bit of psychological warfare. If the Soviets fail to announce the firing of a missile within a few days, it could be called a failure similar to those which

Predicts Upturn Later This Year — Addresses Leaders, Then Goes to Georgia for Weekend.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Republicans today they could campaign on a "five years of prosperity" platform despite the current business recession.

The President told a breakfast sponsored by the Republican National Committee that the economy would pick up later this year because it "remains basically strong and the American people remain basically confident."

"This is a period of consolidating the gains of recent years," Mr. Eisenhower said. "Many people are paying off installment debts. Many businesses are trimming inventories. The economy is catching its breath for a new advance after the fast expansion of recent years." Mr. Eisenhower spoke to the 8 a.m. gathering shortly before flying to Augusta, Ga., for the weekend.

The meeting was closed, but excerpts from Mr. Eisenhower's address were released for publication.

Backing For Benson.

(The United Press said Mr. Eisenhower spiked any move by Republican strategists to dump Secretary of Ariculture Ezra Taft Benson as a "liability" in this election year. Some who attended said the President sat down after delivering his prepared speech, then popped up again. He noted that members of his Cabinet would be meeting with the committeemen later. All the Cabinet officers are doing a "fine job," he has complete confidence in them and will not replace any of them, he declared.)

Vice President Richard M. Nixon made a luncheon talk to the same group, called together to take stock of Republican chances in this year's mid-term election.

Mr. Eisenhower followed much the same line as he did in his Jan. 20 Chicago speech in which he hit at "pessimists" who say America is weak, and asked the people to push out their chins and say the country is strong and will grow stronger.

Mr. Eisenhower did not predict a Republican victory in the congressional elections next November, but he said: "We all know that the political prophets have already got out their short pencils and made a lot of mathematical calculations about the odds the Republicans are up against in various states and districts.

"But these calculations overlook the decisive element: What counts is not necessarily the size of the dog in the fight—it's the size of the fight in the dog."

Mr. Eisenhower, given a rousing welcome by the national committee members and the guests, stressed the business situation in the portion of his address which kas given out.

"A few political Cassandras pop up regularly to suggest that deep depression is just around the corner, and only panicky governmental intervention on a massive scale can stem the disaster," he said.

"We reject this pessimistic doctrine and the lack of confidence it reflects.

"Republicans have never sold American free enterprise short—and never will."

'5 Years of Prosperity.'

At another point he said: "We have had five years of prosperity. This simple truth, understood by every citizen, is not altered by the plain fact that business in general has been falling off in late months."

He said:

"We have a good cause, in the form of a proud record of past achievement, and a lively, thorough, well-balanced program for the future.

"Let us never for one instant forget that fact. And let us never permit the straight story of steady progress to be drowned out by the dismal wails of despair that we have been hearing from some public platforms for most of the past five years."

Most farmers "deep in their hearts" recognize the Administration's farm program as "a courageous move" to break a vicious circle of building up and disposing of surpluses, he said.

Then, touching briefly on national defense, he said the nation had "a vast and improving

DOLL SHOE DROPS, MOTHER AND CHILD FALL IN AIR DUCT

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Jan. 31 (AP)—A 32-year-old expectant mother was in good condition at a hospital yesterday after she and a small daughter toppled into a cold air return pipe while they were home alone.

Mrs. Jack Mulrooney was within a foot of the furnace when freed. Her daughter, Margaret, 4, was pulled back up through the opening in the floor, Police Chief A. C. Tichenor, who hauled Margaret out, said "she hung on like glue."

The mishap occurred Wednesday when Margaret removed the cover and fell into the pipe while attempting to recover a doll shoe. Mrs. Mulrooney fell head-first into the pipe trying to get her daughter out. The shoe was recovered.

As Mrs. Mulrooney fell in, the telephone went in also. While she was unable to reach it, the circuit was open and the operators heard muffled voices and were able to determine where the call was coming from. They summoned Tichenor and Mrs. Mulrooney's husband, a high school teacher.

BUILDS JET PLANE IN 3 YEARS FROM 30,000 SPARE PARTS

DALLAS, Jan. 31 (AP)—Bob Kamensky of North Hollywood, Calif., has a T-33 Shooting Star for sale despite Government regulations prohibiting private civilians from owning military jet aircraft.

He built it himself from about 30,000 spare parts picked up in a three-year, international scavenger hunt. The plane looks so authentic, Government inspectors accused him of swiping it when they saw it, he said. Kamensky, a used plane parts broker, said he picked up parts in junk heaps from Alaska to the Sahara desert.

He got interested in the project when a Chicago banker told him he wanted a jet for his own use. Kamensky knew where he could find a fuselage and a wing in Nevada. The rest he figured would be easy, but the task took him three years and thousands of miles.

The banker sold out after putting $130,000 into the venture. Kamensky says his craft despite its fuel consumption of 240 gallons an hour, offers advantages — for instance — a speed of 550 miles per hour.

UNION HEAD TO BE ASKED ABOUT 2 OLD MURDERS

Senate Investigators Say Maloney Has 4 Autos, Bought by Engineers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Senate rackets investigators served notice today they want to ask William E. Maloney, head of the Operating Engineers Union, whether he knows anything about two gangland-style killings in the early 1930s.

They did so by accepting in evidence a staff memorandum mentioning Maloney's name in connection with the cases. In each killing the victim was a man with whom Maloney had tangled in his rise to the union presidency.

Accepting the memo in evidence, chairman John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas said he noted that it was based on newspaper reports and talks with people in "government agencies."

The document, he said, will "serve as a bill of particulars for Mr. Maloney to know about" so that he can answer the questions raised when he is well enough to testify.

Maloney is in a Miami hospital and his doctor says he is suffering from heart trouble.

The killings mentioned in the staff memo were those of Dennis Bruce Ziegler, killed on a Chicago street Feb. 24, 1933, and Arthur Huddell, shot in a Washington, D. C., restaurant May 20, 1930. Both men were major figures in the Operating Engineers Union.

Has Four Autos.

The Senators turned to Maloney's career in the union after days of examining the rich rewards he has received since becoming its president.

Winding up that phase, staff aides related that Maloney has three Cadillacs and an Imperial automobile, bought for him by the union.

They said union records also show that union funds provided Maloney with garages for the four cars, a chauffeur to drive them, an apartment in Washington, free maid and telephone service, air conditioners for his Washington and Chicago area residences, and television sets for both.

Investigators Jack Balaban and James Mundie said two of the Cadillacs were paid for by the Union's Chicago Local 150, which Maloney and his lieuten-

Churchill Paintings 'Damn Good' To Truman; Not 'Ham and Egger'

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 31 (AP)—One of Winston Churchill's greatest admirers looked over an exhibit of 35 of the Briton's paintings yesterday and pronounced them "damn good."

He rated the former Prime Minister a far better statesman than artist. "He is the statesman of the age, you know," said former President Harry Truman, as he stopped off at William Rockhill Nelson Gallery, on his way home from his office here.

When a reporter appended "for an amateur" to his praise of Churchill's artistry, Truman interrupted sharply:

"What are you talking about—they are damn good.

"At least you can tell what the pictures are and that's more than you can say for a lot of these modern painters. Ham-and-eggers, I call them. They just throw an egg at the canvas and mix in a little ham."

MOVE STARTED IN CONGRESS TO CUT PRESIDENT'S TARIFF POWER

This challenge developed in the face of the President's urgent plea for power to negotiate further tariff cuts under a proposed five-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements program beyond next July 1.

If transformed into law, this move by critics of the program would in effect give Congress a key check on the President's trade agreements authority.

It would deny the President authority he now has to ignore Tariff Commission recommendations for increased import duties where the commission finds such boosts are needed to protect American industry from serious harm.

Outcome Called Uncertain.

As some leading members of the President's own party in Congress blasted his recommendations, Mr. Eisenhower's most ardent backers conceded he was in for a fight, with the outcome highly uncertain.

Aligned against Mr. Eisenhower's proposals appeared to be a majority of House Republicans and a growing number of Democrats. However, mixed in with the hostile comments were some expressions of support, particularly in the Senate.

The President, in a special message yesterday, appealed for broad new authority to lower United States tariffs by 5 per cent a year during the next five years. These reductions would be in return for similar trade concessions from other nations.

Legislation Offered.

Legislation to carry out the broadened trade program was introduced in the House by Representative Robert W. Kean (Rep.), New Jersey, and Representative Wilbur D. Mills (Dem.), Arkansas, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, as well as by Representative Peter Frelinghuysen, Jr. (Rep.), New Jersey.

"The House must initiate tariff legislation and act first. The Ways and Means group has scheduled hearings on the Eisenhower proposals to start Feb. 17.

The last extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act, in 1955, squeaked through the House by a single vote, 193 to 192.

But even before the trade bills were introduced, plans were in preparation to try to curb rather than enlarge the President's tariff-making powers under the 24-year-old trade agreements act.

Suggested Curbs.

Proposed curbs on the President's authority would (1) in effect bypass the White House by sending Tariff Commission recommendations directly to Congress for approval, or (2) make it mandatory on the Chief Executive to follow Tariff Commission recommendations.

But Representative Boggs (Dem.), Louisiana, chairman of the House Foreign Trade subcommittee, said he was "very happy to see this strong indorsement of the program by the President, and I hope it means substantial Republican support—which he hasn't got now."

In the Senate, expressions of support for the trade program came from Senators Prescott Bush (Rep.), Connecticutt; Thruston B. Morton (Rep.), Kentucky; Jacob K. Javits (Rep.), New York; Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon; Frank J. Lausche (Dem.), Ohio, and Paul H. Douglas (Dem.), Illinois.

SHARP INCREASE IN DEATHS FROM PNEUMONIA AND FLU

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 — Deaths from influenza and pneumonia around the country have risen as much as 50 per cent in recent weeks. This sharp increase has caused the Public Health Service in Washington to alert state officials for possibly another seige of Asian flu, it was learned yesterday.

So far, however, the usual criteria of industrial absenteeism plus other investigations have failed to reveal any large outbreaks of flu, a spokesman for the service said. Reports from 108 cities said 672 persons died last week of pneumonia and flu, a 43 per cent increase above the same week one year ago. For the week ending Jan. 18, 649 deaths were reported; this was a 50 per cent increase above the same week in 1957.

However, except for relatively isolated flu outbreaks this week in parts of Texas and in three midwestern colleges and one southern university, large scale attacks have not been found.

PREMIER, PRESS HAIL $655,250,000 AID TO FRANCE

PARIS, Jan. 31 (AP)—Paris newspapers today echoed Premier Gaillard's enthusiasm over the announcement that France will receive $655,250,000 in foreign aid.

Gaillard told a news conference the assistance will bring France "out of the nightmare we have suffered."

The foreign aid, announced yesterday by France, the United States, and two international agencies, will come this way:

The 64-nation International Monetary Fund agreed to provide $131,250,000 worth of assistance.

The European Payments Union promised $250,000,000 in credits—by allowing France to delay paying trade deficits to other member countries.

The United States will make available $274,000,000, principally by allowing a delay in French repayment of wartime loans.

10 DEAD, 80 HURT IN COLLISION OF TRAINS AT LONDON

LONDON, Jan. 31 (UP) — Britain's state-owned railways system today announced a casualty toll of 10 dead and 80 injured in Britain's second fog-shrouded train crash within two months.

The crash occurred at the height of London's commuter rush hour last night when one train plowed into another that had halted in heavy fog near the Dagenham station in east London.

FARMER FLYING TO U.S. WITH 98 KOREAN ORPHANS

HONOLULU, Jan. 31 (AP)— Oregon farmer Harry Holt and 98 Korean orphans took off in a chartered plane last night for San Francisco. The orphans are to be adopted by families in the United States.

Their Korean National Airways chartered plane was delayed at Wake island yesterday because one child died of pneumonia and two others were seriously ill with tuberculosis.

Holt, of Cressell, Ore., has brought hundreds of Korean waifs to the United States for adoption by American families.

SPAIN'S ENVOY QUITS IN LONDON TRIANGLE

LONDON, Jan. 31 (UP) — Mrs. Anthony Greville-Bell refused today to comment on a separation suit filed by her husband which led to the resignation of the Spanish ambassador to England.

"My solicitor has advised me to say absolutely nothing," she said.

The ambassador, the Duke of Primo de Rivera, resigned from the Court of St. James's Wednesday because of the suit. British libel laws prevented disclosure of his connection with the case. The suit was filed by Maj. Greville-Bell, 37-year-old former paratrooper, against his 28-year-old wife. It is not expected to be heard in court for several weeks.

The London Daily Telegraph reported yesterday that the duke had planned originally to claim diplomatic immunity in the case. But in his resignation statement the duke said, "I wish to make it clear that I do not intend to rely on any diplomatic immunity and I am able to take this step as I have today resigned my position of Spanish ambassador . . ."

He said he took the action "because I have nothing but gratitude and admiration for the English people who have been so kind to me during my mission, and in my new personal capacity I am satisfied to leave the matter to the courts, and indeed relieved that I am able to do so."

The duke, 55, had been ambassador to England since 1951. He is the son of the Primo de Rivera who ruled Spain in the 1920s. He came to London with his wife, Margarita, daughter of the Marques de Marsales. In 1955 there was a civil annulment of their marriage.

The duchess was remarried the same year to Julian Pitt-Rivers, author and former tutor to King Faisal of Iraq.

HOME RULE BILL FOR ALGERIANS PASSED IN FRANCE

PARIS, Jan. 31 (AP)—The National Assembly today passed a modified bill giving Algeria partial home rule.

The bill was assailed on all sides. Assembly critics said either that it was so watered down as to be useless or that it went too far in making concessions. Rebel leaders have rejected it in advance. They have said they will settle for nothing less than full independence before ending their three-year-old rebellion.

The vote was 296 to 244 on final passage. The bill is expected to become law next week, but there may be long delays before it can be applied. There must be some measure of calm before elections can be held for the local autonomous assemblies to govern the half-dozen territories into which Algeria will be divided under the act.

Election of a federal assembly and executive in Algiers is not scheduled until two years after the local assemblies are in being.

Two of the destroyers will be built by the Bath (Me.) Iron Works for a total of $34,133,200.

Two others will be built by the De Foe Shipbuilding Corp., Bay City, Mich., for a total of $33,140,520, the lowest bidder among 10 yards which submitted offers.

The fifth will be built by the Todd Shipyards, Seattle, for $17,819,924.

The Navy said the award to Todd was at a premium of $90,924, in order to disperse the construction and place work on the West Coast.

Any Missile Would Be Target, Says AEC—It May Be Tested in Spring at Eniwetok.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) —The United States disclosed today it is working on the development of nuclear counter-weapons designed to destroy intercontinental and other missiles.

The disclosure came in the twenty-third semi-annual report of the Atomic Energy Commission to Congress.

Referring to its previously announced weapons tests at Eniwetok next spring, the AEC said: "the forthcoming series will advance the development of weapons for defense against aggression whether airborne, missile-borne, or otherwise mounted."

The Government previously has hinted at work on atomic rockets and antiaircraft shells designed to pulverize airplanes, and has announced development of atomic depth charges to knock out submarines.

First Official Word.

This was the first official mention of efforts to neutralize missiles, including the intercontinental variety, with nuclear warheads.

Presumably, in the forthcoming Eniwetok tests, the AEC would mount an A-bomb or an H-bomb as the warhead of an actual missile to test the effective scope of the blast at theoretically interceptive ranges.

Along with its counter-weapons disclosure, the AEC mentioned a previously announced step to "streamline" development work on nuclear-powered planes and missiles. That was the creation of a joint AEC-Air Force executive office to manage the project and thereby cut down the need for interagency coordination.

As for progress on nuclear propulsion, the AEC only said experiments "went ahead."

Report on Other Work.

On other phases of its work, the AEC reported:

1. "Important gains" were made in the last six months in the field of nuclear weapons for defensive purposes, and weapons designed "greatly to reduce the radioactivity remaining after detonation."

2. Maximum exposure to radioactive fallout from last year's "Plumbbob" tests in Nevada by localities near the site was all below the acceptable level.

3. Average levels of radioactive strontium—a potential producer of bone cancer—in the bone structure of Americans has increased during the last year. But the average is still far below the recommended maximum acceptable level, the report indicated. The AEC was speaking about radioactive strontium resulting from all tests by the United States, Britain and Russia.

4. The use of radioactive isotopes is saving industry an estimated $500,000,000 annually—representing "the equivalent of a 7 per cent yearly dividend on the more than seven billion dollars in tax money that the federal government has invested on atomic energy plant and equipment between 1942 and 1958."

5. In the agricultural use of isotopes, "gains continued to be made in broadened knowledge and improved management of crops and livestock, and of diseases and pests that afflict both."

6. "Considerable progress" has been made in the diagnosis and localization of brain tumors with the use of radioactive iodine, and more recently, there also have been encouraging results with certain other radioactive materials in this use.

Referring to the upcoming tests of nuclear weapons at Eniwetok, the report said: "An important objective of the tests will be the further development of nuclear weapons with greatly reduced radioactive fallout so that radiation hazard may be restricted to the military target. This principle was first proved in the Pacific test series of 1956."

Referring to new test methods used in the 1957 Nevada tests—methods in which some nuclear devices were suspended from a balloon or placed deep underground—the report said: "The use of captive balloons to lift the experimental device to an altitude sufficient to prevent the detonation fireball from reaching the ground appreciably reduced local fallout of radioactive materials."

Latest Dulles Talk Commits U.S. Fully to Back Up Baghdad Allies

He Goes Beyond Former Pledge and Says Eisenhower Doctrine Is as Effective as Membership in Pact.

By SAM POPE BREWER
© New York Times News Service

ANKARA, Jan. 31—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told the Baghdad pact powers yesterday that the United States was fully committed to back up their defenses.

This was an interpretation of the Eisenhower doctrine that went beyond even what Dulles had said here on Monday, at the opening session. He said then that the Baghdad pact nations were among those President Eisenhower was authorized to aid with armed forces if they requested aid against armed aggression by a Communist-controlled country.

Yesterday he said the congressional resolution authorizing the Eisenhower doctrine had as much effectiveness as membership in the pact.

Interpretation Confirmed.

A qualified source confirmed last night that this is what Dulles had meant to say. The Secretary was addressing the concluding public meeting of the Baghdad pact's fourth session, which started here Monday. His statement brought the United States as close to membership in the Baghdad pact as it is possible to come without putting its signature on the document itself.

In recent weeks there has been heavy pressure from the Middle East countries of the pact—Iran, Iraq, Pakistan and Turkey—for the United States to join it. Britain is a member, though outside the geographical area of the pact.

Since April 1956 the United States has joined the various committees of the pact one by one — the counter-subversion committee, the economic committee, and finally the military committee.

Stronger Than Membership.

Yesterday's commitment appears to be even stronger than the pledge of the pact members to each other. The terms of the pact say only that they agree to co-operate for defense not that they agreed to defend each other.

American reluctance to join the pact when it was formed was ascribed originally to fear of losing the friendship of Egypt. At present, it is understood the State Department believes the Senate would refuse to approve it unless some special guarantee were given to Israel too. That would cause new trouble with the Arab states.

At this meeting, Dulles has taken a surprise position: he said the Eisenhower doctrine had committed the United States to defense of the Baghdad pact countries without need for membership in the pact.

He said yesterday: "The United States delegation has, I hope, made clear that the United States participates wholeheartedly in the commitment of the Baghdad pact to 'co-operate for security and defense.'"

Dulles's Explanation.

Dulles explained that although the United States had no treaty obligation with the pact countries the United States Government could assume equal obligations through a joint congressional resolution and "in this case we act pursuant to a congressional resolution."

Referring to the resolution that approved the so-called Eisenhower doctrine, Dulles said "it authorizes co-operation in the military and economic fields and, if need be, by military action. Our commitments coincide with the treaty commitments and we are backing them up by co-operative efforts in the political, economic and military fields. That has been made apparent at the meeting as we have reviewed the reports of the pact committees and have planned for the future."

HEAD OF SYRIA IN EGYPT FOR UNION CEREMONY

United Arab State Is Expected to Be Proclaimed Tomorrow or Sunday.

CAIRO, Jan. 31 (AP) — Syrian President Shukri Kuwatly arrived today to join with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt in proclaiming a "United Arab State" of their two nations. The proclamation is expected to be made tomorrow or Sunday.

Nasser, prospective president of the union, and Kuwatly embraced and kissed at the nearby Alamaza military airport as a 21-gun salute boomed. As they drove into Cairo together, triumphal arches were being set up and flags of the two nations hung out in preparation for the announcement.

Sources in Damasus, the capital of Syria, say Egypt and Syria have agreed to hold a plebiscite on a temporary constitution and an election of the first President. Nasser will be the only candidate for President, with Kuwatly expected to become vice president.

A date for the plebiscite—before Feb. 20—is expected to be set in Kuwatly's visit to Cairo.

A draft constitution reportedly already has been agreed upon in Cabinet meetings and joint discussions of the two Moslem nations. The Damascus sources said a joint temporary parliament will be formed from members of the two present parliaments.

Kuwatly was accompanied by Syrian Premier Sabri Assali, Foreign Minister Salah Bitar and Maj. Gen. Afif Bizry, Syrian chief of staff. MIG jets of the Syrian and Egyptian air forces, supplied to the two nations by the Soviet bloc, escorted the presidential plane.

Actually real union cannot take place for some time. The physical task of forming one government, one parliament, one army and even selecting one flag promises to be a long process.

By the United Press.

"We consider the unity of Egypt and Syria the nucleus for a great union of all the Arab states," Nasser declared. "We have no doubt a pan-Arab union would be a protective shield against imperialist conspiracies."

SCHOOL BOARD TO SEEK OK ON $1.51 TAX RATE, RISE OF 21 CENTS

Voters to Be Asked to Approve Higher Figure, Instead of Present $1.30, at March 18 Election.

The St. Louis Board of Education yesterday decided to seek voter approval of a tax rate of $1.51 on each $100 of assessed property valuation at a special election March 18. The amount sought is an increase of 21 cents over the present rate of $1.30, a rise of 15 per cent.

If approved by a majority of voters, the new rate would be in effect for the calendar years 1958 and 1959. If defeated, the rate would revert to 89 cents.

In addition to the present rate of $1.30, the school board levies a tax of 10 cents on each $100 assessed valuation for bond servicing purposes. This additional tax, which is automatically authorized whenever bonds are sold, will rise at least two cents next year when additional bonds will be outstanding. Hence, if the new rate for general purposes is approved, the total tax rate for school purposes next year would be at least $1.63.

No Dissent.

The board, meeting as a committee of the whole, voted without dissent to accept the recommendation of its five-member tax study committee, which cut at the last minute the rate it originally planned to recommend from $1.52 to $1.51.

As the tax matter was about to come up for discussion, the meeting was adjourned for 30 minutes while tax study committee members met hastily to consider objections by Oscar A. Ehrhardt and Daniel L. Schlafly.

Ehrhardt and Schlafly contended that the calculations indicated the board would have a larger reserve than it needed for unexpected expenses. Generally, a school district attempts to collect slightly more than it expects to spend to cover any unforeseen developments.

Ehrhardt and Schlafly argued that the $475,419 being allowed as a "cushion" was excessive. Other committee members agreed, and one was removed from the proposed tax rate, thus reducing the expected "cushion" to $155,418.

Under the $1.51 tax rate, the school board's income for the 1958-59 and 1959-60 fiscal years would total $72,760,576, it was estimated.

Projected budgets compiled by department heads anticipate expenditures in those fiscal years of $70,115,148. The difference between the income and expenditure figures is the "cushion" for unexpected appropriations and a cash balance of $2,500,000 which must be kept on hand to pay salaries during the summer period when there are virtually no tax collections. The money is restored when personal property and real estate taxes are paid.

The budget for the present fiscal year amounts to $32,352,033, a record. In the next fiscal year, 1958-59, it is expected to rise to $34,634,386 and in the 1959-60 fiscal year it will be $35,480,761.

Increased Expenditures.

In the next fiscal year the instruction department expects to spend $25,529,661, an increase of $1,932,712 over the present fiscal year, and the building department anticipates expenditures totaling $6,999,845, an increase of $844,179.

In the 1959-60 fiscal year, the instruction department anticipates spending $26,196,432 and the building department, $7,089,273.

Superintendent of Instruction Philip J. Hickey said the proposed increase for his department would cover the cost of a salary rise for 3200 teachers of $200 each and a slightly larger one for school administrators. This will total $715,225, he said.

In addition, there will be the annual increment for teachers that is already incorporated in their pay schedule, amounting to $440,000. Hickey also plans to hire 40 more teachers next year and an additional 40 the following year, increase the staff of guidance counselors from 18 to 25, add 11 clerks, eight special education teachers and four assistant teachers.

In the building department, Commissioner George H. Fletcher plans to spend $100,000 for the construction of permanent stands at the Roosevelt and O'Fallon school athletic fields and $81,000 for painting the interiors of 30 schools.

Returning Fugitives to Nebraska

CARIL FUGATE (center) staring from automobile at Douglas, Wyo., yesterday as she started trip back to Nebraska to face murder charges with Charles Starkweather. Her escort is MRS. EARL HEFLIN, wife of the sheriff at Douglas.

YOUNG KILLER OF 11 TELLS HOW 'HATE BUILT UP'

'Wanted to Be Outlaw' Since Childhood — He, Girl on Way to Lincoln, Nebr.

By THOMAS OTTENAD
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DOUGLAS, Wyo., Jan. 31—Charles Starkweather, who admitted killing 11 persons because "a hatred built up in me," gave some information about his shooting spree to Nebraska authorities today as he and his girl friend, Caril Fugate, were taken by automobile back to Lincoln, Neb. Ten of the killings occurred in the Lincoln area.

"Since I was a child, I wanted to be an outlaw, but not this big a one," the 19-year-old Starkweather was quoted as telling Sheriff Merle Karnopp of Lancaster county, Neb., who came here with other Nebraska authorities to return the pair to Lincoln. The teenagers are both charged in warrents with the murder of Miss Carol King, 16, of Bennet, Neb.

Wyoming officials waived jurisdiction yesterday after a two-hour conference between William P. Dixon, county and prosecuting attorney of Converse county here, and Elmer Scheele, county attorney of Lancaster county, of which Lincoln is the county seat. Starkweather is charged in a warrent issued here with the murder of Merle Collison, a salesman of Great Falls, Mont. Caril faced no charges here.

Starkweather, stocky, bowlegged and red-haired, was captured in a 110-mile-an-hour police chase Wednesday shortly after he shot Collison nine times with a .22-caliber rifle beside a highway 16 miles west of here.

Doesn't Like Gas Chamber.

"I want to go back to Nebraska," Starkweather was quoted as saying, "because Wyoming has a gas chamber and I don't like the smell of gas. I suppose they'll have the chair ready for me."

In addition to admitting nine killings in the Lincoln area and one in Wyoming in a five-day shooting spree, the youth has confessed, authorities said to the murder of a filling station attendant in Lincoln last Dec. 1.

Starkweather said he forced the attendant, Robert Colver, 21, into his automobile and drove to a desolate country road near Lincoln where he robbed Colver of $80. When Colver reached to remove a handkerchief mask from Starkweather's face, the youth shot Colver in the head with a shotgun, officials said.

Apparently the killing of Colver prayed on his mind, Sheriff Karnopp said, for Starkweather turned on Caril's family in a blind rage because they had resented his going with their daughter.

How Killings Started.

The 10 killings in the Lincoln area, Starkweather told Sheriff Karnopp, started with the shooting of Caril's stepfather, Marion S. Bartlett, 57, last Jan. 21.

"Starkweather told me he stopped by the Bartlett home that day for a visit on his way rabbit hunting," the Sheriff said. "He had his .22-caliber rifle with him and took it in the house with him.

"The boy told me an argument started with Bartlett. He said he 'got so mad' he shot Bartlett. Then he killed Mrs. Bartlett as she advanced on him as her husband lay dead on the floor. Later, he killed the 2-year-old baby, Betty Jean." Starkweather did not say how he killed the infant. An autopsy showed she died of a fractured skull.

"Starkweather apparently wanted to get the Bartlett family out of the way," the Sheriff continued. "He told me Caril was in school when he shot her mother, stepfather and half-sister. When she got home, he told her the family had gone out with some other people.

"He told me he stayed at the Bartlett home with Caril until last Monday. He got worried then because a relative of Caril threatened to get a search warrant to get into the house. The absence of the other members of the family had been noticed.

"When they left in Starkweather's car, they drove to the Bennet area, about 16 miles from Lincoln," he sheriff said.

"Starkweather's car got stuck in the driveway at the farm of August Myer (a bachelor farmer who used to hunt with Starkweather). The boy told me Myer came out of the house carrying a rifle. Starkweather assumed he had heard of the Bartlett killings and was prepared to defend himself. He shot the farmer as he stood on the porch.

"The kids managed to get the car out of the driveway and they drove around aimlessly for some time. Finally, they hid in a storm cellar at an abandoned school near Myer's farm for most of the day. Later, they returned to the farm and their car got stuck again.

"So, they took off on foot. It was dark and they came upon the automobile in which Miss King and Robert Jansen were parked. Starkweather told me he forced the boy and girl out of the machine with his rifle and marched them to the abandoned school where he and Caril had hidden earlier.

"Starkweather ordered Jansen into the storm cellar and the boy started in. But halfway down Jansen, who played football for Bennet High School, turned suddenly and charged Starkweather. 'Then I shot him,' Starkweather told me.

"He said Jansen's body fell back into the cellar. Then he said, 'I shot Carol King and threw her body into the cellar with Jansen.'"

"Then, Starkweather and the Fugate girl got in Jansen's automobile and left the Bennet area," the sheriff said. "They got as far as Hastings, Nebra., and turned around, returning to Lincoln at about 2 a.m. last Tuesday.

Took Nap in Car.

"They parked on the southern edge of the city and both took a nap in the car. Later they drove around and eventually parked near the home of C. Lauer Ward (president of the Capital Steel & Bridge Co.), and waited until Ward left the house for work Tuesday morning.

"Starkweather apparently wanted a hiding place. He drove the car into Ward's garage and closed the door. He got into the house somehow and told me he killed Mrs. Ward and the housekeeper, Miss Lillian Fencel. He and Caril stayed at the Ward home all that day.

"When Ward came home that evening, there was a struggle between Starkweather and the owner of the home and the youth shot Ward.

"He and the girl took the Ward Packard—that was the car he was captured in in Douglas—and left Lincoln, intending to go to the State of Washington where he has a brother. It was on this trip that he drove through Douglas. They had the radio in the car turned on and knew they were wanted.

They went to the office on the first floor where they knocked the combination off the safe and took the money.

CHIEFS DENY ORDERING LONDE SEIZED ON SIGHT

Kept Him, 'All Other Hoodlums' Under Surveillance, They Testify.

St. Louis police officials denied issuing orders to arrest Isadore Londe, gangster, on sight, but acknowledged having kept him "and all other hoodlums" under close surveillance, in testimony before United States District Judge Randolph H. Weber today.

Chief of Detectives James E. Chapman, on the witness stand in Londe's suit to enjoin him and other police officers from arresting London without cause, testified Londe was picked up several times for questioning in the murder of Robert L. Brown, parliamentarian for the Board of Aldermen and a tobacco and vending machine dealer.

Brown was shot to death in gang-style Jan. 24, 1956, six weeks after Londe was released from the Missouri Penitentiary after serving 16 years of a 25-year term for an industrial bombing.

Chapman testified one reason he was suspicious of Londe was that he and two gangster associates, Anthony Giardano and Anthony Lopiparo, had let it be known that they were in Las Vegas, Nev., the day of the murder, and in fact were there, registered in their own names. Ordinarily hoodlums register under assumed names, Chapman said.

"I thought Londe surely had knowledge of the murder and knew who did it," the detective chief asserted.

Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell, describing a talk he and Chapman had with Londe after Londe's release from prison, told of Londe's assurance that he would not get mixed up with gangsters.

O'Connell said he told Londe: "Conditions have changed in St. Louis. There are no gangs in St. Louis and we will not tolerate them."

Although both O'Connell and Chapman denied the on-sight arrest orders, a police report introduced in evidence showed that Detective Sgt. Frank Burns and former Detective Joseph Spiess of the hoodlum squad had told Londe on his arrest Feb. 15, 1956, that he was to be arrested on sight.

Yesterday Judge Weber, after testimony by Londe about repeated arrests since his release from the penitentiary, overruled motions for dismissal of the suit as to O'Connell, Chapman and Capt. John Doherty of the hoodlum squad, but sustained dismissal motions as to the other defendants, members of the former Board of Police Commissioners under I. A. Long.

Bernard J. Mellman, attorney for Londe, arguing against dismissal, declared the frequent arrests without warrants had violated Londe's civil rights under the due process clause of the Constitution.

Formal Deactivation Ceremonies Held at Naval Air Station Here

The Naval Air Station at Lambert-St. Louis Field, which was established in its present quarters in 1941 as part of the nation's mobilization before World War II, was deactivated today in ceremonies at the flag pole.

In accordance with the tradition that a commanding officer does not preside at the decommissioning of his ship, Capt. Clayton L. Miller, commanding officer of the station, was not present.

Commander Edwin Fischer, executive officer, who spoke briefly, said he had been asked by Capt. Miller to extend best wishes to the remaining Naval personnel and his gratitude for a job well done, which involved "moving a mountain of material and processing a mountain of paper work."

"The Secretary of the Navy has directed that the Naval Air Station, St. Louis, be disestablished this day," Comdr. Fischer said. "Behind us we leave 35 years of Naval aviation activity in this area—27 years of it in installations at Lambert Field. We take with us fond memories of our shipmates, the good will of the community and the satisfaction of doing our duty well.

'Moment of Deep Regret.'

"Many of you have served at this station for 10 years and longer. Many of our guests present today have participated in the early beginnings of Naval aviation at St. Louis—to you this occasion must be especially heartfelt. To all of us who have served here, this moment comes with deep regret."

As Comdr. Fischer said: "As directed by the Secretary of the Navy, the Naval Air Station is disestablished," a color guard began lowering the flag while the National Anthem was heard over a loud speaker.

To Lt. Herbert Wieseman (Naval Reserve Ret.), 2913 Walton road, St. John, who raised the flag at the first Naval Air Station here in 1931, was given the honor of gathering in the last flag. It was returned, however to Government custody.

Three jet planes, which have been declared obsolete by the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, have been given to O'Fallon Technical High School for instructional purposes in its aeromechanics department. Other air stations were offered the planes but there were no takers. The planes are to be towed by tractor to the school, 5101 Northrup avenue.

As a result of closing of the station, a junk heap in the rear of the installation has grown to considerable proportions in the last month, arousing some criticism on the part of neighborhood residents.

Capt. Miller said that articles placed on the dump had value only as scrap, and the Air National Guard, in taking over part of the installation, has agreed to take care of the dump, either burning the refuse or carrying away noncombustible material.

Followed Orders on Weapons.

Commenting on reports that obsolete weapons have been consigned to the junk pile, Capt. Miller said no usable ordnance equipment was ever discarded. He said orders on disposition of weapons came from the Bureau of Ordnance and were followed.

Officers of that bureau, weapons experts, had determined that the discarded ordnance was no longer of any value to the Navy and might be dangerous in civilian hands, he said. All were damaged beyond repair and their destruction, in accordance with orders, was witnessed by three officers. The metal is picked up periodically by a contractor who pays the Government for whatever he can use, Capt Miller said.

Col. Charles H. DuBois, commander of the 131st Fighter Interceptor Wing of the Missouri Air National Guard, which is taking over most of the installation, said he was completely satisfied with the condition in which the Navy is leaving the property.

WAITRESS ROBBED OF $63

Dorothy Shaw, a waitress in a restaurant at 3352 Laclede avenue, was robbed of $63 in the establishment last night, she reported to police. She said a man sat down at the lunch counter, produced a revolver and demanded money. He escaped on foot.

TAVERN ROBBED OF $7000 BY 3 IN GRANITE CITY

Bartender Held Up Shortly After Opening—Robbers Wear Halloween Masks.

A tavern at 2401 Edwards street, Granite City, was robbed of about $7000 early today by three armed men who entered the place shortly after it was opened and held up the bartender, Thomas Sansoussi.

Each of the robbers displayed a revolver and wore a Halloween mask. While one stood guard at the front door, the others kept two men customers from interfering, and then proceeded to take the loot from a money box behind the bar. It was just after 6 a.m.

The holdup men also seized money from the cash register, and ransacked a rear room in a search for more, but found none.

They fled in a late-model automobile.

The money was in small bills, the largest being $20. Sansoussi said the cash was on hand to cash payroll checks.

One of the robbers tore the telephone from the wall, and police were called by one of the customers who went to a home nearby.

A description of the automobile was broadcast, and police set up roadblocks at McKinley and Chain of Rocks bridges and also at other points.

A third customer walked in while the robbery was in progress and was ordered to take his place quietly with the others.

FCC Charges

hearings, which will run at least three days.

Each of the seven commissioners, Moulder said, will receive a "bill of particulars" and copies of a secret subcommittee memorandum containing allegations that five of them accepted favors from the communications industry they are supposed to regulate.

Chairman Doerfer has said he and four other commissioners received color television sets from the Radio Corporation of America.

The others, Doerfer said last week, were commissioners Hyde, Bartley, Lee and Mack. Commissioners Ford and Craven, the more recent appointees, did not receive TV sets, Doerfer said.

The FCC chairman, appointed to the commission in 1953, has admitted accepting a $300 fee from the broadcasting industry in the form of a padded travel voucher. He also acknowledged charging the Government for his travel expenses for the same trip.

Federal Law Cited.

Comptroller General Joseph Campbell has informed the subcommittee that federal law prohibits a federal official from receiving per diem travel expenses from the Government in cases where part or all of his travel costs are paid by private sources.

Dr. Bernard Schwartz, chief counsel, whose report on the FCC produced a controversy within the subcommittee, was invited to yesterday's closed meeting, the first executive session he has attended.

There have been rumors that the counsel might resign over reported opposition by some subcommittee members to his energetic investigation of alleged improprieties in the FCC and some other federal regulatory agencies.

After the meeing, however, Schwartz told the Post-Dispatch: "I do not intend to resign—I shall not resign."

Will Ask Questions.

When Moulder was asked after yesterday's meeting whether Schwartz would resign, he replied only: "No comment." A few minutes later he was asked whether Schwartz would be permitted to ask questions at next week's hearings.

"As long as I am presiding as chairman, the chief counsel will ask questions," Moulder answered.

A reporter wanted to know whether the subcommittee will subpena books and records of the FCC. "That may be in the bill of particulars," the chairman replied.

Representative John Bell Williams (Dem.), Mississippi, a subcommittee member, said Wednesday a document — its importance undisclosed — was "missing" from the FCC files, indicating that subcommittee investigators have gone through the files. The subcommittee wound up the first phase of its inquiry yesterday. Chairman Edward N. Gadsby of the Securities and Exchange Commission was the final witness.

General Survey.

The first set of hearings, which began last Monday, was concerned with a general survey of six big federal regulatory agencies. The subcommittee sought to determine whether the agencies have administered the law in conformity with the intent of Congress.

A second area of concern was whether the regulatory boards and commissions, which Congress intended to be independent of the executive branch, have come under White House domination or influence.

The hearings starting Monday will take up the question of whether some members of the regulatory bodies have had close associations with representatives of the industries they regulate, have accepted favors and thereby cast doubt on their impartiality.

Although the FCC is scheduled to be the first agency heard from, members of others are expected to be called. There have been persistent reports that the subcommittee has evidence of lavish gifts to members of the Civil Aeronautics Board from various airlines.

The agencies being studied by the supbcommittee, in addition to the FCC, CAB and SEC, are the Federal Trade Commission, Federal Power Commission and Interstate Commerce Commission.

Schwartz's memorandum outlined eight specific charges against some members of the FCC but did not identify the commissioners by name. The allegations were:

1. "A commissioner was fully reimbursed by the industry for the expenses incurred by him and his wife in attending an industry convention at which he delivered an address. This commissioner also claimed from and was paid by the Government his full expenses (travel and per diem) to attend the same convention.

"Such duplication of expense accounts apparently involves a criminal felony in that a 'false, fictitious, or fraudulent' claim was filed against the United States within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. S 287 by the commissioner in question.

2. "Members of the commission have had their room, board and other expenses (e.g., cafe, valet, golf fees, etc.) paid by the industry while attending industry conventions. At the same time, these commissioners have claimed and received per diem from the Government for living expenses incurred by them in attending the same conventions.

3. "Members of the commission have had their hotel bills paid by the industry while attending industry conventions. At the same time they have claimed and received per diem from the Government for living expenses incurred by them in attending the same conventions.

Wives' Expenses Paid.

4. "Members of the commission have had their wives' expenses paid for by the industry for attendance at industry functions.

5. "Members of the commission engage in constant fraternization with individuals and corporations who appear as litigants before the commission. This includes such things as payment by individuals, corporations or associations subject to the commission's regulatory authority of commissioners' entertainment, travel, payment of hotel bills, and the like.

6. "Members of the commission have received for their personal use color television sets and other communications equipment.

7. "Members of the commission have received free service contracts for their personal television, radio and hi-fi sets from a company which appears as a litigant before the commission. These free contracts involve savings of up to several hundreds of dollars per year for the particular commission member concerned.

8. "Members of the commission have used commission telephones (at Government expense) to make purely personal telephone calls."

Received 'Honorarium.'

Although Chairman Doerfer acknowledged receiving the $300 fee in 1954 from the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, he said he "assumed they were giving me an honorarium" for making a speech at an association meeting at Spokane, Wash.

He said the law permits FCC members to "accept a reasonable honorarium or compensation" for speech-making.

Defense Bill

To Seek Counter-Missile Fund.

The Army is preparing a request for more money to speed up works on a counter-missile. The hope is to cut down the gap between the time when the Soviets may have a battle-ready Intercontinental Ballistic Missile and the day when this country will have a weapon to knock it down.

Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, acting Army chief of staff, so testified at a secret hearing of the House Armed Services Committee. A heavily censored version of his testimony, given last Friday, was made public today.

Earlier, the committee had heard testimony that "the very earliest" the Soviet I.C.B.M. could be operational would be July of this year and that the United States Army, if its anti-missile missile efforts were speeded up, might have a "significant" defense against I.C.B.M.s by 1962.

The transcript released today showed Representative Leslie Arends (Rep.), Illinois, asking Lemnitzer whether a decision is being made on "more equipment, more money, and so on and so forth" to speed development of the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile.

Lemnitzer replied that the Army, at the request of Defense Department Missiles Director William M. Holoday, "is preparing a request of resources to proceed on this accelerated program."

Lemnitzer's published replies to questions about speeding the program were riddled with security deletions, but he apparently told the committee a decision would have to be made soon about deploying the Nike-Zeus in position to counter any I.C.B.M. attacks.

Control of Seas Jeopardized.

By the United Press.

The Navy said today that its tight budget plus the Soviet submarine threat jeopardizes United States control of the seas. Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, said Russia's growing sea power confronts the West with "one of its greatest challenges."

Burke also told the House Armed Services Committee that budget restrictions have forced the Navy to make "drastic" cuts in some activities in order to find money for modern ships and weapons required to keep control of the seas in United States hands.

Burke appeared before the committee with Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr., who said this country should "base a great deal more" of its military strength "on and under the sea." The threat is not solely from long-range Soviet missiles and H-bombs, Gates argued.

Ex-Mobilization Chief Urges Unified Command.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 31 (AP)—A former chairman of the Defense Mobilization Board says the Defense Department should place the three armed services under a unified command.

"The time has come to stop the three units from going their own way," said Arthur S. Flemming, president of Ohio Wesleyan University.

Flemming spoke last night to the college-industry conference of the American Society for Engineering Education at the University of Michigan.

He was a member of the National Security Council 4½ years in addition to directing the mobilization board.

"We must have a plan for getting swift, effective defense decisions," Flemming said in urging a unified military command.

Calling this "an age of peril" and "not a short-lived emergency," he said Communism must be dealt with from a position of strength.

He said education must be spotlighted and its most serious problem is adequate compensation for teachers.

Rackets Inquiry

ants have run for 29 years without benefit of an election. Balaban said Maloney also pocketed $2000 cash in connection with these purchases.

International's Share.

The other Cadillac and the Imperial — the latter bought from labor racketeer Joey Fay —were paid for by the international union, which also pays for the apartment, chauffeur, maid and telephone service.

The committee took the testimony about the automobiles in rounding out a record of what rewards Maloney has reaped as president of the Operating Engineers.

There was testimony yesterday that hs has drawn hundreds of thousands of dollars in expense money as well as his $55,000 a year salary.

Balaban ticked off what he termed selected items recorded by Local 150 as having been bought with its funds for Maloney, including:

A diamond and platinum wrist watch, $1250; eight hams $107; insurance $144; a pair of shoes $24; an RCA television $585; TV conversion (not further explained) $125.

He was asked whether Maloney passed any of these items on to others as gifts.

"Not that we know of," Balaban replied. "They were received by him."

Struggle for Union Power.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee would explore bitter power fights in the Union's Chicago Locals 150 and 399, and whether the still "the box car figures" of Maunsolved murder of Dennis Bruce Ziegler in 1933 was linked to these.

Staff investigators testifying yesterday accused Maloney of taking $171,110 of illegitimate expense money from union funds and failing to declare the money in his income tax returns. In all, they said Maloney received $353,560 from the union from 1950 through 1956. They described the remainder as "partly legitimate."

Investigators Balaban and Marshall T. Gould teamed up in charging that Maloney's income tax returns for the seven years from 1950 through 1956 showed he had reported income of $388,578 to the tax collectors while actually drawing $742,228.

James R. Bansley of Chicago, an accountant who said he made out Maloney's tax returns for those years, told the committee he was shocked and surprised by the evidence he was seeing about what he termed loney's expense account income. He called it news to him.

Balaban and Gould said union records show Maloney collected thousands of dollars on expense accounts for attending meetings on dates when he was ill in hospitals. They and other witnesses said the union paid the $130,000 bill to buy and operate a yacht for years for pleasure trips for Maloney, his guests and other union officials.

No Check on Union Books.

Unions are tax exempt now, and Internal Revenue officials say they have no authority to audit union books. McClellan said this makes it possible for union officials to steal huge sums, which never show up on their tax returns and thus never are taxed.

McClellan referred to testimony that Maloney had collected "double and triple" expenses from various union funds for many trips, charged the union nearly $9000 for his membership in a Florida golf club and in various race tracks; $17,472 for a Washington apartment, and $1444 for personal purchases not spelled out in the testimony.

Third Satellite

have plagued the American satellite program.

The United States government is reported to have a long-range radar tracking station in Turkey which keeps check on Soviet missile launchings. This installation normally would be unable to detect preparations for tests, only track missiles once they have been fired. Thus it would not be a likely source for the new report.

High Winds Again Delay Plans for U.S. Launching.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP) — High winds eight to 10 miles overhead grounded any plans for launching an earth satellite today and might continue to do so for several days to come.

Gales up to 230 miles an hour surged across central Florida and the Bahamas area at altitudes of from 40,000 to 45,000 feet. They were part of a high-altitude jet stream, a river of high winds extending virtually all the way from the Pacific coast.

dicted the temperature, which was 27 degrees at 3 p.m., would drop to 15 to 20 degrees by morning. The storm was accompanied by a 10-mile-an-hour wind, but the wind was expected to increase to 25 to 35 miles an hour. This would cause drifting of the heavy snow.

HOUSE VOTES TAX SAVINGS BILL FOR INSURANCE FIRMS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (UP) —The House overwhelmingly approved yesterday an Administration-sponsored measure to save life insurance companies frompaying up to $135,000,000 a year more in taxes.

The bill, now awaiting Senate action, would extend for one year the present stop-gap formula used in taxing life insurance companies.

The Treasury requested the extension to give the Administration time to draft and Congress to enact a permanent tax formula.

Unless the measure is approved, the 1957 income of life insurance companies would be taxed under a system set up in 1942 but which has not been used since 1950. The present stop-gap method was enacted in 1955. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee said the 1942 tax formula was unfair.

G. J. MOONEY APPOINTED TO MENTAL HEALTH UNIT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 31 —G. J. Nooney, 406 Hawthorne avenue, Webster Groves, was appointed yesterday by Gov. James T. Blair as a member of the State Mental Health Commisison. He succeeds the late Powell McHaney of St. Louis, who was killed last December in an automobile accident in Washington.

Blair also appointed Alex Vetter, Jefferson City banker, as a member of the State Hospital Advisory Council, to fill a vacancy.

DRUMMING UP BUSINESS

BERLIN, Jan. 31 (AP)—West Berlin police finally got suspicious after Werner Pfefferkorn, an East Berlin musician, toted his big bass drum across the border 250 times in 2½ years. They stopped him and looked into it.

Now Pfefferkorn is under arrest on a charge of smuggling $11,500 worth of Communist-made chinaware musical clocks and other goods in the drum and selling them in West Berlin.

JUDGE NAMES 3 MONITORS FOR TEAMSTERS UNION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) —The three men who will oversee the activities of James R. Hoffa as president of the Teamsters union were named today by United States District Judge F. Dickson Letts.

Nathan Cayton, a retired judge of the Municipal Court of Appeals in Washington, will serve as neutral member and chairman of the board of monitors. The other members are L. N. D. Wells Jr. of Dallas, Tex., attorney for the Southern Conference of Teamsters, and Godfrey P. Schmidt, New York lawyer who was nominated by 13 New York members of the union who had sued to invalidate the election of Hoffa.

FEW VACANCIES LISTED IN CITY'S PUBLIC HOUSING

There are comparatively few vacancies in St. Louis public housing projects, officials said today. Of 6201 apartments in seven projects in the city 196 are unoccupied, the vacancy ratio being 3.1 per cent.

In opposing the proposal for a new Jefferson Barracks housing project, John T. Carson, executive director of the South County Civic Committee, told the St. Louis County Council Wednesday that the St. Louis Housing Authority "is now seeking tenants for its projects."

The St. Louis agency said, however, that it is not necessary to seek tenants for its low-rent apartments now. There has been a steady flow of applicants which actually has increased recently.

At Carr Square Village, there are only 10 vacancies among 658 housing units; Clinton Peabody Terrace, 5 among 657; Cochran Garden Apartments, 11 of 704; Pruitt Homes, 73 of 1736; Igoe Apartments, 28 of 1134; Vaughn Apartments, 60 of 656 (these being in a building opened last month), and Darst Apartments, 9 of 656.

The Housing Authority considers the present vacancies merely sufficient to accommodate normal turnover in its projects. When vacancies are more numerous than usual, word is circulated among low-income families that apartments are available. Several years ago the agency advertised on streetcars and busses, partly to inform the public that its offices had been moved from Washington avenue to 2031 Olive street.

BIG-STORE SALES IN DOLLARS RISE 3 PCT. FOR WEEK

Department store sales in the St. Louis area last week were 3 per cent higher in dollar volume than in the corresponding period of 1957, the Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday. For the Eighth Federal Reserve District as a whole, which comprises parts of seven states, dollar volume was off 2 per cent, however.

Sales across the country were off 3 per cent for the week.

In the four-week period ending last Saturday, the St. Louis area showed a gain of 1 per cent, while the Eighth District as a whole registered a decline estimated at 2 per cent.

DIPLOMAT REPORTED IN SUICIDE ATTEMPT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (UP)—Diplomat Victor Purse today was reported recovering from an attempt to commit suicide by inhaling gas.

Purse was criticized last year when he accepted a gift automobile for his wife from Arabia's King Saud.

Dr. Grace Purse said her son, former Deputy Chief of State Department Protocol, might have died except "for the grace of God and my maternal instinct" which prompted her to sound the alarm when Purse failed to answer his phone.

She attributed the episode to "family troubles" in which the $3000 convertible played at least a part.

The 39-year-old Purse was found yesterday on the kitchen floor of his suburban Arlington apartment, wrapped in a blanket and with his head on a pillow. The stove's gas jets were on and the oven door was open.

He was rushed to Arlington County Hospital where he responded to treatment.

Capt. Dudley Rector, chief of Arlington detectives whose men investigated the case, called it "a case of attempted suicide." Rector said the case was closed unless Purse died.

Dr. Purse said her son had been bothered by family difficulties since he and his wife, Elsie, separated recently.

Purse was accused by the State Department of "bad judgment" after it was disclosed that he had permitted his wife to accept the convertible. He later was transferred from his protocol post to head of the department's Bureau of International Organization Affairs.

Everybody Here Sees Kelly.

Standing beside him will be the adjutant, Maj. James Kelly. Woodrow Wilson Kelly is the outfit's sergeant major. They are not related.

ACCUSED IN $8000 EMBEZZLEMENT

Frank J. Juhasz, former assistant secretary of the Madison County Federal Savings & Loan Association, Granite City, was at liberty under $5000 bond today on a federal charge growing out of alleged embezzlement of $8000 from the association.

Juhasz, of 1602 Poplar street, Granite City, surrendered at Springfield, Ill., yesterday and made bond before United States Commissioner William B. Chittenden.

Assistant United States Attorney Edward Casey of Springfield said Juhasz's peculations in 1957 had been turned up in a routine inspection of the association's books by bank examiners.

Casey said Juhasz's procedure was to make false entries in association books showing withdrawals by depositors, issue checks in the those amounts payable to the depositors' indorsements and cash the checks.

The warrant against Juhasz charges a specific theft of $800, Casey said.

An association official told the Post-Dispatch that Juhasz, 34 years old and father of three small children, had admitted the embazzlements and said he spent the money "on my children and my home, not on myself."

He had worked for the association three years before his discharge two weeks ago, it was stated.

130 LAID OFF RECENTLY BY INTERNATIONAL SHOE

One hundred and thirty employes of International Shoe Co. here have been laid off recently, largely as a result of consolidation of warehouse operations, a spokesman said today.

Stocks of shoes have been concentrated in two warehouses instead of three. Layoffs were spread over several months of last year.

U.S. UNIT ARMED WITH REDSTONE GOING TO EUROPE

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—The United States plans to send to West Germany in June an Army unit equipped with Redstone ballistic missiles, largest and longest ranged operational weapons of this kind in the free world today.

The Army unit now planned for deployment abroad is the Fortieth Field Artillery Missile Group. Reliable sources said it will be assigned to Headquarters, United States Army, Europe, which is located at Heidelberg, West Germany.

The Army-developed Redstone, which can carry a nuclear warhead, is a liquid-fuel ballistic misile with a 200-mile range. It is 79 feet long, 70 inches in diameter and weighs about 61,000 pounds when ready to be launched. It is a mobile weapon with a portable launcher. Experts say if the Redstone is on site but not fueled or equipped with a warhead, it can be readied for firing and launched in 30 minutes.

Possible Objectives.

If sited in West Germany, the Redstone could reach easily into East Germany and some sections of Czechoslovakia.

First indication of the United States plan to send the Redstone overseas came last week from Army officers testifying before the House Armed Services Committee.

Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, vice Chief of Staff, told the committee "it is true that the Army is presently engaged in perparing to put the Redstone into the field army. Actually, it is going into Europe. It is going to Europe this year."

A few minutes later, Maj. Gen. Dwight E. Beach, director of guided missiles in the Army's military operations division, told the Congressmen the Redstone "will be deployed overseas in June of this year."

Reluctant With Details.

The Army was reluctant yesterday to outline publicly further details on the plan to send the Redstone to Europe, on grounds that the State and Defense Departments were involved in the matter and that disclosure of plans to send nuclear weapons abroad might raise some delicate international problems.

The latter excuse was somewhat puzzling, since the Army already has in Europe its Honest John rockets and 75-mile range Corporal ballistic missiles, both of which can carry atomic warheads. Air Force Matador guided missiles in Europe have similar capabilities.

Reliable sources said, however, that the Fortieth Field Artillery Missile Group, now stationed at Huntsville, Ala., is the unit planned for deployment to West Germany. The Fortieth was formed last Sept. 9 and has been training since with the Redstone. At one time the Defense Department reportedly was considering converting the unit into this country's first intermediate range ballistic missile team, but that idea apparently was abandoned.

Composition of Group.

The Fortieth, commanded by Col. Robert C. Gildart, consists of some 600 officers and men. It is made up of an ordnance and engineering company and the 217th Field Artillery battalion, which handles the Redstone. The battalion has two batteries, each with one missile launcher.

Deployment of Redstones in Europe will swell the Army's and NATO's ballistic missible capabilities but will not balance off comparable capabilities in the Russian army. The Russians are field-equipped with 350-mile and probably with 700-mile range missiles, either of which can be equipped with atomic warheads and fired to greater distances than the Redstones.

The latter are the longest-range operational ballistic missiles today in the United States arsenal. This country is developing and producing 1500-mile ballistic weapons but they are not yet in combat readiness.

RETREAT CEREMONY MARKS CLOSING OF FT. CROWDER

Once there were 47,000 soldiers. Only 150 enlisted men and 15 officers are left for the official finale.

Fort Crowder was built in 1941 as a Signal Corps training center. It was named after Gen. Enoch Crowder, a Missourian who was director of selective service in World War I. It was declared surplus after World War II but reactivated as a reception center during the fighting in Korea and later converted to a disciplinary barracks.

MARY INSTITUTE BUILDING FUND REACHES $648,665

A total of $648,665 has been received toward a $1,000,000 goal for a building program at Mary Institute, it was announced last night at a report meeting at the school.

Norfleet Rand, campaign director, told parents of students that workers in the fund drive are "cautiously optimistic."

Other speakers were Victor Eggerding, co-chairman of the drive; Ronald Beasley, headmaster; and Chancelor Ethan A. H. Shepley of Washington University, honorary co-chairman.

3 HIGH RED CHINA OFFICIALS OUSTED, ACCUSED OF PLOT

TOKYO, Jan. 31 (UP)—Communist China announced the dismissal today of three high-ranking officials charged with anti-Communist activities and plotting to overthrow the Peiping regime.

A Peiping radio broadcast said Chairman Mao Tsze-tung had ordered the dismissal of Chang Po-chun, former minister of communications; Lo Lung-chi, former minister of the timber industry, and Chang Nai-thai, a high Food Ministry official.

The radio said the dismissal order was reported by Mao at a meeting of the state council which is preparing for the plenary session of the National People's Congress opening tomorrow.

The three officials apparently were victims of Mao's call last year for criticism of the Communist party. They spoke out against the party and immediately found themselves in trouble.

HOUSE OF LORDS VOTES BILL TO ADMIT WOMEN

© New York Times News Service

LONDON, Jan. 31—The House of Lords gave final and unanimous approval yesterday to a bill that would admit women to the upper chamber of the British Parliament.

The proposal also would establish life peerages for both men and women to permit them to sit as members of the Lords throughout their lifetimes. To become law, the bill must also be approved by the House of Commons.

At present the House of Lords is composed of 878 members. Some seldom attend its sessions, others never attend. All have hereditary titles except 10 judges, known as law lords, and 24 bishops and two archbishops of the Church of England, who are lords spiritual.

The new life peerages for men and women would expire when they die. The supporters of the bill hope that the new peers would make the house more representative and give it greater vitality. The life peers would be appointed by the Queen on the recommendation of the Prime Minister.

QUEUES-JUMPING RUSSIAN OFFICERS' WIVES CRITICIZED

MOSCOW, Jan. 31 (AP)—Rank may have its privilages for military officers, but a Soviet general's wife should stand in shopping lines like anyone else.

Red Star, the military newspaper, reported that one colonel's lady habitually pulled her husband's high rank to jump queues. She has been criticized by other officer's wives, the paper reported.

BROADER POLICE SEARCH POWERS URGED BY JURY

Police need broader powers of search and arrest to crack down on the carrying of concealed weapons by unauthorized persons, the December term grand jury declared today in its final report to Circuit Judge Franklin E. Reagan.

Citing the large number of homicides committed with concealable weapons such as knives and pistols, the jury stated:

"If we propose to minimize the number of homicides, we should first minimize the instances of concealed weapons in the hands of unauthorized parties. It is not enough to increase the penalty for having concealed weapons so much as it is to increase the reasons for which arrests can be made when possession of concealed weapons is suspected.

"We recognize that this may require an act by the Legislature to write such provisions under law. If that is necessary, then we urge the Legislature to look into this matter."

Present Limitaations.

State law now imposes sharp limits on police power to search a person for concealed weapons. A policeman may not stop an individual and search him without what the law terms "reasonable cause." There must be good reason for the policeman's suspicion, including reference to a particular crime.

The grand jury noted that positive steps are being taken to carry out recommendations made by previous juries for dealing with juvenile offenders.

"During this term we have seen the establishment of the first full-time juvenile judge," its report stated, "and while the time to measure its effects is short, there is ample evidence of a sound approach and intelligent direction to the juvenile program, and we can see a light of hope even though somewhat in the distance."

Clinic Planned.

Judge David A. McMullan, who took office Jan. 1 as the first full-time juvenile court judge, is preparing a revised budget to provide for establishment of a psychiatric and medical clinic. The clinic would occupy four basement rooms in the Children's Building which now are used for storage of records.

The clinic would be staffed by a psychiatrist, a psychologist and a psychiatric social worker who would work on a half-time basis. The new budget also will propose employment of an administrative assistant to the juvenile court judge.

Steps are being taken to eliminate fire hazards in the Children's Building. A gymnasium which had fallen into disuse is being reconditioned, and other rooms are being replastered and repainted.

WOMEN IN CAR QUESTIONED, BURGLARY SUSPECT SEIZED

Questioning of two women sitting in a parked automobile on Ladue road east of Spoede road in Creve Coeur last night resulted in the arrest of a burglary suspect as he ran out of a house near by.

Capt. Joseph M. Murphy made the arrest as he was checking homes in the vicinity, whose occupants were absent, after the women told him their men companions had gone for gasoline. Attendants at two filling stations in the vicinity had not seen them.

The man arrested said he was Robert R. Willis, 23 years old, a former convict, of the 4500 block of Gibson avenue, St. Louis. As he ran out the rear door of the home of Miss Florentine Gerdes at 25 Spoede road, when Capt. Murphy drove into the driveway, another man ran out the front door and escaped. Two bedrooms had been ransacked but nothing had been taken.

VENEZUELA ACTS TO TIE UP ASSETS THAT PERON LEFT

CARACAS, Jan. 31 (AP) — The provisional government of Venezuela moved yesterday to freeze all assets in Venezuela of Argentina's ousted dictator, Juan D. Peron.

Dr. Humberto Cardenas Becerra, income tax administrator, said the assets would be tied up to assure payment of income taxes and unpaid bills of Peron and his friends. They fled to the Dominican Republic after last week's revolution toppled President Marcos Perez Jimenez.

Caracas newspapers said Peron deposited more than $200,000,000 in Caracas banks. These reports were unconfirmed. Peron denied before he left that he had investments in Venezuela and insisted he was a poor man. He withdrew whatever funds he had in the banks before his departure, he said.

Reports persisted that he had invested in several commercial enterprises, including $500,000 in a racing stable.

STORE HEAD THREATENED BY MAN STEALING WHISKY

John Wolverton, manager of the Bettendorf supermarket at Clayton and Hanley roads in Clayton, reported to police he was threatened by a man who took two bottles of whisky and left without paying yesterday.

Wolverton said he followed him outside and asked, "where are you going with our whisky?" The man then drew a knife, got into an automobile and drove off, he said.

STATE SUPREME COURT STUDIES NO-STRIKE LAW

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 31 —A case of challenging constitutionality of the King-Thompson law which forbids any strike by employes of a public utility was taken under advisement today by the Missouri Supreme Court.

The challenge grew out of a 13-day strike by employes of Laclede Gas Co. in St. Louis in July 1956.

The Supreme Court has not passed on validity of provisions of the law which enable the state to seize a strike-bound public utility and require continued operation, although some phases of the act have been before the higher court.

Before the court today was an appeal by counsel for three labor unions of employes of Laclede, directly raising the question of constitutionality. The appeal was taken from a ruling against the unions by Circuit Judge Ivan Lee Holt Jr. of St. Louis, in July 1956.

In that case, Judge Holt granted an injunction sought by the state against further continuation of a strike of 2200 Laclede employes, who then returned to work. He denied the petition of the three gas worker unions for a declaratory judgment holding the no-strike law unconstitutional.

Reversal Urged.

Counsel for the three locals of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, Morris J. Levin and Donald S. Siegel of St. Louis, in a brief submitted today urged the Supreme Court to reverse the lower court ruling, which enjoined continuation of the strike, and to hold the 1947 act unconstitutional and void.

They contended the no-strike law, enacted by the Legislature in 1947 following several utility strikes, was in conflict with the National Labor Relations Act and amendments, and contravened provisions of the Federal and State Constitutions.

The statute, it was asserted, was unconstitutional and void, in all its provisions, because it was "an attempt to legislate and regulate in an area fully pre-empted by Federal law."

"The uncertain status of the employment rights and other legal relations of all defendant members of the local unions requires a decision by this court," it was said, "and the declaratory judgment act vests in the court full right and authority to declare those rights, and the status and other legal relations of the workers."

Form of Involuntary Servitude.

"Invalidity of the Missouri seizure law cannot be cured," it was asserted "by a finding or proclamation by the Governor of the state—even if it be true—that facts exist amounting to an emergency."

It was urged the right to bargain collectively with an employer included the right to strike, and that the no-strike statute imposed a form of compulsory service or involuntary servitude on utility workers.

Attorney Levin asked the court to rule specifically on the seniority status of utility employes who strike. The King-Thompson law provides that such workers shall lose their seniority and be re-employed only as new workers. Levin contended that this section of the act should be invalidated.

When the Laclede walkout was terminated, he pointed out, the company and the three unions entered into a contract which recognized the former seniority of the workers. Should the court uphold the law in its entirety, he argued, "we have a contract that is not enforceable."

Counsel for the state, including Attorney General John M. Dalton, Assistant Attorney General Robert R. Welborn. And the St. Louis law firm of Ely, Ely and Vorhees, urged the Supreme Court, with all seven judges sitting, to affirm the decision of Judge Holt in the lower court.

The state's lawyers said the King-Thompson act was a valid constitutional enactment by the Legislature, "designed to protect the health and safety of citizens of Missouri in emergency situations.

'No Constitutional Defects'

"As such it does not conflict with any Federal legislation and it bears none of the constitutional defects attributed to it by the appellants."

Provisions of the act prohibiting strikes by employes of a public utility after the state has taken possession of the strike-bound utility do not conflict with the Federal Labor Management Relations Act, it was said.

State counsel urged that Congress, by enactment of labor acts, did not pre-empt the field of labor-management relations in industries engaged in commerce, to the total exclusion of state authority in the area.

The 1947 act was declared "a valid exercise of the fundamental police power of the state," which did not conflict with constitutional provisions, nor impose involuntary servitude, and is a lawful delegation of legislative power.

Assistant Attorney General Welborn insisted that the state must not be left powerless to deal with an emergency growing out of a utility strike that jeopardizes public health and safety. The right to strike against a public utility is not an unqualified right, he contended, and the King-Thompson act imposes limitations on this right, but only as to paramount rights of the people.

GEN. FESTING NAMED CHIEF OF BRITISH GENERAL STAFF

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)— Gen. Sir Francis Festing, hero of jungle fighting in Burma in World War II, was appointed chief of the British Imperial General Staff today. It is Britain's top military post. The 55-year-old soldier won the name of "Front Line Festing" when he led the British thirty-sixth Division down the Irrawaddy to Rangoon.

He takes over his new post in September, succeeding Field Marshal Sir Gerald Templer. No new assignment has been announced for Templer. He will be 60 in September, the normal military retirement age.

Lt. Gen. Sir Richard Hull, deputy chief of the Imperial General Staff, was named to succeed Festing in June as commander-in-chief of British land forces in the Far East.

NEW WATER BILLING SYSTEM APPROVED

A bill that would save the city more than $18,000 annually by authorizing a new billing system for the Water Division was enacted today by the Board of Aldermen.

It would permit the division to send out bills on postcards, similar to the bills sent by public utility companies. These cards can be run through the city's electronic equipment and save a large amount of time and labor, it was pointed out. Previously, the division sent water bills out in envelopes and when the money was received, a receipt was mailed to the consumer. It was estimated that the new system would save $18,000 a year in postage and envelopes alone.

Another measure permitting the leasing of Biddle Market to a group of merchants headed by Nathan Z. Polinsky also was passed. Terms of the lease provide that the group will spend $60,000 in rehabilitating the building and get it rent free for the first five years.

After that, the city will receive either 10 per cent of the rental the group charges individual merchants for space in the building of $1500 a year, whichever is greater.

The park commissioner was authorized in another bill to designate spaces in the parking lot between City Hall and the Municipal Courts Building for specific persons. At present there are so many permits issued that there are not enough parking spaces for them. The new permits would have to be renewed annually. Another bill permitting the Mayor and Comptroller to use facsimiles of their signatures for bonds also was passed. This will make unnecessary trips ot Chicago to sign city bonds at the American Bank Note Co., where they are printed.

Alderman Albert Villa, Eleventh Ward, introduced a bill that would permit owners of dogs to keep their pets tied up at home rather than send them to the dog pound after they had bitten a person.

Eisenhower

defense establishment which, together with that of nations allied with us, performs the functions of deterring both global and local war*"

"I am giving the modernization of our defense organization my closest personal attention," the President said.

Appealing for rank and file party workers to get busy right away on the coming campaign, he said the party already was "off to a good start" with meetings throughout the country starting Jan. 20.

"There's an electric atmosphere of confidence and excitements in all these gatherings—a feeling of hardly being able to wait to get on with the battle."

He urged G.O.P. campaigners to stress what he called "the monumental achievements" of his administration, calling attention to two which, he said, are often overlooked.

"One is the huge national highway improvement program, bringing at last to America a modern road system consistent with the transportation needs of our age. The other is the St. Lawrence Seaway project, postponed for decades until this Administration got it off the debating platform and into construction."

Solvent, Chairman Says.

National Committee Chairman Meade Alcorn predicted after an executive committee session last night that the party would net more than $1,000,000 from the recent fund-raising dinners in 26 states. Half of this will go to the national, Senate and House campaign groups and the rest to the organizations of the participating states.

"We are solvent; that is something the Democrats can't say," the chairman told reporters.

He also reported the morale of the party workers was good and party organization work in southern states has withstood the impact of the Little Rock integration trouble "surprisingly well." He said "Operation Dixie"—the G.O.P. effort to build a two-party system in the South—had not folded, as some Democrats have said.

Mr. Eisenhower's weekend trip to the Augusta National Golf Club may be sort of a prelude to a possibly longer stay in mid-February at the Thomasville (Ga.) estate of former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey.

Tells of Holdup

MARCO D. VAINIKOS

Leithead, like the President, is a member of the Augusta National Golf Club. Mrs. Eisenhower remained in Washington. The President is expected to return Sunday night.

The weather was overcast and misty as the President's plane, Columbine III, left the Military Air Transport Service field here.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said yesterday Mr. Eisenhower "will get a little rest and some sun," but made no mention of any plans for the President to play golf. Although he has done some practicing on the White House grounds, Mr. Eisenhower has not played a round of golf since his mild stroke Nov. 25.

Earlier yesterday, Hagerty said the President and Mrs. Eisenhower hoped to go to Thomasville the middle of next month. His announcement came a day after Mrs. Eisenhower disclosed a trip to Georgia was in the works.

The press secretary said there was no indication yet how long the Eisenhowers would stay at Thomasville.

Police Reach Scene.

Sgt. Homer Diehl and Probationary Patrolman Marvin P. Elmer were two blocks away when they received a call to go to the scene. Diehl said they found Vainikos lying in the street. As they approached, Diehl said, Vainikos was moaning and called out, "My God, don't beat me anymore."

When the officers identified themselves, Vainikos said, "Thank God."

"Vainikos was holding his abdomen and all the muscles of his body seemed to be jerking," Diehl reported. "His briefcase was by the car door and papers were scattered about. Vainikos's glasses were lying beside him. They were not broken."

The officer said he examined Vainikos's head with a flashlight and could find no mark of injury. Vainikos was taken to St. Louis County Hospital for an examination. The attending physician said he found no marks on his head or abdomen.

Cashed Personal Check.

Vainikos said he did not think any outsider knew he was calling on Mrs. Binowitz to make the collection. He said he cashed a personal check for the $810 earlier in the day at the Manchester Bank. The robbers may have been after his money, he said.

The spokesman for the brokerage firm said Mrs. Binowitz long has been a customer, but that she usually paid for stock by check. He said the company discourages the practice of accepting cash from customers.

Employes are instructed to pick up cash payments only during banking hours when the money can be taken directly to a bank, he said. He termed Vainikos's acceptance of cash from Mrs. Binowitz at night as "ridiculous."

$305,000 FOR HOUSE UNIT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The House voted yesterday to give $305,000 to its Committee on un-American Activities for 1958 expenses.

The action was by voice vote after Representative Roy Wier (Dem.), Minnesota, told the House he was against giving the committee any money because "it has outlived its usefulness."

G.M. HEAD URGES TAX CUT AS SPUR TO U.S. ECONOMY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) —Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, has urged an across-the-board tax reduction to spur the nation's lagging economy. He made the suggestion ytsterday before the Senate Anti-Trust and Monopoly subcommittee headed by Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.) Tennessee. He was called back for more questioning today.

After the hearing Curtice, head of the world's biggest operation, refused to tell reporters how much he thought taxes should be cut. He said he would leave that to Congress to decide.

He said that sales of used cars, as well as new cars, were "on the slow side" and that the public is showing caution in making buying commitments.

Tax Cut As Stimulant.

Curtice urged that Congress "seriously consider" cutting taxes across the board at the present session.

He said this would restore confidence among business men and consumers and be a great stimulant to the buying of goods "we have the capacity to produce."

Kefauver commented afterward that "I certainly couldn't go along" with an over-all tax cut at this time.

Curtice said the present economic situation is similar to that in 1954 and asserted that Congress then had "contributed immeasurably" to a resurgence of confidence by cutting taxes.

Although Curtice recalled that the federal budget was balanced after the 1954 tax reduction, Kefauver told reporters it was hard to see how the record peacetime budget submitted by President Eisenhower for next year could stand a tax cut.

Kefauver added, however, that if the present recession should continue and purchasing power shrink further, a temporary reduction in taxes might be advisable.

Kefauver's views were along the lines of the position that the Administration has taken.

Asked About Reuther Plan.

At the subcommittee's inquiry into pricing practices in the automobile industry, Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep.), Wisconsin, raised the question late yesterday of what Curtice thought of the UAW's profit-sharing plan.

The profit-sharing plan, which UAW president Walter Reuther suggested as a major bargaining goal of his union this year, proposes that car buyers and employes of car manufacturers share the auto makers' profits. They would get half of the before-taxes profit in excess of 10 per cent of the company's invested capital.

Curtice told Wiley he would like to avoid discussion of it for "the very good reason" that it was, as he put it, "one of the highly publicized demands' the union has announced it would make.

He said that when the UAW submits its demands, "we will discuss them at the bargaining table."

In earlier testimony, however, he said without direct reference to the profit-sharing proposal that General Motors "would not at any time negotiate on the basis of ability to pay."

Frederick C. Donner, executive vice president of G.M., told the subcommittee that if the UAW plan had been in effect in 1956, General Motors would have had less profits left than it paid in dividends that year. He said $300,000,000 would have been returned to car buyers in the form of price rebates and a like amount would have been distributed among employes.

$32,173,412,000 Building Contracts In '57 Set Record

Construction contracts in 1957 totalled $32,173,412,000, 2 per cent ahead of the 1956 total, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports.

While strictly comparable figures are not available for years before 1956, a company official said that 1957 "undoubtedly set a new record."

The 1957 figure was the first annual construction contract total released for the United States, since the Dodge statistics prior to 1957 covered only the 37 states east of the Rockies. Back data on the 48-state basis were compiled for 1956, in order to make possible comparisons with 1957.

For the year as a whole, residential building contracts amounted to $13,039,005,000, 1 per cent ahead of 1956; nonresidential building, at $11,293,149,000, was up 1 per cent; and heavy engineering, at $7,841,258,000, was up 4 per cent.

Describes Home Loan Guarantee Plan as the 'Best Hope to Fill Gap'

The Home Loan Guarantee Plan for insuring the top portion of conventional home loans was described as "the best hope" for filling the "gap" in the home credit field caused by the disappearance of the G.I. home loan program by C. R. Mitchell, recently-elected vice president of the United States Savings and Loan League, in a speech to a general session of the annual convention of the National Association of Home Builders in Chicago.

Mitchell said that the League did not believe that the Federal Housing Administration, "with all the good the FHA has done and with all the good it will continue to do," can fill the "vacuum" left by the disappearance of the G.I. program.

"We are also doubtful that, as competent and outstanding an agency as the FHA is, that a single agency should be the sole source of high percentage financing for new and existing homes.

"We think that the record of accomplishment in home building, home financing and homeownership since World War II graphically illustrates the worth of an alternative source of high percentage credit.

"With the death of the G.I. loan program, we think our Home Loan Guarantee Plan represents the best hope that an alternative source can be established," he said.

The plan discussed by Mitchell would permit insuring of the top 20 per cent of conventional home loans up to a maximum of 90 per cent of appraised value. The insuring would be done by a privately-financed Home Loan Guarantee Corporation, which would be part of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Parts of the plan have been incorporated in Senate Bill 2791, sponsored by Senator John Sparkman (Dem.) Alabama, chairman of the Senate Housing Sub-committee.

Mitchell told the convention that while it is possible that Congress will try to revive the G.I. program for another year or two, "I don't believe anyone feels very optimistic that this great homeownership program for veterans will ever be more than a shadow of its former self."

He said that the purpose of the Home Loan Guarantee Plan is to make the conventional home a "much more useful" device with which savings and loan associations and other mortgage lenders can serve the public.

He pointed out that for many years conventional loans have furnished the majority of home credit used in the United States, both for new and existing homes.

"Specifically, the maximum loan limits placed on conventional loans are substantially lower than those placed on FHA or VA loans. For example, savings and loan associations can make only an 80 per cent conventional loan but could go as high as 97 per cent of the first $9000 on an FHA loan and 100 per cent on a VA loan.

"Of course, even though there is an 80 per cent conventional loan ceiling, many savings and loan associations are reluctant to go beyond 70 per cent. This new plan will, by use of a partial insuring technique, encourage many of our institutions to go from 70 per cent to 80, 85 or 90 per cent of value," Mitchell concluded.

It's 12 Per Cent

A percentage figure was inadvertently omitted in the FHA Extension story on the Real Estate news page last Friday. The omission was in the statement concerning down payments on $20,000-plus houses. It should have read, "The rate now is 12 per cent down on a $20,000 house, but, with a $20,000 mortgage, one-third down is needed on a $30,000 home."

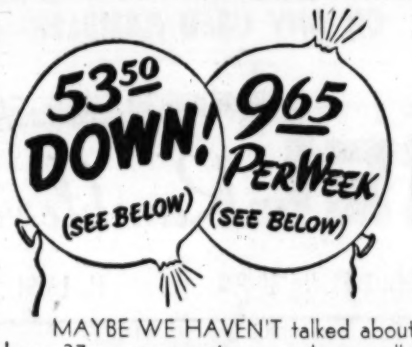
'58 BUICKS!



LET'S LET THE HOT AIR OUT OF A FEW BALLOONS!

MAYBE WE HAVEN'T talked about it too much, but we have 37 years experience and can sell new BUICKS on just about any basis that anyone else can.

Sure—we can sell you one for $53.50 down if your credit qualifies, and IF THAT'S THE KIND OF DEAL YOU WANT. (Monthly payments might be a little high.)

Certainly we can sell you a BUICK for $9.65 a week—if your down payment is large enough and IF THAT'S THE KIND OF DEAL YOU WANT.

Of course we can allow you $1800.00 for your 1950 model trade-in—provided we make a few minor changes in our list prices and IF THAT'S THE KIND OF DEAL YOU WANT.

Naturally we can offer to allow you $1300.00 for your 1941 car when you drop by today. We may have to change our minds tomorrow when you come back to buy. IF THIS IS THE KIND OF TREATMENT YOU WANT.

We don't believe this is the kind of hot air you are looking for. We think you want a darn good proposition on a BUICK with all the cards on the table.

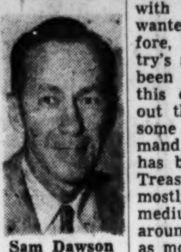
UNCLE SAM IN EASY MONEY MARKET
By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP).

UNCLE SAM IS TAKING ADVANTAGE of the easy money tide to launch a less costly and longer term debt issue. The industrial recession is also counted on to help put some wind in his 17 billion dollar refunding sails.

The bond market—both Government and corporate—measured the steady progress of tight money. Now it is one of the best gauges of just how much easier money and credit has turned.



Sam Dawson

This is because the yields on these fixed interest paying securities swing quickly with the changes in demand and supply of money.

As credit tightened and money became dearer last year in a move to check inflation, the yields on Government bonds climbed and corporations and municipalities had to offer higher interest rates to lure the investment funds they sought. The prices of existing bonds sank because their interest returns were fixed, and unattractive at par value.

SINCE THE CHANGE IN the tide last fall, the prices of bonds have risen smartly. Their fixed interest rates look more in line now. And new corporate and Government issues have been able to sell at considerably lower interest charges than at the peak of the tight money era. Uncle Sam is moving to take advantage of this. Where a short time ago he was paying as high as 4 per cent to get needed funds, he is going into the money market next week with a package of offerings ranging from 2½ per cent for one year certificates to 3½ per cent for a 32-year bond. But these new and lower rates are still well above what the Treasury paid for loans when money was really easy.

THE RECESSION'S ASSIST is two-fold: 1. Business isn't looking for loans as avidly as a few months back, so more investment money is around waiting to be tapped by Uncle Sam; 2. Long term bonds can be sold by the Treasury now without competing for funds with corporations that once wanted them badly and, therefore, without cramping industry's style. The Treasury has been waiting since 1955 for this chance really to stretch out the Federal debt. It sold some 30-year bonds then. Demand by industry for funds has been so eager since that Treasury borrowing has been mostly short-term with a few medium length bonds of around 10 years. Then last fall as money eased and corporate demand slackened the Treasury tested the market with relatively small issues of 12-year and 17-year bonds. Now it sees the time ripe for a 32-year issue.

THE TREASURY IS EAGER to stretch out the debt because its years of short-term borrowing have built up a huge total of securities that must be refunded at short intervals. This sends the Treasury constantly to a fluctuating money market in search of funds — and for a couple of years its trips were always at the cost of steadily rising interest charges. Its total annual interest cost now runs around eight billion dollars. The average maturity of the entire 274½-billion-dollar debt, as measured to the first call date, now stands at 41 months. Five years ago the average was 46 months.

BUT EVEN IF HIS 17 BILlion dollar refunding goes off successfully next week as expected, uncle Sam will still need more cash and will be back in the market soon looking for new money. That timing will depend on when and if Congress raises the 275 billion dollar debt limit. His cash embarrassment comes from increased defense spending and the recession caused dip in tax collections.

Cloudy, Cold Weekend Ahead

—Associated Press Wirephoto
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Cloudy and cold weather is expected to continue in the St. Louis area over the weekend, with temperatures rising from a low of 15 to 20 tomorrow to an afternoon high in the low 30s. Little change was forecast by the Weather Bureau for Sunday.

A low pressure area that developed in western Kansas during the night moved today into extreme southwestern Missouri. The low center brought snow to the Midwest, with a heavy fall in the St. Louis area.

A belt of snow developed last night across the central Plains states. One to three inches of snow covered parts of southern and western Iowa during the night before more started falling in the state today. There was also light snow in the area extending from the eastern Lakes region and Ohio valley into Pennsylvania and the north Atlantic states. Rain continued along the north Pacific coast.

Precipitation is forecast for tonight from the Mississippi valley and Gulf coast eastward, except for the New England coastal area and Florida, as shown by the above map. Rain is expected again in the Pacific coast area with snow in other parts of the western section of the nation.

RUSSIA REPORTED OFFERING TO JOIN U.N. ARMS TALKS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Jan. 31 (AP)—The Soviet Union is reported to have offered to return to United Nation disarmament negotiations if Romania, Ceylon and Indonesia are added to the 25-nation disarmament commission.

Russian delegates announced at the 1957 General Assembly session that they would boycott the commission because its membership is too pro-Western.

They demanded then that Ceylon, Romania, Indonesia, Austria, Bulgaria, Finland and Sudan be added.

But diplomatic sources said last night Soviet U.N. delegate Arkady A. Sobolev has been telling various delegations this week that the addition of the first three of these countries would bring the Russians back.

The commission is not now in session. Since the General Assembly is not scheduled to meet until Sept. 16, enlarging the disarmament body at present would require a special Assembly session.

HILLARY, U.S. ADMIRAL LAND PLANE ON NEW POLAR STRIP

CLARK, N.J., Jan. 31 (UP)—Sir Edmund Hillary and an American admiral made the first airplane landing today on the new ice-free runway at Marble Point, Antarctica, a Jesuit priest reported by short-wave radio.

The landing at the only land airbase in the Antarctic was reported by the Rev. Daniel Linehan, a seismologist stationed at Marble Point. Father Linehan spoke through a radio-telephone contact established by a ham radio operator here. Father Linehan, formerly of Boston, Mass., said the airmase was constructed in five days by American Seebees on a rocky promontory 40 miles from McMurdo sound. He said the monoplane carrying Hillary and Adm. George Dufek flew in from McMurdo. The base at McMurdo is built on ice.

Curtis, the sole Republican member of Missouri's congressional delegation, filed notice yesterday with the Secretary of State of his candidacy for the party's nomination for re-election in the Second District. The district includes South St. Louis and nine townships in St. Louis county.

Curtis, 46 years old, is completing his fourth term in Congress. He lives at 462 Florence avenue, Webster Groves. He was the first Republican to file for nomination in the Second District.

FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW FOR SISTER MARY HELEN

Funeral services for Sister Mary Helen, a member of the Franciscan Sisters of Our Lady of Perpetual Help for 53 years, will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow at the order's convent, 201 Brotherton lane, Ferguson. Burial will be in the cemetery there.

The nun, who was 80 years old, died of cancer Wednesday at St. Anthony Hospital. Born in Poland, she entered the order June 2, 1904. Before retiring, she taught in elementary schools in Missouri, Illinois and Ohio.

WHEAT IS HIGHER, SOYBEANS MIXED

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (AP)—Soybeans futures prices had fairly steady support on the Board of Trade today and held gains most of the time in good fractions above yesterday's closes. The demand was attributed to a stronger market for vegetable oils and short-covering. The activity was well distributed in most of the dealings among all contracts.

All the grains were weak through nearly all the trading and March and July corn deliveries again hit new lows at times for the season.

In the final few minutes of trading, however, the soybean gains were trimmed, leaving the nearby deliveries with minor losses. Wheat finished ⅞@1⅞ lower, corn 38¾ lower, oats unchanged to ⅛ lower, rye ¼ higher to 1 cent lower, soybeans ¼ lower to ⅜ higher.

SELECTIVE GAINS IN MIXED STOCK TRADE

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (UP)—Selected issues in major groups and a long list of specials ran up 1 to 2 points in a dull market on the Stock Exchange today.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 1.30 of a point higher at 450.02 at the close. The 20 rails gained .14 at 109.04, while the 15 utilities lost .26 at 72.27.

Standard & Poor's average of 500 stocks was .02 of a point higher at 41.70 at the close. The 425 industrials gained .04 at 44.54 and the 25 rails rose .04 to 23.62, while the 50 utilities lost .11 at 33.94.

The market closed the day irregularly higher. It was irregularly higher on the week and substantially higher for the month of January. But it was well below the levels of a year ago in all but the utility group.

Several of the rails developed strength. Steels struggled to gain in the leading issues. Autos sagged. Polaroid was a firm spot late in the day along with Transue & Williams, Zenith, Bullard, and Bath Iron Works.

The list had a bit of activity but it calmed before closing. Prices had declined in the early trading with the recovery coming late in the session. Oils, aircrafts, and coppers made good recoveries from their lows.

The Associated Press reported that of 1127 issues traded, advances totaled 437 and declines 433. New highs for 1957-58 totaled 16. The five new lows were American European Securities, Foster Wheeler, King-Seeley, McLean Industries and Sun Oil.

Volume totaled 2,030,000 shares compared with 2,150,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up a minimum 10 cents to $162.50 with the industrials, rails and utilities each up 10 cents.

Washington speculation that the Russians may have fired a very large missile strengthened aircrafts in late trading.

COTTON UP 35C, OFF 25C

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Cotton futures sold off after the department of agriculture announced the mid-January cotton parity of 37.96 cents a pound or 53 points above the December figure. Traders said that the market amply discounted the rise in parity and some quarters even expected a higher figure.

FAIRLESS HONORED BY BUSINESS PAPERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) —Vice President Richard M. Nixon says Russia could achieve world domination without firing a shot if the United States fails to win the struggle for economic superiority.

Nixon spoke at a dinner last night in presenting an award to steel executive Benjamin F. Fairless on behalf of National Business publications, Inc.

Fairless, in accepting the Silver Quill award which Nixon had received in 1952, forecast increasd unemployment if industry accepted a union proposal to share profits with workers.

Fairless named no names, but his attack came two weeks after Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, said he would press for such a plan in mid-year wage negotiations with the automobile industry.

Nixon hailed Fairless as a "statesman of industry." He praised Fairless for a 50-day round-the-world trip last year studying the United States foreign aid program for President Eisenhower.

The Vice President said Russia "already has launched a war against us—the economic slave world is pitted abainst the economic free world." He said the nations as yet uncommitted in the cold war are watching the struggle closely.

It is up to the United States, Nixon said, to demonstrate that the free enterprise system is superior to the Communist method. If it fails, he said, "the hot war will never be fought in order for the Communists to gain their objective."

Fairless, longtime head of the United States Steel Corp., and now president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, was chosen for the award for "distinguished services to the industry and nation." The organization which presented it represents about 200 trade, technical and scientific journals.

In objecting to the profit-sharing idea, Fairless said it "would stop investment cold, lower productivity and increase unemployment." He said he favors wage increases so long as they are related to increased productivity. He added:

"In the last 10 years . . . a 26 per cent gain in industrial productivity has been more than absorbed by 61 per cent rise in wage rates. . . . The difference between the 26 per cent gain in output and the 61 per cent in wages . . . is a phony as far as increasing consumer purchasing power because, of course, it represents inflation."

Fairless offered this alternative: "A balanced overall movement forward with wages, profits and productivity going up and not out of step."

WIFE OF TERRY MOORE WINS DIVORCE, HOME, ALIMONY

Mrs. Rhoda F. Moore was awarded a divorce yesterday from Terry Moore, St. Louis Cardinal coach and bowling alley operator, on grounds of general indignities.

Under a stipulation, approved by Circuit Judge Michael J. Carroll of Clayton, she was given title to their home at 7128 Edison avenue, Normandy. She will receive also $300 a month alimony and $75 a month for each of their two children.

They were married Jan. 14, 1945 in the Panama Canal Zone where Moore was serving in the Army. Her petition said they have been separated since December 1956. Moore, a former Cardinal star centerfielder, is 45 years old and she is 35.

ONE INJURED IN EXPLOSION AT ROCKET FUEL PLANT

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 31 (AP) — A batch of solid rocket fuel exploded at the Aerojet-General Corp. last night, injuring one man and causing damage estimated at $75,000 to the plant.

E. E. Nelson, resident manager, said the injured man received only minor lacerations. He said the explosion occurred in a routine mixing of solid rocket propellant.

No reason for the blast was determined and an investigation was started. Nelson said there would be no interruption in production at the plant, which manufactures liquid and solid rocket fuels for several military missiles, including the Vanguard, Titan and Polaris.

C. FORD MORRILL HEADS ST. LOUIS HARVARD CLUB

C. Ford Morrill, an insurance agent, was elected president of the Harvard Club of St. Louis at its annual meeting at the Park Plaza Hotel last night.

Harlow Shapley, professor emeritus of astronomy and former director of Harvard College Observatory, the principal speaker, delivered a commentary on a variety of subjects.

Other officers elected were Robin McCoy, John J. Healy Jr., Richard Amberg, Henry P. Day and George W. Simpkins, vice presidents; George T. Pettus, secretary, and William McAlpin, treasurer.

YOUTH TRYING HOLDUP CHANGES MIND, RUNS

A near miss of a holdup was reported to police last night by Francis Wolf, owner of a filling station at 2428 Big Bend boulevard in Maplewood. The robber, a youth of about 20, pointed a revolver at Wolf and told him to open the cash register, which contained about $45.

Just as Wolf was about to comply, the intruder said, "I can't do it," and put the revolver in his pocket and ran.

BREWERY OFFICIAL NAMED

Walter T. Smith Jr., former head of purchasing at Anheuser-Busch, Inc., has been named vice president in charge of advertising, merchandising and sales promotion, it was announced yesterday.

An employe of the firm since 1937, Smith began his career at the brewery as a clerk. He is married, has two children, and lives at 12 Lynnbrook drive, Frontenac.

BRITAIN CLAIMS LEAD IN TAMING HYDROGEN BOMB

© New York Times News Service

LONDON, Jan. 31—Britain claimed world leadership yesterday in the race with the United States and the Soviet Union to tame the hydrogen bomb's energy for peaceful use.

R. A. Butler, majority leader, made the claim in the House of Commons in response to questions about thermonuclear experiments at Harwell Atomic Research Laboratory. He said:

"I think we all accept that the scientists who have been involved, from Sir John Cockcroft Down, are ahead of the whole world in their achievement. We should be justly proud of them in this country."

Butler added that Sir John, who is chief of the Hartwell establishment, had "erred perhaps on the side of modesty" in estimating that it would take at least 20 years to begin producing industrial power from thermonuclear fusion reactions.

Appointment Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) —The Senate yesterday confirmed by voice vote the nomination of U. Alexis Johnson of California as ambassador to Thailand. He has been ambassador to Czechoslovakia.

ARMY RESERVE UNIT HERE WINS PRAISE FROM GENERAL

Maj. Gen. Charles K. Gailey, Army chief of Civil Affairs and Military Government, commended personnel of the 307th CAMG Group last night for outstanding accomplishments in reserve work. He inspected the group at a meeting at the Eleventh Corps headquarters, Twelfth boulevard and Spruce street.

Citing the 307th as the first Army reserve unit in the St. Louis area to inaugurate weekend training, he said such planning is an example of the group's officers and men striving for perfection in their military work. The weekend training will start in March with drills held once each month from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday instead of the present two-hour weekly sessions.

Before last night's meeting, a chicken dinner prepared by personnel of the unit was served in Army mess kits. Gen. Gailey praised the cooks, trained in the reserve cooks' school, as another example of the self-sufficiency of the group. The general left for Washington today.

WOMAN FOUND SHOT, KILLED IN HER HOME; MAN BOOKED

Mrs. Louise Massey was found shot to death last night in her home at 890A Hodiamont avenue. William Foster of the same address, who summed police, was booked suspected of homicide after the woman's son disputed Foster's report the shooting had been accidental.

Foster, 31 years old, a mover, said he had been cleaning his shotgun in the kitchen when it was was accidentally discharged, killing the woman.

Her son, Larry Massey, 12, told police Foster had cleaned the weapon earlier in the evening, while his mother was absent from the home. The youth said he was in bed when his mother, 28, returned home. He said he heard Foster say, "Tell me the truth or I'll kill you," and then heard the shot.

Risky Decision Facing U.S. On Production of Bombers, Still Hard Core of Defense

Question Is Whether to Switch From B-52s to More Effective but Untested B-58s — Cost and Output Rate Important Factors in Dilemma.

Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.

NO ONE IN THE MILITARY business believes that long range ballistic missiles will completely replace manned bombers. They see missiles supplementary to manned bombers for use against targets too heavily defended for the bombers to penetrate without unacceptable losses.

Ellis A. Johnson, director of the Operations Research Office, a non-profit research organization operated by Johns Hopkins University for the Army, says in this respect:

"I feel that the attack system on both sides will be composed first of bombers, which will remain the best attack system until there is a strong air defense in existence to counter them. They are the most accurate and cheapest delivery means."

Both Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, and his deputy, Gen. Curtis Le May, have testified to the need for more B-52s. White wants another B-52 wing. The price tag for the B-52s and the KC-135 tankers to support them comes to about $615,000,000.

15 B-52s Made a Month.

There have been 691 B-52s ordered. Something over 200 have been delivered. Although they were originally scheduled to be produced at the rate of 20 a month, this figure was never reached and production was stabilized at 15 a month. At this rate of production it will be two more years before the Strategic Air Command has replaced all its obsolete B-36s with B-52s.

The supplemental military appropriation request, now being considered by the Senate Appropriations Committee, does not contain funds for increased production of any aircraft for the SAC.

In the Pentagon, this is said to be due to need to determine whether additional funds should be provided to increase the production of B-52s, or to hasten the production of the B-58 supersonic medium bomber and the new exotic-fueled 2000 miles-per-hour intercontinental B-110.

There are several factors involved in the decision: How soon will the West have ballistic intermediate range and intercontinental missiles to supplement its manner bombers?

Will the Soviet air defenses be strong enough to counter the subsonic B-52 two years hence when any additional orders would start being delivered? Will the delay in perfecting the B-58 and the B-110 be so great that we shall have no recourse except to make more B-52s to improve SAC's striking power?

Outlook for Missiles.

With regard to missiles, the United States will not have reliable operational intercontinental missiles in less than three years. More optimistic official statements have been made, but this is the opinion of the manufacturers.

Two squadrons of intermediate range ballistic missiles —one Thor squadron and one Jupiter squadron—are supposed to be established in Britain and to be operational by the end of this year.

Unquestionably the missiles can be made and put into position this year. The question is whether the missiles will be accurate and reliable. They are tremendously complicated and are not, in the opinion of industry sources, likely to be truly reliable for two or three years.

Is the B-52, or any subsonic bomber, now, or will it be two years from now, countered by Soviet air defenses? Johnson, who has access to all intelligence, says: "All the indications are that their air defenses are considerably better than ours."

The Russians concentrated after the war on defensive aviation. They made 14,000 MIG-15s, reaching a production of 450 a month for a considerable period of time. These were followed by 7000 transonic MIG-17s and by supersonic MIG-19s and 21s.

They are known to have a nation-wide warning system tying in to antiaircraft missile firing points, radar and fighter fields. They showed an antiaircraft missile in the Nov. 7 parade that could carry an atomic warhead.

Difficult Decision.

The subsonic B-52 would have to meet both supersonic interceptors and atomic antiaircraft missile defenses. The supersonic B-58, with a speed about twice as fast as that of the B-52, would have little trouble evading or outdistancing Soviet interceptors. Since its speed is double that of the B-52, it would be within range of the Soviet missile batteries only half as long a time as the B-52.

The conclusion, therefore, seems warranted, and this is being debated in the Pentagon, that if the B-58 can be put into production rapidly, it is much more apt to continue to give United States manned aircraft a retaliatory capability than the B-52.

The 1959 budget contains funds for the production of a small number of B-58s. The total for '58 and '59 is between 70 and 80.

It is undergoing flight tests now. It is considered a highly promising bomber. The question is whether to make a risk decision and to go into quantity production of this airplane now, knowing that expensive modifications may have to be made as service test and use show them to be necessary.

This was done with the B-47, the medium bomber that has provided most of the United States retaliatory capability for the last six or seven years. It was deliberately ordered into production without complete testing and it was necessary to modify the first 300 produced at an average cost of about a million dollars each. Nevertheless the plane was operational during all this time.

Not Considering B-110.

The B-110 is too far from being developed to figure in our capabilities in the next two or three years. Nevertheless, the concensus is that its development should be pushed to the limit. It is intercontinental in range and fast enough to make even missile defense against it difficult. And, if necessary, it can go in on the deck and escape the enemy radar.

The weight of opinion now is veering toward a decision for the immediate future of pushing the B-58 and B-110 rather than to buy more B-52s that may already be obsolete against Soviet defenses.

BARUCH: My Own Story

Her Episcopalian Father Thought Difference in Religion a Barrier to Happiness.

By BERNARD M. BARUCH
Financier, Elder Statesman, Friend and Adviser of Presidents.

CHAPTER VI.

AFTER four years in Wall street I had little, if anything, in the way of material assets to show for my efforts. My salary had been gradually increased from $5 to $25 a week, but this had only increased my ability to speculate at a loss.

Despairing of making a killing in the market, I struck Arthur Housman for a raise. And I struck high, asking for $50 a week.

"I cannot give you $50 a week," Mr. Housman told me, "but I will give you an eighth interest in the business."

Actually this amounted to a raise in salary to at least $33 a week, since the firm's profits in the previous year had been $14,000. In addition, if business increased, I might net even more than $50 a week.

Meeting Miss Griffen.

Before offering me the partnership, Mr. Housman had asked why I felt I needed so large an income. I explained that I wanted to get married.

The girl who was waiting for me was Annie Griffen. I had first seen her about the time of my graduation from college. While walking with a boy named Dave Schenck, he spoke to two most attractive girls. One, Dave said, was a Miss Louise Guindon and the other was her cousin, a Miss Griffen.

One glance sufficed to interest me in the tall, slender Miss Griffen.

I tried to learn all I could about her and her family. Miss Griffen, I discovered, lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Griffen, in a brownstone house at 41 West 58th street. Her father was the grandson of an Episcopalian minister, a graduate and Phi Beta Kappa man of C.C.N.Y. He had a son there who was a classmate of my brother Herman.

Mr. Griffen was in the glass-importing business under the name of Van Horne, Griffen & Co. The Van Hornes and Griffens were cousins. Mrs. Griffen was a daughter of W. J. Wilcox, a lard merchant, whose large refinery I had seen burn to the ground some years before.

All this I ferreted out in hope of finding some way of meeting the daughter, but my inquiries proved as good as useless.

BERNARD M. BARUCH and BRIDE
On their honeymoon at Old Point Comfort, Va. She was the former Miss Annie Griffen.

One day while walking near the Griffen home I saw Miss Griffen approaching. Mustering all my courage, I reached the stoop of her house just as she did. Raising my hat, I asked if I were addressing Miss Annie Griffen.

That set me back pretty hard, but finally Dave Schenck arranged for us to meet through Miss Guindon, whom Dave knew.

Her Father Opposed.

After that I became a regular caller at the Griffen home. Annie's father opposed my courtship, feeling that the difference in our religions would prove an insuperable barrier to our happiness. Fortunately Mrs. Griffen was more favorable to me.

I passed the Griffen house daily on my way to work and almost always Annie would be at the window to wave to me. We also had a code of signals. If the shades were up, it meant that her father was out and I could call. If the shades were drawn, I walked on.

At other times Annie and I would meet in Central Park and, sitting on a park bench, I would tell her how we should get married as soon as I had earned enough money to support us. Our hopes would be high one day, when my little speculations would seem to be booming. The next day our hopes would be down, along with the market.

In 1951 Robert Moses showed me a site in Central Park where he wanted to erect a shelter under which people could play chess and checkers. Moses asked if I would finance the building of the shelter. I took one look at the site and agreed. Moses was surprised at how quickly I had decided. I did not tell him that the site he had picked was where Annie and I used to sit.

In my first year as a partner, our firm cleared $48,000 of which my share was $6000. That was far more than I had expected to make and might have enabled us to get married had I held on to it, but I still was overtrading. Some market

Scientists Set H-Attack Toll At 100,000,000

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (AP).

TWO atomic scientists speculated yesterday on the death total from an all-out hydrogen missile attack on the United States. Their guess: 100,000,000 persons.

Writing in a supplement to the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, Dr. W. W. Kellogg and Dr. Charles Shafer estimated one-third of the world's population would suffer ill effects from such an attack.

Kellogg, a radiation authority, said at least 50,000,000 deaths would result immediately from the blast. The others would occur within one year because of radiation, he said.

Kellogg said his estimate was based on conditions which might exist after 2500 megatons of hydrogen warheads had exploded over the United States. This total could be reached with 250 rockets each carrying a 10 megaton warhead.

One megaton is equivalent to 1,000,000 tons of TNT in figures used for comparison.

The 10 megaton size for rockets, Kellogg said, is "well within the indicated capabilities of both the United States and Russia to produce."

The two men said radioactive dust from such an attack would be carried by atmospheric currents over the rest of the earth, injuring one-third of the world population.

CHIEF FOR TITAN MISSILE

BALTIMORE, Jan. 31 (AP) —Dr. Albert C. Hall, an expert on the guidance and control of missiles, yesterday was named director of research for the Martin Co., where he will supervise development of the Titan intercontinental ballistic missile.

Founder of the dynamic analysis and control laboratory at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. Hall has been general manager of the Bendix Research Laboratories near Detroit since 1954.

Economic Policies, Not Missiles, Are Main Issue on Capitol Hill

Unemployment, Foreign Trade and Aid Moving Into Headlines — Exchange With Reds Leads List.

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.

WHEN THE HISTORY of this year is written, the economic policies of the Administration at home and abroad, rather than defense policy, are likely to emerge as the central political issues.

Unemployment, foreign trade and foreign aid are already vying with the missile controversy for the headlines and these are dividing Congress more than anything in the defense picture.

President Eisenhower's message yesterday, urging a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act, is only the opening shot in the foreign economic policy debate. Foreign aid will be next, and before long, the battle lines will be drawn on the old argument over trade with the Communist world.

Off to a Quiet Start.

This controversy over East-West trade has already started quietly in a series of private talks between Washington and London. The British, already in a race for export markets with the Germans, among others, are urging a drastic revision of the embargo on the sale of certain products to the Communist nations.

As usual, London is more eager than the United States to increase trade with the Soviet Union and Communist China but even the Administration, while still holding to a total embargo on trade with Peiping, agrees that world events of the last three years justify a review of the present policy toward the other Communist countries.

The Soviet Sputniks have dramatized what seemed to many officials here the fallacy of the theory that the Soviet Union is a backward industrial nation that can compete in the race for modern weapons and export markets only through the skills and trade of the Western world.

Meanwhile, all the industrial nations of the West, including the United States, are looking for new markets. The Administration still thinks that western Europe and Japan overestimate the highly variable and sharply controlled Communist export market, but in these days of large inventories business men are not particularly sniffish even about small markets and many of them are bringing pressure on their governments to open up all available overseas markets, including the Communist.

Opponents Are Strong.

The East-West trade question is largely separate from the controversy over the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, but both have zealous opponents on Capitol Hill, who are bound to give the Administration trouble.

As always, there are powerful forces in Congress that want a world in which the United States is free to wage economic war in some areas, trade freely wherever it likes and at the same time enjoy the benefits of protection against foreign competition at home.

President Eisenhower went over once more yesterday the old truth that a country cannot expect to sell abroad if it will not buy from abroad, and that it cannot expect to avoid the economic and political consequences if it tries.

"We must recognize" the President said, "the growing capacity of the Soviet Union in the economic field. Their advances in technology and industrialization, together with their continuing repression of domestic consumption, enable them to supply, better than ever before, the machinery, manufactures, and other goods which are essential to the economic life of many countries.

"The Soviet capacity to export is matched by its capacity and willingness to import. It is increasingly offering to import the surpluses of non-Communist states. In this way it seeks to tie such states to the Soviet orbit, and to exploit the trade difficulties of the free world."

One report in the State Department yesterday illustrated the validity of these points. Brazil was understood to be on the point, not only of mak-

JENNER ATTACKS GAITHER AND ROCKEFELLER REPORTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) — Senator William Jenner (Rep.), Indiana, charged last night the Gaither and Rockefeller reports were part of "a powerful drive" to internationalize and increase "the size and cost of American armed forces."

Jenner, a frequent critic of Administration foreign and defense policy, referred to two recent reports bearing on the state of American defenses. In a speech before the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense at the Hotel Mayflower, Jenner asserted:

"We have two (defense) programs. One is made by American military and civilian patriots to protect America. The other is made, high above the Cabinet departments, by a little group of political, legal and financial planners, who want our defense program to be costly, centralized, soft and internationalist."

He said that "a little group of New Dealers, Fair Dealers, collectivists, Socialists, one-worlders, and pro-Communists, who manage big government" make up a "fourth house of government" which is the dominant influence on both defense and foreign policy.

ISRAEL ACCUSES SYRIA

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Jan. 31—Israel charged a "new wave of aggression" had been launched against its borders by Syria, in a letter yesterday to the United Nations Security Council. It asked that the accusations be circulated among the nations, but sought no further action.

The complaint listed alleged acts of aggression from Dec. 21 to Jan. 25. The last concerned shots fired at fishermen on the Lake of Tiberias.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Was St. Louis First?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In your recent editorial, "Thanks to 'Bathing Towel'," you repeat a fable which robs St. Louis of credit due.

In the front of my Scout manual (published in New York in 1911) there is a statement, signed by my scoutmaster, the late Dr. Eugene Stephens of Washington University, that I became a tenderfoot in Troop 25 on Jan. 1, 1911.

More than a year previous to being in Dr. Stephens's troop, I practiced scouting (cubbed) in a troop headed by Russel Sabor (now of Minneapolis) and Dawson Watson, using Baden-Powell's manual, published in England. Mr. Sabor had a Scout Commissioner's badge, presumably issued from England.

It therefore appears certain that St. Louis had a troop before the District of Columbia—that is, before 1910. It would be interesting if someone would dig up the facts regarding scouting in St. Louis, just to set the records straight.

WILLIAM F. SAUNDERS.

Slowed to a Crawl

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Congratulations to the city grandfathers for further reducing the speed limit on the Vandeventer overpass of the so-called Express Highway. It will now be possible to measure vehicular speed on St. Louis streets with an hour-glass and yardstick, and send our radar equipment to some young, aggressive community where popular people want to get someplace in a hurry. J.J.Y. JR.

Out on a Limb

Now you've done it. From time to time you have extolled the City Manager system and you've lauded the merit system in government. Now you've gone out on a limb and upheld efficiency in government. In so doing you have sharply irritated Reader Martin L. Neaf. This is bad.

As Mr. Neaf points out, there are other things to look for in government besides efficiency. Inefficiency, for example.

Go ahead and ask the people of University City what they think of the City Manager form of government. Ask the people of Ferguson, too, and if the majority of them don't say they prefer it, I'll eat your "Asking for Defeat" editorial — which is something Mr. Neaf couldn't stomach.

JOHN BRAWLEY.

Equal Justice for All

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The most rewarding international policy for the United States would be the policy of absolute justice—equal consideration for all human beings upon the earth.

No immigration-emigration restrictions, no restraint of trade, no international ill will, no armaments, no secrets, no conceit of national superiority, no act to advantage a domestic population at the expense of a foreign population, good will for, and constant co-operation with, all other national people.

Inaugurated by one major national government this international policy would tend to be adopted by all governments. International animosities would disappear. For the first time in history human beings everywhere upon the earth would be able to contribute effectively to, and share equitably in, economic progress.

Human prosperity would advance as never before.

Bus Service Loss

This is in reference to the experimental 10-cent fare in downtown St. Louis.

The new service eliminates the Loop bus service which serves the riverfront parking lot. The proposed service leaves the riverfront parking lot with no transportation to the downtown and midtown areas between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. and between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m.

There are quite a few crippled persons who depend on this service. There would be no objection to raising the fare to 10 cents. The present fare is 10 cents or two tokens for 15 cents. But being without any service at this huge parking lot is a backward step for the downtown area.

MRS. R. J. CODY.

Restaurant to Be Opened

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Much favorable publicity has been given to Sidney Maestre's group for revitalizing downtown St. Louis. Let us hope his committee does not bungle its assignment as did the group banded together in an effort to put the famous old Speck's restaurant back on its feet.

There is no surer sign of gradual downtown decay than the fact that a 100-year-old dining landmark, located in the heart of downtown, should need the help of a committee. In an era when coffee houses are staging a comeback all over the world, Speck's, with a national reputation and with a waiting, ready-made clientele, should easily have been able to come back.

There is a crying need for revitalizing downtown St. Louis. There is also a crying need for the reopening of Speck's.

The Trade Fight Opens

In a broadly worded message, President Eisenhower has asked Congress to support his proposal for a five-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act. He used the valid argument that two-way international trade is "essential to our economic interest, to our security, and to our foreign relations."

The President, however, said nothing about quotas, the "escape clause" and the "peril point" provision under which higher tariffs are imposed almost automatically. Nor did he mention his proposal that he be empowered to increase duties on imports to a rate 50 per cent higher than the record-high Smoot-Hawley rates of the early 1930s, a provision which might undermine the reciprocal trade policy.

Opposition to the extension already is vigorous. Southern textile manufacturers seem to be taking the lead. They are creating the vision of an engulfing flood of "cheap labor" Japanese textiles, and at least one of their representatives has not hesitated to make chauvinistic references to Pearl Harbor. Yet Southern newspapers such as the Atlanta Constitution and the Birmingham News, which are not unaware of the importance of textiles in the development of the industrial South, are supporting the reciprocal trade policy.

Obviously they believe the threat is exaggerated, and that the policy ought to be regarded as a challenge rather than a threat to American producers. Such manufacturers should consider the example of the Elgin Watch Co., which instead of clamoring for higher duties on Swiss watches, diversified its production to minimize this overseas competition.

Some of the opposition may have been softened by Secretary of Commerce Weeks. In supporting the President, he did refer to the 50 per cent provision. He said that this change from the present law, under which increases must be based on the relatively low rates in effect in 1945, "would appreciably increase the extent to which duties could be raised where necessary to avert serious injury to domestic markets."

Mr. Eisenhower said that a five-year extension would insure having the law on the books when the first common tariffs of the six-nation European market go into effect. This is a point on which opponents should meditate. At that time the United States will be dealing with an economic entity of at at least 265,000,000 people and comparable economic resources. United Europe rather than the United States may be Mr. Big at the tariff bargaining table. Then a background of sound trade relations will be indeed desirable. Such a policy also is desirable now, even if it may demand a minor adjustment in some sectors of the American economy.

6.6 Per Cent First Aid

The domestic airlines, caught for the last several years in a steadily increasing squeeze between price rises and fares frozen at a low level, have some justification for their indignation with the Civil Aeronautics Board. The CAB, after hearings that began last March and much delay, last week authorized a fare increase of 6.6 per cent as an emergency measure pending a final decision on requests for increases ranging from 12 to 20 per cent.

According to Air Transport Association figures, the domestic airlines grossed $1,425,700,000 in 1957, with net profits after taxes and interest of $25,000,000. The ATA estimates that if the temporary 6.6 per cent increase were to become effective Feb. 1, the estimated gross for the industry in 1958 would be $1,717,396,000 and the net profit $44,823,000. In 1952 the lines grossed $768,015,000 but earned a profit after taxes and interest of $53,533,000.

First-class fares have increased 2 to 3 per cent since 1938, including the last previous general fare rise of $1-a-ticket authorized in 1952. Coach fares have reduced the average per-mile fare, so that the actual fare last year was about 5.29 cents a mile as against 5.32 in 1938. Meanwhile, the ATA contends, the cost of public transportation as a whole has risen 212 per cent. Operating expenses have been rising rapidly. United Air Lines, for example, has seen its operating revenue jump 152.5 per cent since 1950 while its operating expenses advanced 160.8 per cent.

The airlines claim that the CAB brakes on per cent of profit mean that there is not enough money left over to help finance adequately the two billion dollar jet expansion program. The airlines expect to begin putting the first of their jet craft in operation early next year.

The CAB, in giving the airlines 6.6 per cent as first aid, has acknowledged the seriousness of their plight. It now has an obligation to speed up its final decision, so that the industry will know exactly where it stands on the threshold of the jet era.

Defense of Non-Bicycle-Riders

Kenneth Rexroth, who has just received the Shelley Memorial Award of the Poetry Society of America, expressed some sentiments we liked very much in the making of a film at KETC for the Educational Television and Radio Center at Ann Arbor. Declaring that poetry is reaching more Americans than aforetime, Mr. Rexroth said it was impossible to say that a poetry reader is "better" than a non-reader. "That's like saying a bicycle rider is better than a non-bicycle-rider," he said.

Our position exactly. Walter Pater said it in another way when he said that art comes to us frankly proposing only to make the most of our moments as they pass. It isn't that the poetry reader is any better for it, but simply that he is better off. John Ciardi and Richard Eberhardt, the other poets who appeared with Mr. Rexroth on the "Values of American Life" series, took a sharply different tack. Mr. Eberhart said it was obvious that millions of Americans "get along from birth to death without art." Mr. Ciardi, whose view was still more acid, said only adults can appreciate poetry and "there aren't many adults walking around." "A man does not go into poetry to win great audiences," he said.

What seems to elude Mr. Ciardi particularly, and Mr. Eberhart to a lesser degree, is the fact that you don't attract audiences by sneering at them. If poetry is defined as something most people are not going to like, it may never occur to most people that they would like it provided they got acquainted with it. William Shakespeare wrote poetry for as large an audience as he could draw into a theater, and the quality of his product does not seem to have suffered.

Messrs. Ciardi and Eberhart appear to take the view that poetry is some sort of esoterica, available only to the elite. We think it a more realistic as well as a happier view that children and savages require the arts, including poetry, just as adults and sophisticates do, though in their own ways. The dreams of one and the artifacts of the other bear out this view. No bicycle rider on our own account, we take our stand firmly with Mr. Rexroth. Anyone, say we, can and, if unobstructed, will come to an understanding of himself that "richer than the minting of a gold-crowned king is the safe-kept memory of a lovely thing."

Saved by $10,000,000

If it is true that only Secretary Dulles's promise of $10,000,000 in American aid saved the Baghdad pact conference from failure, then the success of Soviet propaganda against the pact is greater than had been foreseen.

The Associated Press says "there was no doubt" that Mr. Dulles's cash promise saved the conference. The report raises the immediate question of how much value can be attached to a defensive military alliance which can be kept going only by cash from a non-member.

If Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan are not deeply enough interested in their own security to sustain and strengthen the pact, can outside aid from Britain and the United States replace in the long run their own will to defend themselves?

The question is not that simple, and neither is the answer. Western Europe's security and therefore that of the United States are involved in the Middle East as well as the security of the pact members. When we contribute $10,000,000 for a telecommunications network intended to strengthen the military shield of the pact countries, we are not merely doing them a favor. If the shield is strengthened, our own security is enhanced.

Nevertheless it should not be forgotten that the kind of "containment" which the Baghdad pact represents meets only one aspect of the total problem confronting the West. The pact's shield can be hurdled, not only by planes and missiles, but by political and economic penetration. That is just what has happened. Having leaped over the barrier, Soviet policy is now attacking it politically from within, apparently with some success.

It is simply not true to say, as the conferees said in their final communique, that Communist efforts at penetration, on the increase in the past year, can best be countered by military measures like the Baghdad pact. Even if the pact countries fairly bristled with missile bases and military power, this would not prevent the kind of political penetration that has been going on in Syria and economic penetration that has been going on in Egypt.

For this kind of threat, other than military responses are needed. Necessary as it is to maintain military capability, other kinds of capability are equally essential, in the Middle East as elsewhere.

Better Than New Taxes

The State Chamber of Commerce says withholding the state income tax from wages and salaries would be a "back door approach" to higher taxes. In our opinion, withholding represents a front-door approach to the whole tax problem, and its effect ought to be exactly the opposite of what the Chamber fears.

Milton Carpenter, State Director of Revenue, estimates that withholding would produce about $7,000,000 more revenue. Missouri is going to need more revenue. If it does not get the money through better collection of present taxes, it will have to consider higher taxes. Therefore withholding is one way to postpone the prospect of a tax rise.

As Gov. Blair said of the withholding principle, "It seems to me it would be cheaper than paying more taxes." Missouri businesses represented by the State Chamber of Commerce ought to find it so.

An Unholy Alliance

A panorama of unsavory relations between labor officials, business men and politicians is slowly being painted in the McClellan Committee's investigation of the Operating Engineers. Its details include torture, extortion and racketeering dictatorship of union locals in San Francisco, Philadelphia, Newark and perhaps Chicago.

The central figure in the canvas so far is Joey Fay, who was convicted of extortion in 1948 in connection with a $368,000 New York construction shakedown, and paroled in 1956. While in Sing Sing he was visited by politicians of both parties. According to testimony, $238,800 of union money was placed at Fay's disposal after his conviction. William E. Maloney of Chicago, international president of the union, is said to have kept Fay in power as head of the Newark local. But the 74-year-old Maloney says he is too ill to testify.

The committee is trying to find out whether he received $228,923 from S. A. Healy, president of S. A. Healy & Co. of Chicago, described as one of the largest construction firms in the United States. Healy, when called to testify, was the first witness to take the Fifth Amendment. He refused to give any information to the committee.

One of the more encouraging aspects of the investigation has been the testimony of Theodore McCarthy as to his torture by union-hired "goons." He opposed the way the Philadelphia local, which had elected officers for only four years since 1933, was being run. After his mistreatment, he went to the union hall to tell what had happened before going to a hospital for treatment. Other union members and officials also have told the committee of questionable activities. As a result three officers of the San Francisco local already have resigned.

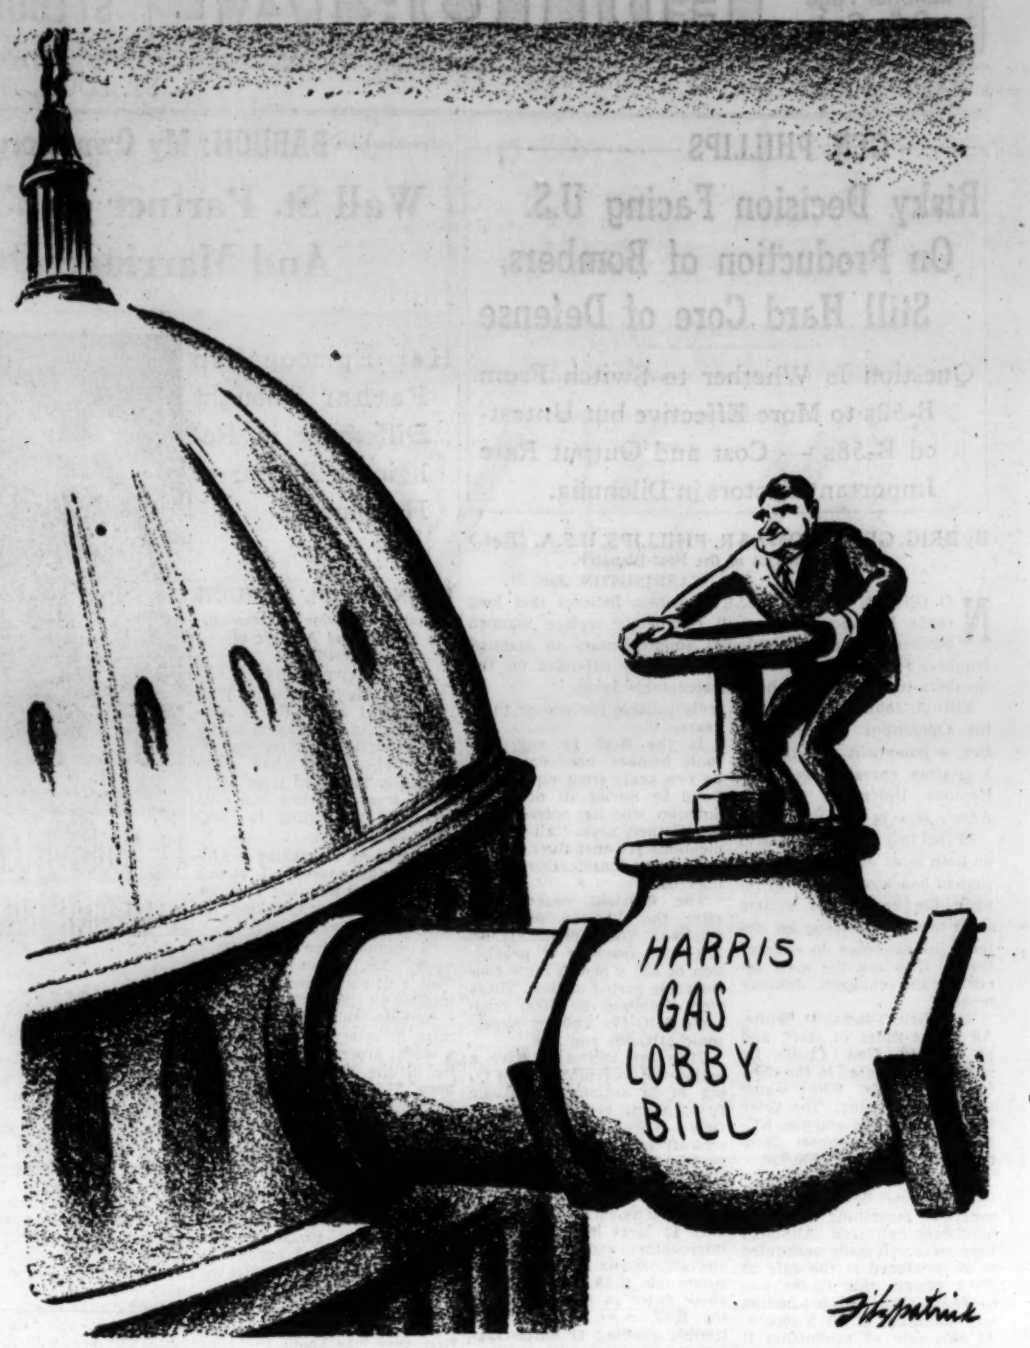
The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee will go to work on the case, starting Feb. 4. Obviously all the facts should be brought out. Nor should the disclosures result only in a committee report. Virtually all of the charges heard so far are gross violations of the criminal law. As such they are the concern of prosecutors.

A Mythplaced Myth

Dodge City, self-styled "Cowboy Capital," has had a Wild West festival in which Hugh O'Brian rode into town and kissed a girl. If anyone wonders why this is bang-up news, the answer lies on the television screen. Hugh O'Brian is Wyatt Earp, and has not been known to kiss any girls, ever.

Wyatt Earp has become what Davy Crockett was a few years ago, and what he never was in real life. In real life he was a two-fisted gent with a thick mustache, not a glamor boy or tourist trophy. There is not much reason to embellish the facts with myth, except the commercial one. Yet even Missouri had a Wyatt Earp week in 1955, to dramatize a clean-up award in Kansas City. While Wyatt Earp cleaned up a lot of towns and the O-K Corral in Tombstone, he never cleaned up Kansas City. That task was left to a federal district attorney named Maurice Milligan. Remember him?

As for Dodge City, the Cowboy Capital has seen mighty few cowboys in recent years. Men out that way ride tractors, not cayuses. If their wheat comes in they may ride Cadillacs down Wyatt Earp boulevard. There is no place to check guns on Front street. But Wyatt Earp is still good for business, dead or alive.



READY TO BE TURNED ON

Why There Is a Railroad Crisis

Rewards Are Going to Convenience Rather Than Efficiency

An Editorial in Business Week

In most parts of the world, when you talk about a transportation crisis, you mean that the wheels are falling off the rolling stock. But in the United States, you mean that even with a gross national product of about 440 billion dollars, there aren't enough goods and people moving to keep our transport facilities busy.

There are no precedents in the history books to suggest how this kind of crisis will turn out, because never before has there been a nation rich enough to indulge itself in this kind of crisis. The trouble arises from the simple fact that the United States has provided itself with three practically complete systems—one in the air, one over the highways, and one over the rails—plus an impressive set of inland waterways, a substantial amount of coastal shipping, and a system of pipelines.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Any one of the three basic systems is capable of doing far more than its one third of the nation's entire transport job, but no two of them are quite capable of doing it all.

The area of overlap is so great that somebody is bound to get hurt in the competitive scuffle.

At the moment, it is the railroads that are hurting worst—a fact that would puzzle and distress a classical economist, because the railroad clearly is the most economical and efficient way of moving large masses of goods and people around. But in what Prof. J. Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard has called "the unseemly economics of opulence," efficiency is less likely to be rewarded than convenience. And so the railroads, with their fixed roadbeds — and their equally fixed ideas of what to do with them—have been losing out to the trucks and autos on one side and the airplanes on the other.

Railroad men traditionally hate the truckers worst of all. But in truth, it is the passenger cars that have done the railroads in. Taxpayers would never have stood still for the enormous costs of the United States highway net if its purpose had been solely to provide a new system of hauling freight.

It was the rise of the passenger car and the motorization of the average United States family that forced a roadbuilding item into every state, local, and federal budget. With Detroit's chromium stardust in his eyes the ordinary voter didn't feel like an economic man and didn't act like one.

There's considerable poetic justice, therefore, in the fact that the showdown in transportation seems to be coming in the area of passenger service.

What railroad men want to do is knock out the worst of the loss operations in a hurry. Although no one will say so out loud, many think that the only real answer is to get out of passenger business altogether.

Failing that, they are determined to cut the service and push up the fares until what operations remain can pay.

But this is a losing game. It is the vicious circle of rising fares and declining traffic that has brought the railroad passenger business to its present unhappy situation. There is no reason to think that further trips around that circle will lead to anything better.

Recognition of this fact has pushed President George Alpert of the New Haven Railroad to the desperate expedient of suggesting a Government subsidy for his commuter operations.

But most railroad men think—probably correctly—that subsidies are a short, steep grade that leads downward to Government ownership.

The crisis that the railroads face is a real one in the sense that there is no easy way out, no simple and obvious solution that can be offered.

The answer, if there is one, lies in some complex combination of compromises that would involve railroad labor, local taxes, federal regulatory rules, and a long list of other considerations. The trouble is that there is no longer time to work out complex adjustments. The roads are getting panicky, and some of the panic is spreading to the regulatory agencies. And so the prospect now is for a series of rises in rates and slashes in both essential and nonessential service.

After the panic has passed, it may be that the long-term adjustments can be worked out.

But in the immediate future it looks as though the United States economy will be paying a rather peculiar price for its excess of riches.

John Fischer in Harper's Magazine

Most Americans would agree that no living man has served this country better than Dwight D. Eisenhower. His whole career has been devoted to the public service in a range of duties —soldier, military diplomat, educator, political leader—which has no parallel in our history. For these services all of us owe him a gratitude beyond measure.

There is now one last great service which President Eisenhower can perform for his country. He can resign.

In so doing, he would also serve his party—and the Free World—far better than he could by remaining in the White House.

There also is one great service which his friends, his official family, and the American people—who owe him so much—can now perform for the President.

They can do their best to persuade President Eisenhower that his resignation would be an act of wisdom, courage, and patriotism. That it is, in fact, his highest duty.

In all likelihood it will not be easy for President Eisenhower to accept this fact. The instinct of an old soldier must be prompting him to hang on, to stand to his post regardless of his wounds. Yet at the same time, President Eisenhower's military training, if nothing else, must be forcing him to question these instincts and urgings. He can hardly forget how he would have handled such a problem if it had involved one of his subordinates during World War. II. Suppose, for example, that Gen. Patton had been stricken with three grave illnesses during the course of his most desperately fought campaign . . . that he could stay in the field only about 40 per cent of the time . . . that crucial decisions repeatedly had to be postponed for days and weeks . . . that he was threatened at every moment with another heart attack, another intestinal blockage, another stroke. In such circumstances, the Supreme Commander could never have doubted what his duty was. He would have replaced him instantly with a well man.

President Eisenhower

Military regulations, in fact, do not permit an officer in President Eisenhower's condition to remain in command of a company of troops or the smallest naval vessel, even in peacetime.

But we are not at peace, and President Eisenhower does not command a mere destroyer. We are in the midst of the fiercest struggle for survival in our history, and he commands the Ship of State itself.

Between Book Ends

Gold for the Taking

The days of pirates are pretty well gone except for a few limited areas of the seas, and treasure ships wrecked by corsairs, reefs, storms or other accident are no more. But stories about them are still a very live subject, and probably few at one time or another in their lives haven't had at least a sneaking dream of recovering some of this wealth.

While Miss Stirling doesn't own up to having made a genuine try at finding a sunken treasure, she certainly doesn't make any bones about being interested in the subject. She's taken a bit different approach in her book, starting each of the first five sections with a detailed account of how the treasure involved was amassed and how it was lost in the sea. She describes in detail how at least a substantial portion of it was recovered.

There are the gold and silver from a Spanish treasure ship, sunk on Caribbean reefs after the metal was stolen in Peru from Incas murdered by Pizarro or his successors; the quantities of silver dumped overboard by Sir Francis Drake in a bay of the Isla de la Plata in order to lighten his ship for the run home after raiding Spanish vessels along the west coast of South America; the treasure, perhaps once stolen by Henry Morgan from his fellow pirates, found sealed in a cave off the Honduras coast; the bullion recovered from the Egypt, sunk off Brest in a collision in 1922; and, finally, the silver pesos from the Philippine national treasury dumped into the bay by American forces just before the fall of Corregidor to prevent their falling to the Japanese.

Miss Stirling is an experienced radio and television writer, and she's taken the liberty of dressing up her accounts of the accumulation and losing of the treasures with questions from supposed conversations of the persons involved. The result is a considerably freshened-up and readable account of an always fascinating subject. Oh yes, and for those who still like to dream of taking part in such an expedition, she throws in material on two more wrecks on which past efforts have failed and new ones are about to start.

Old Master Status

THEATRICAL COMPANION TO NOEL COWARD, by Raymond Mander and Joe Mitchenson. (Macmillan, $10.50.)

With the publication of this substantial exegesis, the third to be put out by this British writing team, Noel Coward takes on a kind of Old Master status in the theater. His two predecessors in this series were Bernard Shaw and Somerset Maugham, so the company he keeps is good.

WALTER LIPPMANN

WASHINGTON.

WHAT HAS BEEN COMING OUT OF RUSSIA recently makes me wonder whether Mr. Khrushchev and the other ruling men have had any clearer idea than we have had in the West about what business might be done at the summit.

The Kremlin, to be sure, has published a list of proposals it would like us to accept. And we, in turn, have put out a list of proposals which we say that the Soviet Union ought to accept. But the common characteristic of the two lists, if each is regarded as a whole, is that both are based on the idea of unconditional surrender—the Russian on the surrender of the West, and our list on the surrender of the Russians. This must be known to Mr. Khrushchev and his colleagues, and therefore the question is why he keeps on calling for a meeting at the summit when on the face of the public record there can be no agreement reached when we get there.

Khrushchev.

The answer to this question may be that as long as the West stood opposed to a meeting, as long as Mr. Dulles just didn't want to negotiate with the Russians, the Kremlin had a free ride for its propaganda.

Now That West Thaws.

The Soviet Union wanted to negotiate for peace. Mr. Dulles did not want to negotiate for peace. Who, then, was the hope of the world? Could anything have been easier?

But, once the Western position began to unfreeze, as it has been doing since the NATO meeting in Paris in December, the Kremlin has been having to face the practical problems of a meeting at the summit.

I am inclined to wonder whether this does not account for what Mr. Khrushchev said to the NATO ambassadors at the cocktail party in Moscow on Monday.

'Simple Things First.'

He said, in his off-hand but calculated manner, that negotiations should start with the simple issues before they come to the more difficult ones.

"It is like a meal. First, you have appetizers. Then soup and fish. Then, the main course. We should do the same. Let us agree on simple things first."

What makes this so interesting, and it may be so significant, is that it differs so radically from the idea of a grand meeting at the summit for the pretended purpose of dealing with all the great issues in one over-all package settlement.

In the big ponderous letters which the heads of the governments have been writing to each other, there is a pretense on each side that it wishes, while the other side does not wish, to settle everything at once.

To Avoid Disagreement.

At the cocktail party on Monday, Mr. Khrushchev disowned the over-all approach, which can be nothing but propaganda, and recommended the kind of approach from the smaller to the larger issues which alone could mean a serious and sincere negotiation.

If this is correct, then it would mean that as a meeting of the summit becomes a practical possibility, the Kremlin is concerned, as we in our own way are concerned, that it should not end in a disastrous disagreement.

If such a disagreement is to be avoided, the meeting must be given business to do which is small enough to be manageable, like the Lacy-Zaroubin business about cultural exchanges, and is yet appetizing enough to lead on to more business.

A Limited Agenda.

If what Mr. Khrushchev means is that he wants a big meeting with a small and very limited agenda, he is likely to be listened to carefully.

But he must realize that even a small and limited agenda will have to be negotiated carefully. One might hope it would be negotiated in the spirit and with the competence of the Lacy-Zaroubin negotiations.

For Mr. Khrushchev, as an old habitue of cocktail parties, should know that what some people treat as a mere appetizer, others would regard as a whole meal.

VIOLIN RECITAL BY ERICA MORINI

By MANUS SASONKIN

From the objective standpoint, Erica Morini, who presented a violin recital sponsored by the Community Concert Association at Clayton High School last night, defies criticism. Her technique is superlative; she played very few of what are known in professional circles as clinkers. Her tone is neat, fine, yet robust, and without a trace of thinness. Her intonation, while not flawless, is close enough to that rarified state to deflect prolonged carping. She controls the violin much as a lion-tamer controls his wards, calmly, and with a skill which elicits awe and admiration from an audience.

Subjectively considered, however, Miss Morini's playing might provoke some reservation. In her opening Tartini group, which consisted of a Sonata in G Minor, and a set of Variations on a Theme of Corelli, she seemed unable to formulate an interpretational point of view; vacillating between stick-like inflexibility and a rather mawkish kind of sentimentality, neither of which extreme suited the music particularly.

In the Mozart A Major Concerto, she seemed in rapport only with the first movement, whose opening solo cantilena fairly glowed with a restrained passion most appropriate to the 19-year-old composer, and whose allegro displayed Miss Morini's subtle phrasing at its exquisite best. But the adagio movement seemed routine and perfunctory and the finale which Mozart conceived in terms of riotous ebullience, lacked all wit.

Only in her last group (the Caprice Viennois of Kreisler, and the Valse Caprice and Souvenir de Moscou, both of Wieniawski), did Miss Morini come to unconditional terms with the music; and here she was entrancing, at least to her fellow violinists who could admire—with the proper sense of identification—the casual ease with which she disposed of the technical terrors assembled, particularly, by Wieniawski. Not being a violinist myself, I cannot expect that my own admiration carries much weight, but it is there, nonetheless.

Musically, of course, all three of these works contain less substance than any one measure from the Mozart concerto, and Miss Morini's deft, straightforward readings, devoid of pretension or affectation, could not have been more appropriately devised.

Miss Morini was accompanied by Albert Hirsh, who played a solo group consisting of music by Bach, Debussy and Bartok. Miss Morini gave her audience two encores, both of which were received with avidity.

'Sunrise at Campobello' Has Broadway Premiere — Concerns 1921-1924.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Playwright Dore Schary did a thorough job of research into a tragic portion of the life of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. The result is a moving character study and semi-biography in the new play, "Sunrise at Campobello." It had a brilliant Broadway premiere at the Cort Theater last night.

This is a story, in meticulous detail, of 34 months of pain and despair through which Roosevelt suffered from the time he was paralyzed with polio in 1921 until he had started his comeback in 1924.

It is a story of sheer courage against what seemed to be an illness that would end the career of a man who was later to become Governor of New York, President of the United States and a dominating leader in international affairs.

And the producers, the Theater Guild and Schary, have done a distinguished production in presenting this story on stage.

Ralph Bellamy gives a moving, exciting performance of Roosevelt, a performance that shows exhausting research into every detail of what Roosevelt thought and did during this tragic period. And Mary Fickett gives an equally moving performance in the role of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, as does Henry Jones in the role of Roosevelt's loyal aid and friend, Louis McHenry Howe.

Mrs. Roosevelt called it fine entertainment and expressed delight with the acting of Bellamy and Mary Fickett. But she added:

"It has no more to do with me than the man in the moon. I don't recognize myself on stage. I have no feelings of reality about it. It might just as well be about someone from Mars."

EXHIBIT TO TRACE MISSISSIPPI RIVER BOATING HISTORY

A major exhibition of steamboating mementos from collectiosn of the Missouri Historical Society and Miss Ruth Ferris, assistant curator and a collector, will go on display tomorrow in the society's pictorial history gallery in the west wing of Jefferson Memorial, it was announced today.

The exhibition, "Along the Mississippi," traces river transportation from the earliest times, illustrated by lithographs of Indians in bull boats made of animal hides and dugout canoes, through the flat boat and keel boat stages to steamboating and includes photographs of modern barges.

Colored lithographs of some of the finest steamboats which plied the river trade are featured. Other items in the exhibit include a folding fan which bears the autographs of steamboat captains and passengers, a set of braided bell pulls, tickets and menus.

A special preview of the exhibit for society members, at which Donald T. Wright, editor of the Waterways Journal, will discuss "Living With River History," originally scheduled for today at 8:15 p.m. has been postponed to Feb. 14 because of the heavy snow today.

SCHIPPERS IN DUAL SYMPHONY ROLE

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

Thomas Schippers, the talented young American conductor who is seemingly on his way to a big career, took over the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra last night in Kiel Auditorium for a pair of concerts. His initial performance was notable more for its fidelity of spirit than for its precision, despite the fact that his beat was incisive, clear and flexible. Evidently the available rehearsal time was not enough for the establishing of complete communication between conductor and orchestra.

Schippers was his own soloist in the Mendelssohn D Minor Piano Concerto, a work with the same facile charm as the more familiar — and slightly more carefree — concerto in G Minor. The performance moved with ease and freedom. The chief executant was as confident in one role as in the other. He had to be; for if his finger memory had not been equal to his mental grasp he could not have leaped—and it was quite literally a leap at times — from one operation to the other with such skill. So it was a dashing performance, and one that gave you something to see as well as to hear.

Time lags at entrances, however, kept the total effect from having a desirable finish. Then, too, if the tonal weight had been lighter, the best qualities of the concerto—its exuberance, decorative flourishes and linear fluency — would have been better served.

The suite from Richard Strauss's "Rosenkavalier" had an appealing romantic grace and ardor. The Viennese rubato is supposed to be an enigma to all non-Austrians; but Mr. Schippers produced something in the way of rhythmic flexibility that would pass for the real article in most places, as it did here.

The Sibelius Symphony No. 2, which was played in the second half of the program, sounded as if it had been imaginatively studied and thoroughly assimilated. Its special coloring was not always well realized in the performance; the trumpets and trombones played their fortissimo swells with too much raw violence and the wood choir was frequently too edgy. But even if these and other lapses from good form occurred too often, the performance was still impressively mysterious, somber and convulsive in the first three movements. The banal and awkwardly scored finale doesn't count.

The program is being repeated this afternoon.

MOTHERS TO MARCH ON POLIO TONIGHT

40,000 in City, County to Visit Homes Between 6:30 and 7:30.

About 40,000 women in St. Louis and St. Louis county will march on polio tonight, despite the heavy snow fall, in a door-to-door solicitation of funds as the annual climax of the month-long March of Dimes campaign.

Residents of the area have been asked to turn on their porch lights between 6:30 and 7:30 o'clock, the period of the march, as a welcome to the volunteer workers.

"We believe that every resident of the city and county will be reached on the Mothers' March this year," Postmaster Bernard F. Dickmann, general chairman, said.

"Mrs. Leslie T. Barco and Mrs. Donald Gunn, co-chairman in the city, and the chairmen of more than 100 county communities under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Fingerhut, county chairman, have amassed an army of mothers for this all-important event." Dickmann urged every citizen to make a generous contribution.

"One out of every three of the victims for whom the wonderful Salk vaccine arrived too late can be rehabilitated if the money needed for their treatment is available," he said.

'Love Our Neighbor' Commandment Not Being Obeyed, Council Says.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—The National Council of Churches said today its annual race relations message holds that "the commandment to love our neighbor has been honored more in the breach than in the fulfillment."

The announcement added that the message says that in the final analysis "a neighbor is any one of any color, in need, wherever he may be."

"To love our neighbor and to show mercy today," the announcement stated, "means to suport those who seek freedom and justice in the face of discrimination, segregation and neglect . . ."

The message, issued by the council today, will be read from thousands of pulpits on Race Relations Sunday, Feb. 9. The 1500-word message is addressed to the 38,000,000 members of the 34 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations represented by the council.

The council announcement said the message urges the members "to put the same generosity and mercy into their relations with people close at hand that they have put into world missions programs."

The race relations message for this year was prepared by the Rev. Mrs. James D. Wyker, of the Disciples of Christ, who lives in Mount Vernon, O. She is immediate past president of the National Council's general department of United Church Women.

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 31—Black-haired Tommy Smith, little guard, and gangling George Burkel, string-bean forward, had lifted St. Louis University basketball hopes today as the Billikens took off for Stillwater, Okla.

The two sophomores combined for 31 points here last night, 26 of them in a second half during which the Billikens came from 11 points down to defeat Wichita's suddenly shockless Shockers, 81 to 73.

It was an important victory for a St. Louis team that had been having trouble finding itself and a timely lift as the Bills headed for the second and toughest contest on a three-game trip — tomorrow night against Oklahoma State.

The Bills, now 8-and-6 for the season, will need their new-found confidence when they tackle Henry Iba's Cowpokes (12-2) in what this season, for the first time in the famous series, is not a conference battle.

Oklahoma State, formerly the Aggies, has departed the Missouri Valley league and has taken up with those well-rounded fellows of the Big Eight. But the character of the basketball has not changed and the Bills will be severely tested by the country's sixth-ranked team, which was upset at Houston Monday but now will be back in Gallagher Hall.

Happy Memory.

A year ago in a conference championship season, St. Louis U. threw off the Aggie yoke by winning the home-and-home set. This season's St. Louis team isn't as capable. But when it beat Wichita in Shockers' Field House, the present Billiken team did something that last year's champions didn't do.

"Nobody knows how hard we worked for this one," said St. Louis Coach Eddie Hickey after the victory over Wichita, the twenty-second in a series in which Wichita has won only four.

Hickey was expressing a tribute to his team that could have taken a wrong turn for the season, could have given up against a Wichita team which had been beaten only by Oklahoma State in nine previous home games.

"That comeback (against Wichita) took a lot of courage," Hickey told his boys, and he urged them to continue the response they showed to an old coach who won't be satisfied until they are completely polished.

The Bills are digging now. Soph Burkel, gradually gaining aggressiveness, drove for baskets. Jack Mimlitz made an "Oscar Robertson move" to get inside for one of his scores. And the fast little Smith was coming up with the ball and helping to solve the backline problem.

Better Everything.

Five St. Louis players were in double figures. Smith and Mimlitz each had 17, Burkel 14, Rich Rogers 12, and Bob Ferry 11. That spells better teamwork, better ball-handling, as well as better shooting.

Wichita, 11-5 for the season, dropped to fourth place as St. Louis took over third in the Valley standings with a 3-2 mark. The Shockers followed the custom of most St. Louis opponents by putting on a press defense. But the Bills have been working hard on an attack against the press, and as Hickey said afterward, the worst thing that happened to St. Louis in the first half was that Wichita dropped back to a normal defense. A run of 11 Wichita points at the end of the period left St. Louis down by 48-37 at the intermission.

Five minutes after the second half began, St. Louis was still 10 points behind and Ferry was on the bench with four fouls. Burkel replaced Ferry's temporary substitute, Don Hake, and things began to happen. Burkel, with scoring support from Mimlitz and Rogers, drove, jumped and hit from the corner. And as Cal Burnett battled the boards to get the ball, the Billikens opened up with a fast break that was a fast break.

Wasteful Wichita.

With 10:55 left, the score was tied at 57-57. Burkel pumped in four more field goals while Wichita, shooting wildly, got only three free throws and St. Louis was ahead, 67-60.

The Wichita panic, disappointing a crowd of 6144, settled for a moment and the Shockers tied it up at 69-69 with 4:53 left. Burkel drove again for a 71-69 lead and Hickey called time. He sent Ferry back into the game, and called for a delayed offense strategy by the Bills. And it worked like a charm, including recovery of the ball, frequently by Smith, after five missed free-throws. Wichita cut St. Louis's lead to 77-73 with 1:24 left, but the Bills then put on the freeze.

It will be nice if the freeze is going for the same team tomorrow night at Stillwater.

Douglas 70, Harrison 72 In Golf Event

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 31 (UP) — Dow Finsterwald, who makes $40,000 a year playing "conservative golf," and Stan Mosel, an unknown who makes $15,000 a year as a club pro, went into the second round of the Phoenix open golf tournament today deadlocked for first place and holding a two-stroke lead over the rest of the field.

Finsterwald, a notorious slow starter in tournament play, who has finished second 13 times in the last two years, while winning only two events, had a steady 33-33 in the opening round, while Mosel had 32-34.

Dave Douglas of St. Louis, was four strokes off the pace with 70. He had 34 for the first nine and 36 coming back.

There were 25 players who cracked par-71 on tight little Phoenix Country Club course. So the race was wide open.

"There are so many good players in contention that this tournament will go right down to the wire with a dozen men having a chance to win it," said E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of St. Louis, recent winner of the Tijuana open, who was slightly off the pace with 72: Defending Champion Billy Casper of Apple Valley, Calif., had the same score.

At 68, were John McMullin, a pro from Alameda, Calif.; Tom Jacobs, another beginner, from Whittier, Calif.; Wes Ellis Jr., Ridgewood, N.J., and the veteran Jerry Barber, Los Angeles.

At 69 came Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla.; Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex.; Shelley Mayfield, Westbury, N.Y.; Bert Weaver, Beaumont, Tex.; J. C. Goosie, Knoxville, Tenn.; Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N.C., and Lyle Crawford, Vancouver, B.C.

Baseball Dissatisfied, Football and Basketball OK Anti-Trust Bill

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Football and basketball appeared to be happy today with prospective legislation for professional sports, but baseball expressed concern over certain aspects of the bill drafted by the House Anti-Trust subcommittee.

In brief, the bill would make only commercial aspects of baseball, football, basketball and ice hockey — concessions, ticket sales, stadium rentals, etc—liable to anti-trust laws. Other aspects—reserve clauses, player drafts, farm systems, territorial rights, etc — which are "reasonably necessary" to the sports would escape monopoly jurisdiction.

It's that "reasonably necessary" phrase which troubles baseball, and even some members of the subcommittee which drafted the bill in Washington.

TV Still a Problem.

Particularly upsetting to baseball officials was the fact the legislators threw the television problem back into their laps.

Chairman Celler (Dem.), New York, who drafted the bill, said it "encourages baseball to work out a television agreement." He defined "reasonably necessary" as anything "not detrimental to either the public or the sport itself."

It would be up to the courts, however, to decide what is detrimental, he added. Pro sports have known that all along.

Celler said the bill may not be perfect and that he plans to let "the dust settle a little bit" before introducing it to the full judiciary committee. "Now is the time for everyone to take pot shots at the bill," he added.

Baseball obliged. One executive, who declined to be identified, said: "We could have reached a TV agreement long ago. The problem isn't between the majors and the minors."

What baseball wanted, and didn't get, was a bill listing what it could and could not do in restricting TV under anti-trust laws—thus making costly court action unnecessary.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, while not commenting directly on the bill, said he hoped the Judiciary Committee would not recommend legislation "that would subject organized sports to the constant threat of litigation."

Celler admitted, in effect, that he had just lowered his head and charged when he called the hearings on professional sports last year. "The bill certainly isn't as stringent as I originally had planned," he said. "But I felt the testimony warranted leniency."

Reserve Clause Approved.

Approval of the reserve clause, originally a touchy subject to Celler, is a load off baseball's mind. The clause, giving a club title to any player it signs until he retires or is traded, is the foundation of the sport.

Pro football, originally found subject to anti-trust laws, got a break when the bill limited such jurisdiction to "commercial aspects." Baseball, found to be "an unique business" by the Supreme Court, already had enjoyed that distinction. It was such inequality Celler attempted to remedy.

Bert Bell, national football league commissioner, said the proposed bill was "a wonderful job. We are very appreciative and delighted."

Maurice Podoloff, president of the National Basketball Association, said "without having read the bill, it appears very fair and co-operative."

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League reserved comment.

Boxing was not included in the bill. That sport now is in a court fight over its anti-trust status.

Nagel Is Named Utah U. Coach

Nagel was one of the three candidates considered for the position. The others were Andy Everest, a Utah assistant, and Tally Stevens, former Utah player and now an assistant at Brigham Young University.

Nagel will receive a salary of $12,000 a year from the Skyline Conference school. Curtice resigned earlier this month to accept the head football coaching job at Stanford University.

Nagel has been assistant to Red Sanders at U.C.L.A. for three years. Previously, he served as an assistant under Bud Wilkinson at Oklahoma.

Del Webb's Firm to Convert Dodger Field

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31 (AP) — The contract under which Memorial Coliseum will be converted into a baseball park for the Los Angeles Dodgers has been given to a New York Yankee man.

He is Del E. Webb, co-owner of the Yankees and also owner of a contracting firm that bears his name.

Dodger President Walter O'Malley, a friend of Webb, said in announcing the contract award yesterday that the conversion job will start as soon as the team's lease on the stadium is signed. The Coliseum commission is expected to do this in a week or so.

O'Malley figures the conversion will cost more than $200,000.

Campy Showing Quicker Gains Than Expected

The 36-year-old Campanella, catcher for the Los Angeles Dodgers, suffered a broken neck early Tuesday in an automobile crash and remained paralyzed and in critical condition.

A medical bulletin released this morning by the Glen Cove Community Hospital said that a tracheotomy was performed last night when the lung infection was discovered. In that operation, an opening is made in the throat and a tube is inserted. Doctors said that Campanella "spent a restful night" after that.

Text of the bulletin:

"Last night, the patient's temperature rose and he showed evidence of infection in the right lung. A tracheotomy was performed in order to assist the patient in removing mucous from the lungs. Following this procedure, the patient was greatly improved, spent a restful night and his temperature is lower this morning. There is no change in feeling from the last bulletin and the paralysis is unchanged."

The previous bulletin, released late Thursday, reported that Campanella had feeling in the abdomen as well as hands, arms and upper chest.

Harry Gifford, the hospital administrator, pointed out that Campanella is improving faster than originally expected but that he remains on the critical list. Gifford said the Los Angeles Dodgers' three-time National League most valuable player "has been a good patient."

Ruthe Campanella, Roy's wife, visited his bedside yesterday and reported, "he looks much more cheerful and is even telling jokes." Dave, Roy's 16-year-old son, Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, and Dr. Herbert Fett, Dodger team physician, were other visitors.

Gifford said the flood of telephone calls inquiring about Campanella's condition ran into the thousands but were reduced when medical bulletins became more optimistic.

English Soccer Team To Tour U.S.; Likely To Play in St. Louis

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Officials of Manchester City, one of Britain's top soccer clubs, said today it will tour the United States and Canada this summer, starting in May.

St. Louis is on the tentative itinerary of the Manchester City team, it was announced by Bob Guelker, executive secretary of the C.Y.C., the local body that will sponsor the St. Louis visit of the English League team.

"We have made our bid for one match here," said Guelker. "Negotiations are still in progress, and we have every reason to believe we'll be included in the itinerary." Last year, Glasgow Celtic stopped here for a match with C.Y.C. stars and won, after a hard tussle, 3-0.

Boushka Declares He Rejected Offer From Minneapolis Lakers

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 31 (INS)—Dick Boushka, former St. Louis U. basketball star, now playing with the Wichita Vickers team, said today he recently turned down a "very good contract" from the Minneapolis Lakers.

Boushka, who is employed by the Vickers Petroleum Co. in Wichita, said:

"I feel my future here looks good at this time, so I won't turn pro—at least not this year."

The basketball player would not disclose terms of the rejected contract, which was reported to be $40,000 for two years.

Boushka said he recently was placed in charge of sales in the petro-chemical division of the company.

Boushka commented: "It was one of those decisions you have to make, and I think I did the right thing, so I'm not going to look back."

There were no upsets in the first round, but Mrs. Cookie Swift Berger, Buffalo, N.Y., and Mary Janssen, Charlottesville, Va., were pushed to the nineteenth hole before beating Shirley Lindsay, Decatur, and Dinah Gartner, Emporium, Pa., 1-up.

One of the favored teams, Barbara Romack Porter, Sacramento, Calif., and Anne Richardson, Columbus, O., shot even-men's-par golf to survive with a 2-and-1 victory over Mrs. Grady McDonald, Atlanta, and Doris Phillips, Belleville, Ill.

Collinsville Five Seeks Eighth Loop Victory

Everytime Collinsville and East St. Louis get together on the athletic field you can expect some excitement so tonight's basketball game on the Kahok floor may be no exception.

Despite the variance in records—Collinsville is 15-2 and East St. Louis 4-8—the Flyers of Pick Dehner believe they have a chance against the Southwestern Conference champions, who have won 19 straight games over a two-year period. Vergil Fitcher's Kahoks are 7-0 in the league, East St. Louis 2-5, but the Flyers base their hopes for a victory on the fact that they lost by a mere two points, 54-52, the first time around last December.

Collinsville has an 11-game winning streak working.

In other league matches Edwardsville (2-4) is at Alton (2-4) and Granite City (1-6) at Belleville (5-2).

Collinsville has the leading marksman in Bart Basola, 140 points in seven league games. Runner-up is Rich Williams of Granite City, 137. Jerry Messick, Wood River, is next with 108. Then follow three East St. Louisans — Willie Foggy 100, John Wyrostek 89 and Don Brooks 87. Edwardsville's Bob White also has 87 points.

First place will be at stake in the ABC League game between Principia Academy and John Burroughs tonight on the Bomber floor. Each is 2-0 in the race.

St. Louis U. High, the only undefeated team in the area, entertains O'Fallon Tech, looking for its 15th straight triumph.

Cleveland, the Public High leader and Southwest, the runner-up, play a non-league game tonight at Cleveland and then watch tomorrow while the other P.H.L. schools engage in the usual Saturday afternoon doubleheaders.

Beaumont, which soon may break out in a rash of successive victories, opposes Soldan at Hadley Tech after the host Lions take on Sumner. Central, with the league's leading scorer, Leroy Edwards, meets Roosevelt in the 1:30 game at St. Louis U. High. Edwards has 96 points, six more than Cleveland's Bruce Mills.

In the second game Vashon meets McKinley.

Players, Manager, Coaches To Vote

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (UP)—Major league ball players reacted favorably today to a new all-star vote plan that puts them on the spot and the fans in the hole of "second-guessers."

Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, predicted the vote eventually "will be returned to the fans" but other comment was unanimously in favor of Commissioner Ford Frick's decision. Frick announced yesterday that the 1958 All-Star teams will be picked by a poll of managers, coaches and players because of the "farce" created in last year's falloting.

"It's my opinion, after the new plan receives a thorough trial, the results will require the devising of a method to return the selections to the fans," said Paul. "I'm sorry to see the game taken away from the fans. . . . It belongs to them."

Paul defended the fan balloting that last year elected seven Redlegs to the National League squad and brought about a special ruling from Frick to "put a representative team on the field." A barrage of 550,000 votes from Cincinnati created the problem which Paul said developed "because there was just more voting here than in other areas. . . . If the fans of other communities had been given the same voting opportunities as this area, there would have been greater satisfaction with the results."

Three for Each Position.

The new system will have the managers, coaches and players picking three players for each position. They will vote only for members of other teams to avoid possible ballot-stuffing charges, and the rival managers will be bound to start the top eight players.

Those who went on record in support of Frick's change included Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, Red Schoendienst of the Milwaukee Braves, Gil Hodges of the Brooklyn Dodgers, General Manager Johnny McHale of the Detroit Tigers and Managers Bobby Bragan of the Cleveland Indians and Danny Murtaugh of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I think it will be good for a change and it will be interesting to see what the ball players come up with," said Musial, who has appeared in 13 All-Star games. "Until they revise the plan so fans can vote on their best judgment, I'm in favor of the new way."

"I guess it's a good idea," said Schoendienst. "I thought it was a good idea when the fans voted, but that didn't seem to work out."

Players Know, Says Hodges.

"It sounds like it might work out all right," Hodges said. "Nobody knows better than the players how good—or bad—they are, and I expect they'll all be honest in the way they vote."

"Frick runs the game and if he decides that's the best way to do things, it'll be all right with the Detroit club," commented McHale.

"It's a good system," Bragan said flatly. "If anybody can make a just selection for a valid All-Star team it should be done that way. I think the public would probably recognize the quality will be there."

"It'll result in stronger lineups," commented Murtaugh. "The National League always wants to win that game real bad. That's why the players will vote for the strongest possible team to represent them."

"The new arrangement is for one year only," said Frick, and, if after one year of trial a return to the old system or the development of a new idea seems indicated, such action will be taken without hesitation."

Frick then added:

"I'm in favor of the fan vote, if it can be done honestly. But the way it was, it was a joke. And if the players can't pick a good team, I don't know how you'll get one."

Frick said he expected a total of some 400 to 500 ballots to be cast and said the tabulation of the ballots could be "done in three days if necessary."

Since the game was started in 1933, the teams have been selected by fans exclusively, by combination-votes of fans and managers and by the managers themselves. Always some problem has arisen to make officials want to scrap the plan in favor of another.

As John P. Wilson, one of many New York fans polled by the United Press, said:

"I'm agin it. Now I won't be able to cast my annual vote for Dusty Rhodes."

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Meeting at a luncheon in Cleveland yesterday, GIL McDOUGALD, New York Yankee infielder, (right) examines the right eye of HERB SCORE, Cleveland Indians pitcher, and pronounces it "good as ever." It was McDougald who hit the line drive, last May, that almost cost the loss of the eye. The injury kept Score out of action last season.

Braves Sign Spahn, Face Crowd of Raise-Seekers

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 31 (UP)—The Milwaukee Braves hoped today that the signing of star pitcher Warren Spahn—for a reported $60,000—would break the logjam of unsigned players which includes almost all of the club's higher salaried personnel.

Still unsigned and apparently holding out for big pay raises after helping the club to the National League pennant and the world championship are such as Third Baseman Eddie Mathews, Henry Aaron, the league's Most Valuable Player, Second Baseman Red Schoendienst and Pitchers Lew Burdette, the hero of the World Series, and Bob Buhl.

Add to the list the likes of Outfielders Wes Covington and Bob Hazle, First Baseman Frank Torre and Pitchers Ernie Johnson and Don McMahon, and the Milwaukee front office is a long way from satisfying everyone.

Easy to Convince.

Spahn, the oldest player on the Milwaukee roster in terms of service, had little trouble convincing General Manager John Quinn he was entitled to a raise form the estimated $50,000 he took home last year for winning 21 games. The 36-year-old lefthander said he was "very happy" with his new contract after a brief ceremony.

Before departing, however, Spahn got in a good word, accidentally or on purpose, for almost all of the yet unsigned Braves. He listed the 1957 play of Mathews, Aaron, Covington and Hazle, among others, as the reason the Braves won the pennant last year and stand a good chance of repeating in 1958.

Pitcher Bob Trowbridge, who compiled a 7-5 record, and Rookie Infielder Joe Morgan, who batted .316 with Atlanta in the Southern Association last year, were other Braves coming to terms.

Other signings around the majors included Pitchers Tom Gorman and John Tsitouris by the Kansas City Athletics, who now have 14 players signed, and Pitchers Bob Kelly and Bill Wight and Outfielders Jerry Lynch and Chico Alvarez by the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Brewer Signs.

Right-hander Tom Brewer, for two years the Boston Red Sox' winningest pitcher, signed a 1958 contract. Brewer won 16 games last year while starting 32 and finishing 15. He lost 13 games. In 1956 he had 19 wins against nine losses.

In bonus deals, the Chicago White Sox signed Allen Schrader, 19-year-old catcher from Humboldt State College in Arcata, Calif., for an estimated $25,000. Schrader was signed to a contract with Davenport, Ia., in the Three-I League.

The Philadelphia Phillies announced they signed George (Hooks) Horwath, a left-handed pitcher from Bethlehem, Pa., to a bonus contract for a "five-figure sum." Horwath, 22, has been placed on the roster of Williamsport, Pa., Philadelphia's affiliate in the Class A Eastern League. The five-foot 10-inch 165-pounder was discharged from the Air Force two weeks ago. He compiled a 39-12 record while pitching for service teams in Japan during the last three years, the Phillies said.

Al Benton Released On Bad Check Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31 (UP)—Al Benton, 46, former Detroit Tiger relief pitcher, was freed by San Francisco police after San Diego authorities dropped bad check charges against him.

Benton was taken into custody here on a 1954 San Diego warrant as he walked out of Federal District Court where he had been put on five years probation in connection with illegal transportation of a stolen automobile.

Nubar Tashjian, Benton's attorney, said the ex-ball player has arranged to make restitution of $150 involved in four bad checks.

Cards Make Dark Happy With $40,000

Alvin Dark, the quiet man with the big voice in matters on the Cardinal infield, has agreed to give the Cardinals his 35-year-old services for another season. What the Cardinals have agreed to give him is estimated to be $40,000, a raise of perhaps $1500.

The announcement that Dark has signed his 1958 contract was made yesterday by the Cardinal office. The contract was received in the mail. Dark makes his home at Lake Charles, La., but was in St. Louis last weekend and spoke then to club officials.

Dark's most readily recognized talent is with a bat, a highly accurate weapon in his hands. He is one of the league's best at hitting to the opposite field. Dark's less easily spotted talent is his steadying influence upon other players, particularly pitchers. Many Cardinal pitchers have come to consider a quiet word of advice from Alvin their best bet in times of trouble.

In 1957, his first full season as a Cardinal, Dark played in 140 games and hit .290, his best average since he assisted the Giants to a pennant and a World Series title in 1954. He drove in 64 runs, batting in second place, a most respectable total for his place in the batting order.

Dark came to the Cards in 1956, in the multiple-player deal with the Giants that had Red Schoendienst as the other principal figure. Since late last season, there has been speculation that a spring-training move might find Shortstop Dark switched to third base, in a position-exchange with Eddie Kasko.

Mayor Says New York Could Build Stadium

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (UP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner announced today that New York City is ready to build a sports stadium on city-owned land if the National League makes a "firm commitment" to place a team here.

Wagner, at a brief news conference, said the stadium could be ready for 1960. He said the location, cost, size and other details would be worked out by the Board of Estimate, the city's highest legislative body. The Mayor said he has heard that Ebbets Field, home of the Brooklyn (now the Los Angeles) Dodgers might be available in 1959 if a National League club moves here by then.

Wagner said the stadium would be self-liquidating and constructed outside the city debt limit so it "would not cost the taxpayers a nickel."

The mayor said a city-owned area in Flushing Meadow, which served as the site of the 1939 world's fair, is "one of the main spots under consideration." Robert Moses, commissioner of parks, has advocated that area for a ball park.

Wagner warned that the city "can't build a stadium without a firm commitment" from the National League or a club.

"You have to have a prime tenant," he said. "Now, it's up to the National League."

Pitt Deals St. John's Its First Defeat; Miami (O.) Slows Robertson

Seattle's Baylor Hits 60 Points

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—It wasn't much of a surprise when Pittsburgh removed St. John's of Brooklyn as the last unbeaten team in major college basketball last night. The real eye-opener was at Cincinnati, where Miami of Ohio gave Oscar Robertson all sorts of trouble before he broke loose to retain his national scoring lead.

No one was sitting back yawning at Seattle, either. Not with Elgin Baylor, the No. 3 scorer, setting a school record and hitting the season high with 60 points as Seattle came from 19 points back and beat Portland, 94-91.

Pitt, favored as the home team and because St. John's had lost its big man to injury, whipped the Redmen, 86-73. St. John's, ranked thirteenth in the Associated Press poll, had won nine straight. Pitt is 10-5.

St. John's, hurtin' without 6-6 Lou Roethel, had one big drive. The Redmen outscored Pitt 18-5 in the last six minutes of the first half, but still trailed 42-37 at the intermission. Little Al Seiden (5-11) scored 10 of those 18 and finished with 28. He was the only Redman in double figures.

Don Hennon, the 5-8 sniper who is fourth in scoring with a 26.5 average, scored 25 for Pitt and extended his free throws-made streak to 34. The national record is 42, held by former Duquesne star Dave Ricketts.

Robertson Held to 30.

Cincinnati, ranked No. 3, made its record 14-2 by beating Miami 79-59, with Robertson scoring 30. He got 12 in the last three and a half minutes after Miami had whittled the Bearcats' lead to 61-56.

Cincy led by only eight at the half after a four-man zone and the dogged man-to-man defense of John Powell had held Robertson to one fielder and seven points. Oscar managed just four shots from the field in the first half. Wayne Embry led Miami with 18. Powell had 17.

Robertson's lead over idle Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas in points-per-game average was trimmed a bit. Oscar has scored 523 points in 16 games for a 32.7 average. Wilt has 32.4 on 389 points in 12 games.

Baylor, topping the year's previous high of 56 set by Robertson against Seton Hall, remained third in the scoring race, but jumped from a 29.7 average to 31.7 on 476 in 15 games.

Baylor counted 24 field goals for Seattle, which trailed by only three at the half, but then fell way behind before sinking its sloppy play. A full court press made it 81-71 with 3 minutes left. Baylor tied it 89-all with a layup and then stole the ball for a 91-89 Seattle lead with 40 seconds remaining.

Duke Beats Virginia.

Duke, the club that handed top-ranked West Virginia its first defeat Monday, gained its third straight victory with a 88-71 setback of Virginia in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. St. Louis U. overhauled hot-shooting Wichita, 81-73, in the Missouri Valley Conference. Connecticut made it 15 straight in the Yankee Conference, whipping Maine, 84-62.

Duke did not play up to the form it showed in its West Virginia upset, but Paul Schmidt (6-5) scored 20 and held visiting Virginia's 6-7 Herb Busch to eight.

Once-beaten Boston College won its eleventh, defeating Ivy League's Harvard, 65-60. Barry McGrath and John Magee scored six points between them in a 15-second tear that gave B.C. the lead to stay at 60-56. St. Peter's of New Jersey, the club that beat Boston College, whipped Hartford, 70-56, and now has a 11-2 record. Rutgers defeated Rhole Island, 86-68. Detroit rapped Western Ontario, 76-47, and Wheaton, the N.C.A.A. small college champ, made it 14 of 14 by beating Augustana (Ill.), 66-61.

Concordia Host To Culver, Then Plays at Cape

Concordia Seminary's basketball team hopes to snap a four-game losing streak tonight when it meets Culver-Stockton College of Canton, Mo., for the second time this season. Play at the Concordia field house, San Bonita and Concordia Lane, is slated for 8:30.

The Preachers won the first contest with Culver-Stockton, 82-74, at Canton, largely because they made good on 55 per cent of their field goal attemps. Since that time Concordia had a shooting average of 40 per cent or more on only two occasions.

Joe Hauser, the 6-foot-3 jump-shot artist with a Lutheran High background, is still convalescing from an attack of pleurisy and a sprained ankle and may see only limited service for Concordia. He was the team's leading scorer last season with a record-breaking 495 points and a 23.6 average but he's averaging only 15 a game this season.

Hauser racked up 28 points in the previous win over Culver and his performance put Pete Pederson's team over the top. The Canton squad comes to St. Louis with an 11-5 record and a hot one-two scoring punch in Andy Balazs, 6 feet, 5 inches, and Dave Marr, 5-9. Balazs tallied 28 points against Concordia in December and Marr 21.

Another close rivalry will be renewed tomorrow night when Concordia travels to Cape Girardeau to play Southeast Missouri State College. The Preachers have won nine and Cape eight of the meetings between the teams in past years and the Indians will be trying to avenge a 71-64 defeat at the hands of Concordia last winter.

Moran and Hines Score 42 Points as McBride Triumphs Over Chaminade in Meet Final

By Harold Tuthill.

McBride High has just about made up its mind to play the way everybody believed it could at the start of the basketball season. Brother Norbert Grass's Irish last night won from Chaminade, 65-51, in the final of the tenth annual De Andreis tournament and the manner in which the Micks beat their Catholic League rivals convinced most of the spectators that McBride, at last, is on its way.

The Irish have been hampered by various ailments, including a failure to click as a unit, but since the first of the year they have looked better. Their victory over Chaminade was the fourth straight and their seventh in eight games this month.

Credit for the decisive victory over the Chaminade Flyers of Brother Ray Davenport properly belongs to the starting McBride five, but two of them, "Mr. Outside" and "Mr. Inside" — namely Bob Moran and Paul Hines—all but broke Chaminade's morale with their scoring.

Moran and Hines Click.

Moran, a right-hander, likes to shoot from the corner and the left-handed Hines, now wearing glasses, does his best work under the basket. Between them they collected 42 points, Moran getting 23 and Hines 19. Moran took 20 shots, made eight; Hines tried 12, also made eight.

The two Eds — Bixby and Buddeke — also contributed to the McBride triumph which enabled the Micks to keep their tournament championship. Bixby had seven straight free throws and two field goals and near the close of the game he canned five free throws in succession.

Buddeke, a 6-2 junior, who is developing steadily, got 10 points and Paul Owens, a 6-4 junior, contributed a free throw, accounting for the others on the first five.

Losers Seeded First.

Chaminade was seeded first, McBride second in the tourney and the Flyers did not give up without a struggle. They were ahead at the end of the quarter, 12-11, and were tied at 12-12, 14-14, and 16-16 before McBride made its move which led to a 32-23 lead at halftime.

Chaminade, which out-scored McBride from the field, 22 to 21, was led by Kevin Kearns and Ray (Tony) Dohle, each collecting 13 points.

Mulloy Advances.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Jan. 31 (UP) — Top-seeded Gardnar Mulloy, of Miami, won two matches to gain the third round of the Austin Smith tennis championships. Mulloy beat Don Dockerill, Fort Lauderdale, 6-2, 6-2, and defeated Tom Bonner, Atlanta, 6-1, 6-4.

Third-seeded Jerry Moss, University of Miami, also advanced as he defeated Jean Bergerat, Paris, 6-2, 6-4. Bill Parks, Los Angeles, pulled an upset victory over fourth-seeded John Brownlow, Presbyterian College, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

Wellston Quint Tries Again to Stop Pomerantz

By John J. Archibald

Webster Groves and Wellston will get their second opportunities of the month tonight to stop a couple of big men who completely baffled them the first time out. In semifinal games of the Webster Groves basketball tournament, Wellston will try to solve University City's 6-foot-5 Sandy Pomerantz in a 7:30 match, and at 9 o'clock Webster will try again to build an effective defense against 6-foot-7 DeWayne Bond of St. Charles.

Earlier in the month the same teams met in Suburban League contests. Bond scored 30 points against Webster and St. Charles won, but Wellston had a worse time of it as Pomerantz hit for 48 points while U. City was rolling over the Trojans.

St. Charles, seeded second, and third-seeded Webster Groves had little trouble in last night's quarterfinal games. Bond made 17 points in the first half as St. Charles piled up a 35-23 lead over Brentwood and went on to win, 57-42. Webster turned back Maplewood, 76-58.

Bond, who was slowed up in the second half by Brentwood, had a total of 24 points for the game. Brentwood played without its top scorer, Bill Obrock, who has a foot injury.

The Webster - Maplewood match was close for a while, with the Leafs holding a 13-12 lead after the first quarter and trailing Webster by only five points, 32-27, at the half.

As the second half began, however, the taller Webster team all but monopolized the rebounds and scored 11 points to Maplewood's one.

At that stage, with five minutes remaining in the third quarter and the score 43-28, Maplewood Coach Howdy Sanders removed his entire starting team and put in his No. 2 squad. The reserves played the restof the wayand did a fair job of matching Webster's efforts, dropping only three points further back when the game ended.

New Haven, Douglass Gain St. George Final

New Haven High, one of the winningest basketball teams in the state, is in another tournament final. Gordon Sulltrop's Shamrocks, beaten just once this winter, last night thumped Jefferson City Lincoln, 77-53, in the semifinals of the Mid-Missouri Conference meet at St. George High, Hermann.

Tomorrow night the Shamrocks play Columbia Douglass which gained the final at the expense of New Bloomfield, 70-62. The Shamrocks are 21-1 for the season.

Slater Martin Will Play for Hawks Tonight

By Harold Flachsbart

The Hawks' scoring champion of the 1955-56 campaign made a trip home yesterday between games in Boston and Cincinnati for examination by Dr. Stan London.

Dr. London said: "It will be the safest procedure for Bob to protect the wrist in actual games."

Another recent St. Louis casualty, Slater Martin, departed with Pettit by train this morning for Cincinnati and the first of a home-and-home series with the Royals tonight. The teams will be at Kiel Auditorium Saturday night at 8:30. A third game in as many days for the Hawks is Sunday afternoon at Kiel against Syracuse.

Four of the top 10 scorers ni the N.B.A. will be in the St. Louis - Cincinnati scraps. Pettit, thanks to one 45-point performance, is averaging 30 points a game in six starts against the Royals.

Pettit was third in N.B.A. scoring in the latest league release with a 24.7 average per game, with Cincinnati's Clyde Lovellette fourth with 23.7. Cliff Hagan of the Hawks was running seventh with a 20.3 average (but slumped in the last two games) and the Royals' Jack Twyman was tenth with a 17.5 average.

One of the reasons the Hawks have a big lead in the Western Division standings is their success against the second-place club. The Hawks own six straight victories over the Royals since Cincinnati won the first meeting Nov. 1.

The Hawks, since the All-Star game, have lost three of four games.

While the Hawks were idle last night, the Royals dropped a 105-104 decision to the Minneapolis Lakers.

Vern Mikkelsen tossed in a pair of free throws in the final seven seconds to give the Lakers a comeback victory. Mikkelsen and Larry Foust got hot in the last period to cut down a 93-79 Cincinnati lead and give the Lakers a 96-95 lead.

Clyde Lovellete's three point play in the final 2 minutes gave Cincinnati a 104-102 lead, but Art Spoelestra's free throw followed by Mikkelsen's two wrapped it up for the Lakers.

Mikkelsen and Foust led the scorers with 33 and 29 points, respectively. Jack Twyman had 25 for Cincinnati.

The Boston Celtics may win the Eastern Division title but no one can say the Philadelphia Warriors have eased their path.

Rather the Warriors are doing their utmost to put a crimp in Boston's title aspirations. They won their fourth game in eight starts against the Celts last night, 116-96, in the nightcap of a Convention Hall twinbill in Philly.

The Detroit Pistons also surprised the Syracuse Nats in the opener, 87-83, before 11,214 fans, the largest N.B.A. crowd of the season at Convention Hall.

Woody Sauldsberry and Paul Arizin each scored 19 points to lead the Warriors, while Boston's Bill Sharman had 17.

Pruett on Baylor's Grid Coaching Staff

WACO, Tex., Jan. 31 (UP)—Tom Pruett, veteran coach at Corpus Christi Miller High School, was named as a varsity assistant coach at Baylor University, completing coach Sam Boyd's staff.

Earlier this month, Charles (Chuck) Purvis of Illinois University, was added to the Baylor staff.

Goffstein Brothers Advance in Handball

Second-seeded Marty Goffstein defeated Ed Stein, 21-5, 21-13, and Marty's brother, Sig Goffstein, defeated Earl Baker, 21-16, 17-21, 21-17, to give the family two representatives in the semifinals of the Y.M.H.A. Class A handball tournament.

In Saturday semifinals, Sig Goffstein will face Harry Dreyfus, a 21-9, 21-9 victor over Jack Briscoe in quarterfinals, and Marty Goffstein will oppose Stan London, a 21-12, 21-8 winner against Grover Resinger.

Yvon Durelle, Hinnant on TV

Their 10-rounder will be televised over KSD-TV starting at 9 o'clock.

Since then Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., is unbeaten in 11 starts although held to a draw by Tony Anthony at Detroit, June 14. Yvon, 28, is now ranked third among 175-pound contenders. Hinnant, 24, is rated eighth.

BUS SHIFT OPPOSED BY PRUITT TENANTS

Tenants of the Wendell Pruitt Housing Project today petitioned Public Service Co. to continue the present north-south loop bus line which operates from the Pruitt and Igoe projects through the George L. Vaughn homes and Carr Square Village to the downtown area.

The petition stated that the present plans for a 10 cents fare is an area bounded by the riverfront, Eighteenth, Spruce and Carr streets would work a hardship on tenants in the low income housing projects. The Pruitt project is bounded by Dickson, Carr and Twentieth streets and Jefferson avenue.

Mrs. Chester Stewart, president of the Wendell Pruitt Tenant Relations Council, said under the present north-south loop system, the fare is 15 cents and the bus route goes through the project. The petition was signed by tenants of the 26 buildings in the Pruitt project.

A company spokesman said the north-south loop line was started about a year ago as an experiment to promote shopping and transit travel to the downtown area, and it has proved unsuccessful. The last check, he said, showed an average of seven passengers a trip.

The spokesman stated that the Eighteenth street boundary for the new 10 cents plan was set because a study showed it was as far as busses could go for the company to break even. If after the experiment, Public Service Co. finds it can extend the service as a result of increased patronage, the company will do so, he said.

The new experimental fare is scheduled to become effective Monday. Ten-cent rides will be permitted in the downtown area on any transit vehicle from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

Uranium Metal Output to Begin Next Month at Weldon Spring

The Atomic Energy Commission's $45,000,000 facility for processing of uranium ore at Weldon Spring will begin production of uranium metal and an intermediate product, "green salt," next month, it was announced today by Mallinckrodt Chemical Works.

Production of a yellow-orange powder called uranium trioxide, an intermediate product, was started shortly after the facility's formal opening last May. Uranium trioxide is made from pulverized uranium ore.

"Green salt," or uranium tetrafluoride, represents a further step in the processing. It is formed by reducing the orange oxide to a brown oxide by contact with hydrogen, after which the material is treated with hydrogen fluoride.

In turn the green uranium tetrafluoride can be mixed with magnesium flakes and melted to make the facility's final product, uranium metal, which will be shipped from Weldon Spring in the form of half-ton ingots.

In Separate Buildings.

The green salt and metal plants are housed in separate buildings and comprise, along with the refinery for ore, the major parts of the installation. Although production is to start in February, the green salt plant will not be fully completed until mid-March and the metal plant not until sometime in May, it was said.

Uranium tetrafluoride (green salt) not only is used to make uranium metal but can be shipped in its powdered form to AEC gaseous diffusion plants, such as the one at Oak Ridge, Tenn., where it is used in production of Uranium-235.

Harold E. Thayer, a vice president and director of Mallinckrodt, which operates the uranium facility for the AEC, said the Weldon Spring payroll for 1958 would be between $6,500,000 and $7,000,000.

'Standby' at Other Plant.

It was announced last November that the $20,000,000 Mallinckrodt-operated uranium plant at 65 Destrehan street, St. Louis, would be placed in "standby condition" during the first half of 1958, and that the entire AEC operation here would be concentrated at Weldon Spring.

Thayer said 750 persons were now employed at the Weldon Spring facility. When all plants are in full operation, he said, the number of employes there is expected to be 1050. The administrative headquarters of Mallinckrodt's uranium division were transferred to Weldon Spring last year.

Decision to shut down the Destrehan street plant, affecting 500 employes, was made following an AEC study that showed current production requirements could be met by the newer and more efficient plants at Weldon Spring and Fernald, O., near Cincinnati.

Other Straws in Wind.

Other public reports point in the same direction. El Salvador is trying to sell its coffee to Moscow. Canada's trade minister, Gordon Churchill, told the House of Commons in Ottawa this month that a certain amount of Canadian wheat will probably be sold to Communist China this year.

Moscow is offering oil to Uruguay, which is hard pressed for foreign exchange, and this week it completed a $3,000,000 deal to sell industrial products to Argentina.

What is happening in Soviet relations with Latin America is, of course, proceeding at an even faster pace in Europe, the Middle East and Asia. As the United States market for raw materials dwindles, the Soviet Union moves in.

Nevertheless, the trend is moving against the Administration's foreign aid and liberal trade policies. Rising unemployment at home has raised the old cry for protection against foreign competition, and this is particularly marked in the South, which was once the strongest free trade area in the land.

Compared with all this, the noise on Capitol Hill over missiles and defense is misleading. Everybody is for more missiles, but the divisions on economic policy are deep and wide.

NBC, ABC CONTINUE TALKS WITH TECHNICIANS' UNION

BOSTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Negotiators continued talks today seeking a new contract between the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians and two major networks — the National and the American Broadcasting Companies.

Management representatives last night were optimistic for a settlement, but union officials hinted that a walkout authorized by the membership was possible.

If a three-year contract, which ends at midnight tonight, is not renewed or extended, radio and TV operations at the two networks would be affected, union officials said.

The union, which represents 1600 employes at NBC and 800 at ABC, seeks a 15 per cent pay increase and a 32-hour work week rather than the present 40 hours, in addition to fringe benefits in a new three-year contract.

LORD EGERTON DIES; KNOWN FOR HIS DISLIKE OF WOMEN

LONDON, Jan. 31 (UP)—Lord Egerton of Tatton, an 83-year-old bachelor, died at his Cheshire estate yesterday leaving a fortune and the mystery of his lifelong dislike of women.

Lord Egerton had avoided women since his youth. Reports which he never confirmed said it was because his mother forbade him to marry the girl he loved.

R. C. HOBBS ELECTED TO G.O.P. COMMITTEE

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 — Roscoe C. Hobbs, St. Louis industrialist, was elected a member of the Republican National Committee today. He had been nominated for the post by Mrs. Rorace S. Hedges of Kansas City, Republican National Committeewoman for Missouri.

"The Republican party has a wonderful opportunity to regain control of Missouri. As a national committeemen, I solicit the co-operation of all Republicans for victory in 1958, and for a strong, harmonious party organization."

Missouri G.O.P. State Chairman H. Kenneth Wangelin of Poplar Bluff, who had supported Hobbs, said he was "gratified" that the national committee had seated the St. Louisan.

"I am certain Mrs. Hedges and Hobbs can work yco-operatively together," Wangelin said, "and I will do all in my power to get along with them."

There had been reports that Mrs. Hedges might oppose Hobbs when the committee took up Hobbs's certification by the Missouri State Republican Committee as new national committeeman to succeed Elroy W. Bromwich of St. Louis.

Mrs. Hedges told the Post-Dispatch today, however, that she would offer no opposition and would formally place the name of Hobbs in nomination. National committee rules, adopted at the 1956 convention in San Francisco, direct the national committee to accept members nominated by state committees.

Mrs. Hedges is known to have been dissatisfied with the selection of Hobbs, and there was a question as to whether her course might have been influenced by discussions with party leaders in Washington. While here she conferred with Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, and Meade Alcorn, chairman of the Republican National Committee.

"Did they express an opinion on Hobbs?" Mrs. Hedges was asked.

"Even I am not naive enough to answer that," she replied.

With regard to her own position, Mrs. Hedges said a great many Republicans in the state felt that to put new vigor into the party, the membership on the National Committee should go to someone outside the St. Louis area and that a "meeting of minds of the Republican finance community" should be achieved.

She recalled she had recommended at the state committee meeting at Jefferson City Jan. 18 that action to fill the Bromwich vacancy should be postponed.

Mrs. Hedges said she would like to make it clear that she had never made any statement derogatory to Hobbs personally, and that she had a high regard for him personally. She said she would nominate him in the hope it would bring unity into the party.

"The state committee is our legal body," she said. "I did not dispute its action, but I reserved the right to express my opinion."

Hobbs was nominated at Jefferson City by a 31-to-5 vote over George C. Dyer, St. Louis lawyer. Eight state committee members from the Kansas City area, who were opposed to Hobbs, did not vote.

NEWPORT, R.I., Jan. 31 (AP)—Robert R. Young, railroad magnate and Newport summer colonist, left all his property valued at more than $6,000,000 to his widow, Anita (O'Keefe) Young, according to his will filed in probate court today.

Young's personal property was estimated in excess of $6,000,000, according to the declaration filed with the will by Cornelius C. Moore, Newport attorney. It was reported the final inventory might reveal the personal property to be worth considerably more. Moore said a study will be made of all of Young's real estate in Newport, Middleton, Portsmouth and Palm Beach to determine its eventual disposition.

There were no other bequests in the will, although it provided that Mrs. Young either by distribution during her lifetime or by her will make suitable remembrances to all trusted employes and domestics who were in his employ at the time of his death.

SUMATRA REBELS' DEMAND

JAKARTA, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Pandang radio said yesterday a group of rebel commanders in central Sumatra had demanded the resignation of Indonesian Premier Djuanda and his entire cabinet on the ground they failed to win West New Guinea from the Dutch.

The radio said the action was taken at a meeting of the commanders, including Col. Dahlan Djambek, former deputy army chief, and Col. Maluddin Simbolon, deposed North Sumatra military commander.

METHODIST WET, DRY STUDY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Methodist Temperance Board voted yesterday for a scientific study of typically wet and dry communities in this country.

Bishop John Wesley Lord of Boston, board president, said the study will look into "the differences, if any, in the ratio of crime, juvenile delinquency, divorce rates, traffic accidents, alcoholism and public morals in general."

CITES TAX BENEFITS FOR REHABILITATION

A proposal that private capital make use of Missouri's urban redevelopment law in restoring sections of the downtown St. Louis area was advanced last night by Aloys P. Kaufmann, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis.

Addressing the annual banquet of the chamber at Hotel Sheraton Jefferson, Kaufmann said that under provisions of the statute, run-down, antiquated sections in the downtown area could be replaced with modern facilities such as office buildings, much needed parking garages and perhaps even a downtown motel.

"While the redeveloper would not be eligible for federal assistance, since only commercial property would be involved, he would enjoy the tremendous advantage of the generous tax concessions offered under the Missouri law and would be able to assemble property at a fair price through condemnation proceedings," he said.

Fred C. Foy, president of the Koppers Co. Inc., Pittsburgh, guest speaker at the banquet, told the audience of business men that management is failing to get across management's point of view on controversial economic and political questions to its union employes.

On the other hand, he said, union leaders are vigorously and effectively driving home their arguments that there should be more government participation in the economy.

Management publications, the so-called house organs of industry and business, offer an excellent means of reaching employes with management's ideas, but for the most part they remain conspicuously silent on such basic subjects as the profit system or on key current issues before the state and national legislative bodies, he said.

"Management just has not been counteracting specific union propaganda aimed at influencing employes on realistic 'breadbasket' subjects, subjects which union leaders use as levers to promote national social legislation," he said.

Britain to Get Surplus Foods.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) — Senator William F. Knowland (Rep.), California, announced last night an agreement has been reached with Britain for an exchange of $8,000,000 worth of United States surplus agriculture commodities. The commodities involved, Knowland said, are prunes, canned fruit, lemons, canned lemon juice and grapefruit.

Baruch Story

fluctuation would come along and swamp me.

In the spring of 1897, near the close of my second year as a Housman partner, I managed to scrape together a few hundred dollars with which I bought on margin 100 shares of American Sugar Refining. This transaction marked an important change in my approach to speculation.

At the time American Sugar Refining controlled three-fourths of U.S. sugar production. It had a $25,000,000 surplus and always had paid excellent dividends. Yet the company's future was clouded in uncertainty.

The decisive question was the tariff. Particularly among farmers, considerable antagonism was felt toward the "trusts," and this had been reflected in the agitations of the Populist party. A bill lowering the sugar tariff had passed the House. Since this would have exposed our refineries to foreign competition, the stock of the sugar company dropped sharply.

Following the debate in the Senate, I made up my mind that the Senate would continue the tariff since the agricultural West would feel that a tariff benefited our own sugar-beet growers. That had been the chief argument of the sugar representatives in Washington, and at length it prevailed. When the bill which was passed left tariff rates substantially as they were, the stock of American Sugar Refining rose with a burst, touching 159 early in September. .

I had been "parlaying" my profits—that is, as the sugar stock rose, I used my earnings to buy still more stock. When I sold out, my total profit was about $60,000 which made me a Croesus in my own eyes.

The first thing I did was to telephone Annie Griffen to tell her that at last we could get married. At first she couldn't believe it and kept saying, "You'll lose it as quickly as you made it." I assured her, "This time I'll keep it." I told her I was going to speak to her father that very night.

Mr. Griffen received me most courteously but was no less firm in his refusal. He said I was as agreeable a young man as had ever come to his house; but I had my religion and Annie had hers. He insisted that this difference constituted too great a peril for a happy marriage.

This did not change Annie's willingness to marry me. We set our wedding for Oct. 20, 1897. Annie and I were married in her home by the Rev. Dr. Richard Van Horne, a relative of Mr. Griffen.

Before the ceremony he told me he intended to omit from the Episcopalian ritual certain references to the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost. I thanked him for his thoughtfulness in trying to meet the forms of my faith but assured him that as far as I was concerned he could read the ritual as he had always read it.

For our honeymoon, we made a leisurely trip to Washington and then went by boat to Old Point Comfort on Chesapeake Bay. Never a good sailor, I got seasick. We then went South to my birthplace in Camden.

When we returned to New York we lived for a time with my parents, who by this time owned their own home at 51 West 70th street. We then rented a small dwelling at 345 West End avenue, not over 15 feet wide. Our first child, Belle, was born in August, 1899, at Father's summer cottage in New Jersey. Father delivered her.

The first house we owned was a spacious four-story brownstone at 351 West 86th street, where Bernard, Jr., was born. From there we moved to another brownstone at 6 West 52nd street, and eventually to Fifth avenue near the corner of 86th street.

Mr. Griffen in time became reconciled. I was gratified to hear him admit that he had been wrong in thinking Annie's marriage would not prove successful because of our differences in religion.

No Trouble Over Religion.

Perhaps one reason why our marriage turned out happily was that we respected one another's beliefs. I always observed the Jewish holy days—as I still do. My wife attended her own church.

We agreed that our two daughters, Belle who, as I said, was born in 1899, and Renee, who was born in 1905, should be baptized and brought up in the faith of their mother. With my son, we decided to let him make his own choice of religion when he grew up.

There are many aspects of religious belief on which I never have been able to satisfy myself. One rule I always have held to has been never to question anyone's faith or try in any way to influence it. How a man or woman feels about God has always seemed to me an intensely personal matter, something each person should decide for himself or herself—and which others should respect, whatever the decision.

A good day for an indoor job finds St. Louis County Water Co. emergency worker starkly outlined in the season's heaviest snowfall today. Break in water main in 900 block of South Warson road, Ladue, kept emergency crew at work while snow piled higher and traffic troubles reached notable proportions throughout the St. Louis area. Starting early, snow fell steadily throughout the day, seven inches having been recorded in the downtown district shortly after noon and almost 12 inches in Webster Groves.

John Crosby

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.

"WHY ARE the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts not beginning until Dec. 8? Many years ago I changed from Esso to Texaco at some personal inconvenience to show my appreciation of your sponsorship of the opera broadcasts. Why have you thus curtailed the season? Am I to go back to Standard Oil?".

JOHN CROSBY

Another letter ran: "Thank you very much for the fine production of the opera tonight. While I am a stockholder of the Standard Oil Co., I shall buy gasoline from the nearest Texas stations for the month of January."

And another: "I thought you might be interested to know that the main reason I stop at the station with the T in the bright red star has little to do with the quality of the gas—but because of your continued service to America as a whole in sponsoring the Metropolitan Opera."

It's letters like that that convince the Texas Co. its sponsorship of the Metropolitan Opera over the ABC network is not entirely altruism.

(In St. Louis, the Metropolitan Opera program is being switched from KWK, which carried it on a delayed basis on Sunday, to a "live" presentation on WAMV Saturday afternoons at 1 o'clock.)

The Texas Co. started sponsoring the opera 17 years ago in what it describes as "an act of enlightened self-interest." It was hoped the public would view the Texas Co. as a patron of a national cultural institution and that gradually this feeling would be translated into preference for Texaco gas.

"But don't get the idea that Texaco is throwing its money away," says D. W. Stewart, Texaco's advertising manager. "I believe Texaco's identification on the Met broadcasts is just as effective as so-called 'hard sell' commercials are for a program with popular content. By avoiding selling messages (Texaco is merely identified as sponsor), we give serious music lovers that which they hold most valuable—music of the highest artistic order. It's an effective soft-sell approach."

PROOF OF THAT is the letters—and there are thousands of them. The Metropolitan Opera may not sell gasoline in the quantities that Milton Berle once sold Texaco but the hard fact is that the Metropolitan has outlasted Berle and may very well outlast Perry Como and that it engenders a consistent and loyal buying that few popular entertainers can match. The Met's cultural force, of course, is unquestioned but its commercial potency comes as a happy surprise to most people.

"We've continued to sponsor the opera because it pays," says Stewart. "With an advertising program as broad as Texaco's it's sometimes difficult to pinpoint what makes a consumer buy. So far as opera is concerned, though, we get ample proof of loyalty in the form of fan mail."

The Texas Co.'s fan mail makes fascinating reading. Last year, for instance, a 95-year-old woman who lived in West Hartford, Conn., left the Opera Guild $2000 in her will because of the pleasure the opera broadcasts had given her.

In announcing this bequest, her lawyer wrote the Opera Guild a little sidelight about her. "Up to about three years before her death, she listened regularly every Saturday afternoon to your operatic broadcast. She dressed herself as though she were attending the opera in person and would sit in front of the radio with her hearing aid, an old-fashioned, pancake-type trumpet, and would listen with rapt enjoyment. Visitors on Saturday afternoon were not welcomed and after one experience I made it a point never to call or visit her on that afternoon."

IT IS THIS sort of dedicated listening that few, if any, other radio programs can boast. Besides that, on modern radio which has lost most of the idiot listener fringe to television, the opera can stand on its own feet in popularity. The opera broadcasts Saturday afternoon are first in popularity at that time among New York's 11 stations, first among Philadelphia's eight stations, first among Detroit's eight stations and first among Cleveland's seven stations. They come in second in Buffalo (seven stations), Kansas City (seven stations) and Atlanta (eight stations).

'20-Year Love Affair With St. Louis'

By Virginia Irwin

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.

WORLD-FAMOUS PIANIST Artur Rubinstein has had what he calls "a 20-year love affair with St. Louis."

"For two decades I have been a steady guest in St. Louis," he beamed during an interview in his spacious Park avenue apartment. "I think the people there must like me since they want to hear me so often. I love people who like me."

On Thursday and Saturday of next week, Feb. 6 and 8, the famous pianist will appear in two concerts with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and on Sunday, Feb. 9 will give a special afternoon recital for the Symphony benefit fund.

Although Rubinstein has played in St. Louis each year since 1937, his initial appearance there, he remembers, goes way back to 1906, when he first toured America at the age of 17.

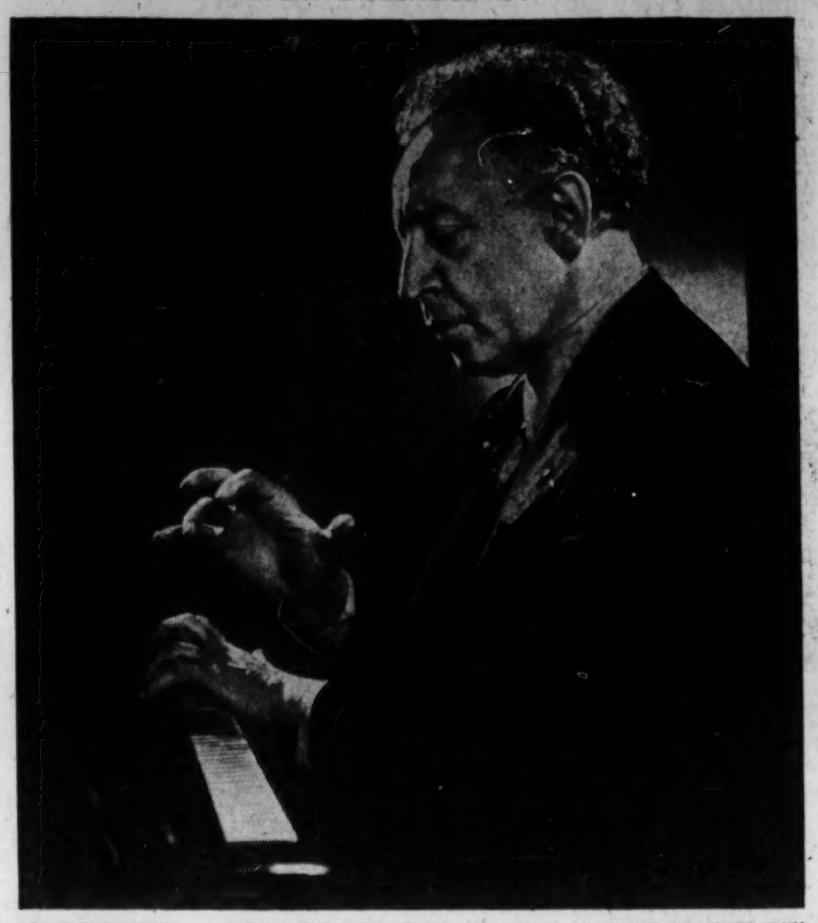
"I have never forgotten my first concert in St. Louis," he laughs, "because when it was over a strange man came to my hotel room. I knew very little English then and had a hard time understanding him but I finally grasped the fact that he could imitate musical instruments with his mouth. He thought it would be fine if he and I teamed up as partners in a circus act."

Rubenstein has over the years watched the Barnum and Bailey attitude toward music change in America.

"There was a time when American people went to concerts only if they were publicized as something big like the circus coming to town," he reminisced. "But after the first World War the interest in cultural things, in music, literature and art, began to grow. The American public began to trust its own tastes and the New York critics could no longer make or kill artists. Radio and records began bringing great music to millions and America discovered she had a real taste for great music. Also that taste developed rapidly. Today there are about 2000 symphony orchestras in America and every good musician in Europe wants to come here.

"The fact that every symphony orchestra is a dead loss makes no difference; American generosity keeps them alive. Today every town of any size in America wants to have its own symphony orchestra. It isn't like that in Europe where only the big capitals have them. The provinces in Europe can't compare with America. In 25 years the United States has done what some places in Europe took 250 years to accomplish.

"This is all very gratifying to me. And contrary to what anybody thinks about Americans being cocksure, they are very modest about what has been accomplished here in the way of encouraging appreciation of great music. They ought to be assured that their reception of fine music is wonderful. Even teen-agers are no longer ashamed to go to concerts; today they stand in line to buy tickets."



ARTUR RUBINSTEIN . . . "I THINK THE PEOPLE THERE (ST. LOUIS) MUST LIKE ME SINCE THEY WANT TO HEAR ME SO OFTEN. I LOVE PEOPLE WHO LIKE ME." HE WILL APPEAR WITH THE ST. LOUIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA ON FEB. 6, 8 AND 9.

THE MOST widely-traveled of contemporary artists, Rubinstein, at 68 thinks nothing of playing more than 100 concerts a year in America and over widely scattered areas of the globe. His love of music has carried him millions of miles to play in nearly every country in the world. His RCA Victor recordings sales often average more than $1,000,000 in a single year.

A friend once asked Rubinstein why he continued to give so many concerts, pointing out that a good percentage of them were only work that benefited the tax collectors since Rubinstein's phenomenal popularity had brought him equally phenomenal financial success as an artist. Rubinstein replied that he wasn't interested in such things as tax brackets; he was only interested in music.

"It's a lucky thing," he said, "that people are prepared to pay to hear me play. If they weren't, I'd play anyhow."

Few artists enjoy life to its full as does Rubinstein. And right now there is an added fillip to his enjoyment of life. He has just become a grandfather for the first time. Just two weeks ago his eldest daughter, Mrs. William Sloane Coffin Jr., wife of the chaplain of Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., gave birth to a baby girl.

"They named her Amy, a fine old New England name," Rubinstein beamed. "Before I go to St. Louis I am going to see her. I bought her some ridiculous thing that dangles over her cradle. I am delighted my first grandchild is a girl. Only mothers and grandmothers really want first children to be boys."

Rubinstein, who has three other children — Paul, 23; Aline, 13; and John Arthur, 12, says that all musicians should have at least one daughter.

"Daughters are wonderful," he confides, happily. "Sons are inclined to smile tolerantly and say, 'Papa is a fine fellow but a little mad, of course,' but daughters think Papa is always wonderful. They understand him and adore him. They know instinctively that an artist remains something of a child to the end of his days."

Born in Lodz, Poland, the son of a hand-loom manufacturer, Rubinstein first displayed signs of musical talent at the age of 3 and at 6 performed at a charity concert in Warsaw. At 11 he made his formal debut in Berlin under the baton of the famed Joachim, im, who had assumed responsibility for Artur's musical future. By the time he was 15, his reputation had spread throughout Europe and he had earned the praise of Saint-Saens, Paderewski and Max Bruch. In 1906, at the age of 17, he made his first trip to America where he gave 75 concerts in three months.

AMERICA was not as enthusiastic about Rubinstein as Europe had been. One American critic called the teen-age pianist "half-baked, not a prodigy, not an adult."

Rubinstein admitted the critic's judgment was just about right. He was not a child prodigy any more and he was not a mature artist.

"In those days I hated to practice," he recalled, "and I really did not learn how to do so for another 25 years."

After returning to Paris from his American disappointment, Rubinstein gave no concerts for several years. He divided his time and interests among music, wine, celebrated friends and high living. Finally Rubinstein began again to find himself and in 1916 went to Spain for a few concerts. He remained to give 120. In 1919 he returned to America for a second concert tour and made many other appearances here up to 1927. But it was not until 1937 that he began to build a reputation here as one of the most popular pianists of our generation.

Five years before, at the age of 43, Rubinstein had married Aniela Mlynarska, daughter of a conductor with whom Rubinstein, at the age of 15, had performed in Warsaw.

Marriage for Rubenstein changed both the man and the musician. He buckled down to practice. He probed deeply to penetrate the inner mysteries of the music he played. His reputation in America began to grow and in 1946 Rubinstein became a United States citizen.

For the past 20 years, he has been the busiest and hardest-working of all world-famous pianists. He is famous all over the globe, at the top of the concert world. In February 1956 he tackled an extraordinary series of five concerto concerts in Carnegie Hall, embracing 17 major works for piano and orchestra in the space of 13 days. The concerts were sellouts. Despite headlines all over the nation calling attention to the fact that Rubinstein had first appeared in the United States 50 years before, the pianist refused to regard the event as the celebration of an anniversary.

IN THE PAST 20 years wherever he has gone—America, Europe, Asia — Rubinstein has added to his popularity. He loves people — artists, taxi drivers, business men, politicians, waiters, elevator operators and royalty.

Said Howard Taubman of the New York Times in an article entitled "Rubinstein: Evolution of an Artist":

"Arthur Rubinstein belongs to the grand line of pianists. In an era of violence and neuroticism, he is a shining example of the civilized universal man. Although he is a naturalized American, he is a citizen of the world. His passport is not only music but also his wide culture, his relish for humanity, his capacity for understanding and laughter."

"Making a good cigar is a real art," Rubinstein said, "and cigars are more jealous than women. If they feel you're losing interest in them they stop burning."

Plumbing Fixtures

By Hubbard Cobb

ONE VERY GOOD REASON why husbands shouldn't give their wives big diamond rings is that if you don't remove a diamond ring before washing a bathtub, lavatory or kitchen sink, you are apt to scratch the enamel and once it's scratched, it's scratched for good.

Most of the plumbing fixtures about the house are made of steel or cast iron with a finish of baked enamel. This is a very durable finish but it can be harmed through improper use. You must never, for example, use harsh abrasive cleaning powders on these surfaces. You should never stand on the rim of a tub with your shoes on or let people use the rim as a foot rest while polishing their shoes for the dirt on the soles of a shoe can scratch the finish.

Another way to damage the finish is to use it as a meat or vegetable chopping board. If used in this manner, the finish will soon become covered with knife marks and may even chip in certain areas.

The enamel coating on fixtures can be damaged by acids and you'll find many of these destructive acids in many common fruits and vegetables. Don't allow cut oranges, lemons and other citrus fruits to sit on enamel. Be careful of tomatoes and also of vinegar. It's a wise idea never to let any vegetable scraps sit on the surface for any extended period.

Be careful about pouring boiling hot water on a surface after it has been chilled by icy cold water.

Damaged areas on porcelain and enamel fixtures can be patched with special patching materials but the patched area will never be as smooth and attractive looking as the original finish so take care of the finish and don't let it become harmed.

The Bridge Deck

HERE ARE three problems on duplicate bidding for you to consider. How would you handle them? The suggested answers are presented below along with the play of today's hand.

1. You are South and hold these cards:

♠A82
♥K7
♦K1074
♣A965

The bidding has gone:

East	South	West	North
1♦	Pass	Pass	1♥
Pass	?

What call do you make?

2. You are South and hold these cards:

♥J8
♦Q965
♣AJ1042

The bidding has gone:

West	North	East	South
1♦	Pass	Pass	?

What call do you make?

3. You are South, with East-West vulnerable, and hold these cards:

♠QJ10963
♥J852
♦106

The bidding has gone:

West	North	East	South
1♣	Pass	2♥	?

What call do you make?

4. You are declarer of today's four-heart hand and West opens the king of spades. Study only the North-South cards and the bidding; then plan your play.

East-West vulnerable.

♥752
♦A8652
♣K64

	SOUTH

♥AKQJ10
♦J4
♣A72

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♥	1♠	Pass	Pass
3♥	Pass	4♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: king of spades.

Answers to Quiz.

1. South bids one no-trump, nothing stronger. If North reopened with a weak hand to fight for a part score, he will pass and the one-level will be high enough.

2. South passes, for it looks as though by reopening the bidding he will improve the opponents' score rather than his own. A two-club overcall gives East-West a chance to get to a major-suit contract, which will score more than the part score at the minor.

3. South overcalls with two spades, although this is an overbid of four tricks. As the opponents appear to be on the way to a slam, it is unlikely that they will stop to double, and the overcall may make it possible for North-South later to take a profitable save.

4. South makes his heart game by gaining a ruffing trick. He has nine top tricks, and a ruff in dummy will give him game. But if he attempts to ruff his third spade in dummy, he may be overruffed by East, for West showed spade length by overcalling. Declarer therefore plays for a much more likely club ruff.

South takes the spade king with the ace and continues a spade, losing to West. West probably returns a third spade and declarer discards a losing club from dummy, letting West hold the trick. Now he can ruff his third club in dummy for his game-going trick, losing two spades and a diamond.

The New Scholar

WHAT CAN ONE DO about a child of school age who will not stay in school unless his mother stays with him? It sounds quite impossible, yet every first grade teacher has met this child. He is afraid! School is a strange world filled with strange people, strange things, and queer happenings. All children dislike what is unfamiliar to them and shrink from it.

School, as a new experience, is a startling one, and so it needs to be introduced to the new scholar in just that way, by degrees, until familiarity robs it of terrors. When older children attend school this preparation of the beginners is completed by their daily accounts of school life. They take little brother or sister along to visit when there is a celebration that they can enjoy.

BUT SUPPOSE there are no other children in the family and the child in question is timid and has been staying close to his mother all his years? What then? Thoughtful mothers, taking a look ahead, begin preparing the child for the great day, talk to him about it, take him to the schoolyard and let him watch the other children at play, take him to the "Open School" session and introduced him to the teacher. The idea is to get the newness of school worn off. And, first and foremost, wean the child from the close attachment to his mother.

If all else fails and the new scholar refuses to stay in school, the best way, in my experience, is for the mother to leave the crying and fighting child with the teacher and go home. The experienced first grade teacher will take care to keep him in the room and the children there will, guided by the teacher, soon make him feel at home among them.

Usually it is the mother's emotional attitude that makes a child fight staying in school without her. When she conducts him, hand in hand, to the classroom instead of leaving him with the others in the yard with the teacher there, kisses him repeatedly, says goodby over and over with tears, the child responds in like emotional upheaval. It is always best to leave the child and go home promptly and without a tearful goodby.

IF THE NEW SCHOLAR is allowed to leave school that first day he is usually out for the term. That is a great loss. If he is kept in his classroom that first day he very soon accepts the idea and is as happy as the other children there.

It's an Idea

Favor cups for a party can be made from aluminum foil, using two water tumblers or individual gelatin molds as "dies." Shape the foil over one tumbler, press the second down over the first, and the cup is formed. Trim the edge and add a pipe-cleaner handle.

Striking Models

The fingertip length coat over a chemise type of dress is typical of the designs from the Monte Sano and Pruzan collection. One pale yellow and white checked silk and wool costume is among the most striking models. Skirts that match the coats also appear with a silk crepe blouse to form an interesting suit idea.

The New Films

French Mickey Spillane Stuff

A COUPLE OF TIMES in "RAZZIA," the French film at the APOLLO THEATER, a character says ironically to one of his underworld confreres, "You're not in a gangster film now." But he is in a gangster film—a French copy of the American gangster film, a sort of Gallic "Little Caesar," which adopts the American format, does it with hard conviction and competence, heaps on the same violence and brutality and garnishes it with some brazen sex and other shocking elements a la Mickey Spillane.

Sordid as it is, it is done with engrossing realism, and well acted. As Jean Gabin, having been trained under an American gangster, moves in on Paris to take over as strong-man lieutenant for the country's narcotics crime baron, we have a parade of broad-shouldered men in trenchcoats, hands menacingly in pockets, talking in low, casually laconic phrases about moving dope and killing people in their way.

A smuggler who wants to quit is dispatched with the same mattox that he is using to dig up buried earnings in his garden. A cheater in the ring is suddenly shot to death on a sidewalk. A chemist employed to prepare the raw opium takes too much of it himself, is brutally beaten by one gangster while the other callously rapes his wife. There are a couple of extremely frank bedroom scenes between Gabin and Magali Noel, who is the seductive and agreeable cashier in the restaurant Gabin uses as a front for the narcotics trade. There are scenes of almost documentary impact among pushers, homosexuals, addicts; a glimpse into an opium den, and a revolting scene in a rendezvous for marijuana addicts.

The story, from a novel by Auguste Le Breton, author of "Rififi," and the direction by Henri Decoin certainly don't spare the details. It ends with some street gunfights, some mounting suspense, and then the all out raids and gun-battle ("Razzia"" is French slang for "dragnet.")

This is handicapped by Herman G. Weinberg's excessive use of American crook slang, much of it antiquated, in his English subtitles. "The rat squealed to the cops" sounds too hammy. It would have been more authentic, and given more of a Gallic flavor, if the French slang were translated literally.

Marked-Down "High Noon"

"MAN IN THE SHADOW" at the FOX is just a slice off the old Let's-Copy-"High Noon"-Boys-We-Can't-Go-Wrong Ham. Jeff Chandler is the Western town sheriff. He's tall and lean, certainly, and he can look stern. So let's not worry about his acting. Instead of the quartet of gunmen coming to get the sheriff, we have a modern cattle baron, Orson Welles, who operates a King-size ranch, and doesn't like a nincompoop sheriff standing in his way if his boys decide to beat a Mexican wetback to death with pick-handles. Are the townspeople, including the sheriff's own deputy, scared, weak-kneed, lily-livered, so the sheriff has to tackle his problems alone? You know they are.

Hero Jeff rushes out to the Welles ranch-fortress three times to investigate the killing. First time, they loosen a wheel on his car, and it runs into a tree. Jeff is patched up, then the stupe walks into a trap where they give him a beating and drag him around the town square in a car. Up he pops, and rushes, bandages and all, back again. This time a watchdog, treacherously unleashed, bowls him over and chews him up. Some sheriff. The only thing that saves him from being tossed off a cliff is the fact the scriptwriter had a brain-storm and came up with a plot gimmick.

Orson Wells, throwing his jowls and his heft around, could have played his heavy role in his sleep and practically does. He had probably read the script and didn't see much point in trying to save it.

English Detective Yarn

BY COMPARISON to "Razzia," an English detective mystery, "TOWN ON TRIAL," at the RICHMOND, seems rather pallid. It concerns a ploddin gScotland Yard detective, John Mills, who investigates the murder of a beautiful girl in a Scottish town by strangling with a silk stocking. He encounters nothing but antagonism and silence as he narrows his field down to three suspects—a fourth suspect, a wild young woman, is herself eliminated by the strangler. The execution of this plot, ending in a conventional chase, is sound and orderly, but the suspense is not particularly taut and I couldn't get worked up over it. Just mildly interesting.

A Thrifty Wife

SOMEONE ONCE SAID, "A thrifty wife is better than a great income." This is even truer today. Women should give up the idea that they need not be financiers. They must consider the fact that they handle more than three-fourths of the family income.

Recently I had a visit with Dorcas Campbell, assistant vice-president of the East River Savings Bank in New York City. A visit with Miss Campbell always is an interesting occasion because she is such a brilliant and well-informed leader in the banking world. She is especially conscious of the need for women to become better informed about money matters.

It used to be that the man in the family made all of the big decisions while the woman made only the small ones concerning the expenditure of money. This situation has completely changed. Many factors have played a part in this switch. For instance, men used to spend more time in the selection of household goods and equipment. They investigated which type refrigerator or stove was best, the kind of wood used in furniture and other whole categories which now have been turned over to women.

Also, the fact that so many women have entered the business and professional worlds and earn a sizeable portion of the family income has made a difference. Young couples today are wonderful. There is real co-operation in money matters and even a division of work in the home when the wife works outside the home.

Dorcas Campbell believes that it is imperative for women to learn how to handle money efficiently and intelligently since so much of it passes through their hands. The fact that women are outliving men also makes it important to become informed concerning financial responsibilities which their husbands now handle.

Miss Campbell said, "Women should investigate the services their bank has to offer them. Many women are unaware of the many ways in which these can be helpful."

Eating Adventures of Gastronomical Nine

KITCHEN CRISIS CONQUERED. MISS TOON REAPPEARS ON THE SCENE TO DISH UP LASAGNE FOR MISS PAUTLER. THE ONCE-A-MONTH HOSTESS DOES THE COOKING AND DISHES. THE OTHER EIGHT CONCENTRATE ON EATING AND PLAYING BRIDGE.

By Mary Kimbrough
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

A YEAR AGO, a St. Louis advertising woman was reading some foreign recipes and they sounded so mouth - watering that she got a sudden inspiration to get together with her gourmet friends and try out the exotic dishes. She took the idea across the hall to a colleague, who agreed heartily with the basic idea and added her own suggestion for an after-dinner bridge game.

Thus was born a unique organization known as the Gastronomical Nine. Gastronomical, for obvious reasons. Nine, so there can always be two tables of bridge while the hostess washes the dishes.

Once a month, they meet at the home of one member who selects the country she wants to feature and provides the menu as well as the elbow grease. The eight guests don't lift a finger, except to pick up the food and the cards.

Miss Edna Carroll, Gardner Advertising Co. copywriter, was the club's founder, and Miss Elaine Pautler, also a Gardner copywriter, added the bridge game. Other members are Miss Harriet Robnett, KSD-TV director; Mrs. George Wilson and Miss Peg Josted, Gardner copywriters; Miss Shirley Vierheller, KWK-TV film department supervisor; Miss Jane Hauser, Gardner officer manager; Miss Marjorie Toon, secretary to the president of Sligo, Inc., and Miss Donna Flaherty, secretary to the assistant vice president, Pet Milk Co.

Miss Carroll, who has visited Mexico, chose that country to start the international dining schedule and since then the members have traveled—gourmetically speaking — through Poland, China, Turkey, Sweden, India, Hungary, Germany and Italy. They've eaten Swedish meat balls, Indian curry, Italian spumoni. They've had Hungarian goulash, Turkish coffee, Mexican enchiladas and Chinese fortune cookies.

Happily—and surprising to the harried hostesses — there hasn't been a single case of indigestion or any drastic gain in weight. But there have been a few headaches.

There was the time, for instance, when Edna Carroll tried to hand-roll tortillas and kept ending up with nothing but fried crumbs. And the time Jane Hauser had to roll out the noodles on towels on the living room rug, and Donna Flaherty was two hours late getting home after tracking down a pound of ground poppy seed.

Admitted novices at the game of gourmet cooking, they're never quite sure how something will turn out or how many the recipe will serve. All of which has resulted in a few culinary shocks and necessitated the traditional "trial run."

So anxious are they to have successful dinners that unless the ingredients are prohibitively expensive, they will try out the dishes on understanding families and friends before the club meets. This helps somewhat to take the guesswork out of the preparation for the party itself. Sometimes, that is.

MORE THAN ONE trial run may be necessary. Miss Carroll worked valiantly to hand-roll tortillos for a month before her turn to entertain. Her efforts all ended the same way, in a pile of crumbs. Finally, to the dismay of the purists in the group, she had to buy them in a can at the supermarket.

She also tried several times to perfect a Mexican dessert calling for one pound of sugar, nine beaten eggs and a goodly portio nof expensive almond paste. Every time, something went wrong, and she had to take it to her parents' suburban home and feed it to the chickens.

"They got so they would flock around me every Sunday when I arrived. I guess they figured I had tried the dessert again."

She finally gave up on the concoction as being too extravagant for further experimentation and changed the menu.

For her German dinner, Jane Hauser worked for a month to get the noodles just right. She was entertaining at another member's home and the day of the party, when she started the final preparations, the noodles she had made in advance didn't look right to her so she started all over again. By that time, there was no room left in the kitchen, so she simply spread towels on the living room rug and put the noodles down to dry.

Jane, Shirley and Peg Josted have agreed that they'll think twice after this before accepting the word of a cookbook that a recipe will feed just so many hungry mouths and no more. Shirley had enough Hungarian goulash left over to feed the entire household for two days, and Jane's recipe for suerbraten, supposed to serve six, actually fed two in her family for eight days.

PEG ALMOST went back to the roast beef and mashed potatoes school of eating when she looked at the huge supply of meat, all ready to roll into one-inch meat balls. She ended up with a total of 163, plus an odd number of sore muscles for her trouble.

Peg also had her problems with the butter balls. They had to be shaped with cold paddles but by the time she laboriously finished one, the overworked paddles would be warm again so she would have to cool them off for the next butter ball. This understandably slowed down the dinner preparation.

But speed is not of the essence with the Gastronomical Nine. They have been known to take one or two days of their vacation for the preparation and a weekend spent over a hot stove is the rule rather than the exception.

"We take it all very seriously," said Edna. "I'm sure I don't know what we'd do without the Public Library, and especially Myra Waldo's 'Round the World Cookbook.' We do a great deal of research before we start planning."

"Sometimes, too much," said Shirley. "I was all set to serve beef stroganoff for my Hungarian dinner—and found out it was Russian."

The Recipes They Tried

Kottbuller (Swedish Meat Balls).

Ingredients: One and one-half sticks butter, one and one-half onions, chopped, one and one-half cups bread crumbs, one and one-half cups light cream, one and one-half pounds beef, chopped, one and one-half pounds pork, chopped, three-fourths pound veal, chopped, three teaspoons salt, one and one-fourth teaspoons pepper, three eggs, beaten, three tablespoons chopped parsley, one and one-half tablespoons flour, two and one-fourth cups heavy cream, scalded.

Directions: Melt four and one-half tablespoons of the butter in skillet. Add onions and saute 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Soak bread crumbs in the light cream. Combine beef, pork and veal in a bowl. Add the sauteed onions, bread crumbs, salt, pepper, eggs and parsley. Mix well. Shape into one-inch balls. Melt four and one-half tablespoons of the butter in a skillet and fry the balls in it until very brown, shaking the pan frequently. Be careful not to break the balls and add butter as necessary. Remove meat balls and keep warm. Add flour to remaining butter in the skillet. Mix to smooth paste, gradually add the heavy cream, stirring constantly until boiling point is reached. Cook over low heat five minutes. Correct seasoning. Pour over meat balls and serve. Serves nine.

Babka (Polish Coffeecake).

Ingredients: One-fourth pound butter, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, three egg yolks, beaten, one cake or package yeast, one-fourth cup milk, scalded and cooled, two tablespoons grated lemon rind, one-half cup seedless raisins, two cups sifted flour, one-half cup milk, three tablespoons crushed zweibach crumbs, one tablespoon cinnamon, three tablespoons chopped almonds.

Directions: Cream butter, then add sugar. Continue creaming until well blended. Add the salt and egg yolks and beat. Place the yeast in one-fourth cup cooled milk and stir until dissolved. Add to the previous mixture. Add the lemon rind and raisins and stir well. Gradually add the flour and the one-half cup milk alternately, beating well after each addition. Turn out onto a lightly floured surface and knead the dough until it becomes elastic and does not stick to the fingers. Place it in a bowl, cover, and put in a warm place to rise for one hour. At the end of this time punch the dough down firmly, re-cover and allow to rise for two hours longer. Butter a 12-inch loaf pan and dust with the zweibach crumbs. Place the dough in the pan, brush with a little milk, and sprinkle with the cinnamon and almonds. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes.

Two Funny People on the Way Up

By Charles Mercer

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP). THAT EXTRAORDINARILY funny young couple so many people are talking about after only three guest appearances on television return tomorrow as guests of Perry Como (KSD-TV, 7 p.m., St. Louis time). They started their act in St. Louis.

Their names, which we nominate for new household words of 1958, are Mike Nichols and Elaine May—not Elaine May and Mike Nichols. Have you got that? ("My mother wants to know why it isn't Elaine and Mike," says Elaine. "So does mine," replies Mike.)

At any rate, Mike, 26, and Elaine, 25, are not man and wife. (Mike married Pat Scot, a Chicago singer, last June, and she commutes to New York weekends. Elaine is single.) They met three years ago in a Chicago theatrical group

Both have extensive training as actors; neither has been employed on Broadway. While working with a theatrical improvisation group, the Compass Players, in St. Louis, they conceived the idea of their own improvisation act.

Jack Rollins, a personal manager, took an interest in them and last November they came to New York to audition for a night club, the Blue Angel. The night club manager was delighted and offered them a job. Their popular success was instantaneous and three TV guest spots followed—on the Jack Paar show, the Steve Allen show and "Omnibus" (all NBC).

They do not write a script. They scarcely rehearse at all. On "Omnibus" a couple of weeks ago they did a sketch of a man (Mike) driving himself into a frenzy trying to to get a dime back from a pay phone in a series of duels with a series of telephone operators (played b Elaine). Another sketch wa of two teen-agers on thei first date.

The ideas for both occurred to one or another of them long time ago, but they didn't do anything about the idea until the week of the show After the "Omnibus" she NBC was deluged with prais for the two and inquiries abou them. The New York Tele phone Co. thought the phone sketch so hilarious that it requested a kinescope of it.

Mike Nichols and Elaine May are level-headed young people. "What's happened?" asks Elaine. "Nothing much," says Mike. They realize, of course, that something fortunate has happened to them. But they refuse to be unbalanced by sudden success.

School Integration

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.

I HAVE JUST ATTENDED a meeting of the New York Committee Against Discrimination in Housing and it is quite evident, I think, that state legislation must follow the successful campaign which resulted in the passage of the Sharkey-Brown-Isaacs bill prohibiting discrimination in private housing in New York City.

If this city legislation is not extended to include the entire state, there will be the temptation for the Negro population to concentrate in the city, leaving the suburbs untouched except for the domestic help that goes out from the city.

IT IS NATURAL that although there is no great challenge to the Negro children in the schools, there will be stress in trying to decide what they can and cannot do.

Some areas of our country, even those bordering on the deep South, have successfully passed anti-discrimination legislation, but they recognize the fact that they know little about the feelings of Negro children. Therefore, a study was made and much data was gathered which should make it easier to proceed the farther we advance in education.

There is a pamphlet which many people might find helpful in this cause. It is called "Anna Holden and Others, Clinton, Tennessee" and is subtitled "A Tentative Description and Analysis of the School Desegregation Crisis."

Another pamphlet, "A Guide to School Integration" published by the Public Affairs Committee, 22 East Thirty-Eight street, New York, N.Y., suggests community action preparatory to integration and points out the responsibilities of the schools themselves in easing the transition from segregation to integration.

ONE suggested preliminary step is, I think, important. It is the formation of a community planning group on a nonpartisan, integrated basis to help the school board prepare for integration.

Harry F. Harrington, Brotherhood Week chairman for St. Louis and Missouri, will preside at the program, which will include entertainment by high school glee clubs and dance groups and a dramatic skit by members of the intergroup youth organization of the conference. Russell L. Dearmont, co-chairman of the agency's regional office here; Mr. Einstein, Daniel F. Sheehan and Charles Nagel Art Museum director, will also take part.

In keeping with the 1958 theme, "people shall live as one family of man," the committee has invited foreign students attending college in St. Louis to be guests of honor. They will wear native costumes.

Representatives of civic, service, professional and parents organizations will be seated in a special section.

After the program tea will be served in Sculpture Hall by Mrs. Schoenberg's committee. A 200-voice choir will sing before massed flags of the United Nations.

A committee headed by Dr. O. Walter Wagner, Rabbi Bernard Lipnick and George E. Helfers has asked every church in the community to dedicate part of its services Feb. 16 to Brotherhood Week, which is to continue through Feb. 23. More than 10,000 communities through the United States will participate under the national chairmanship of Louis B. Seltzer, Cleveland newspaper editor.

Howat-Hadley Wedding in the East

NEWS HAS REACHED ST. LOUIS of the marriage, Jan. 21, of Miss Anne Hadley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Hadley of Armonk, N.Y., to John Keith Howat, son of Mrs. Henry Hedley Weddle Jr., of La Jolla, Calif., and the late Capt. James Bowcott Howat, U.S.A.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale from 1899 to 1921, and of the late Dave Hennen Morris, a former United States Ambassador to Belgium. In several respects the wedding is of interest here. The maid of honor, Miss Marie Hayes Sturges of Ardsley-on-Hudson, N.Y., is the debutante granddaughter and namesake of Mrs. Walter Knight Sturges, who lives at the Colony Club in New York. A former St. Louisan, Mrs. Sturges was Miss Marie Hayes.

Mr. Howat's forebears were Missourians. He is a grandson of Mrs. Charles Rives Skinker (Elizabeth Selden) of New York and the late Mr. Skinker of an old St. Louis family of that name. His paternal grandparents were the John Howats of Clarksville, Mo.

The ceremony, in Appleton Chapel of Harvard Memorial Church, Cambridge, Mass., was performed by the Rev. Kenneth C. Morris of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Armonk. James B. Howat was his brother's best man and James E. Stinson and Sherman K. Goldman were ushers.

Pink Party in Honor of Miss Pfeffer.

MRS. ADDIE GROVER McCASKILL gave a "pink party" Friday at the Junior League Clubrooms as a farewell to Miss Margaret Mary Odile Pfeffer, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Joseph Pfeffer, Ballas road, Creve Coeur. Miss Pfeffer will leave St. Louis Sunday evening for Miami, Fla., where she will enter Barry College.

MISS PFEFFER . . . HONORED AT LUNCHEON.

The tables were decorated with pink damask cloths and centered with bouquets of pink stock, tulips and chrysanthemums. Each debutante found a pink camellia corsage at her place. Pink cigarettes and match folders inscribed with Miss Pfeffer's name added to the color scheme. Even pink champagne was served.

The guest list included Miss Helene Bakewell, Miss Gabriel Desloge, Miss Carol Mary Dilschneider, Miss Priscilla Hocker, Miss Caroline Jones, Miss Dorothy Lee Hein, Miss Mary Ellen Lembeck, Miss Nancy Mullen, Miss Nancy Kuhs, Miss Page Sharp, Miss Judith Trimble, Miss Margaret Wightman, Miss Lee Thompson, Miss Julie Ann Schroth and Miss Cerre Murphy.

Seated with the hostess were Mrs. Pfeffer, Mrs. Louis J. Orabka, Mrs. C. Rowe Sutter, Mrs. James J. Mullen, Mrs. Lucien T. Roy, Mrs. James S. McClellan, Mrs. McCaskill's daughter, Mrs. Francis J. Medler, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Campbell Edwin McCaskill.

A SPRING FASHION SHOW, "The Important First Impression," with emphasis on co-ordinating hats, will be presented Tuesday and Wednesday during the 12:30 o'clock luncheon by the Junior League of St. Louis and Scruggs, Vandervoort and Barney.

League members who will model will be Miss Mary Mosby, Mrs. Harold T. Jolley Jr., Mrs. G. Keith Provo, Mrs. Harry E. Wuertenbaecher Jr., Mrs. Carla Rand Weber, Mrs. Bernard F. Desloge, Mrs. Robert R. Cramer, Mrs. James S. Medart, Mrs. Bourne Bean, Mrs. Ralph Alexander Morriss II and Mrs. Robert E. O'Brien.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Dear Martha:

I AM A SENIOR in high school and 16 years old. Last summer I went with a boy I liked very much but later I found out he was going steady with another girl. But I love him and want him back very much. He has asked me to a party with the excuse that he and his girl friend have broken up, but I know they haven't. Should I go and believe him?

WORRIED.

You just said that you didn't believe him, that you know they haven't broken up. I'm sorry, but I can't think you'd be very smart to go with a boy you can't trust. If he deceived you the first time, about the other girl, what's to keep him from deceiving you time and time and time again?

Dear Martha:

I AM 16 and in my second year of high school. I read the letter from Jean and David who stopped going steady and would like to comment. First of all, I am not going steady, but I whole-heartedly approve of it. I think when a boy or girl, no matter what age, shows interest in the opposite sex, his or her parents should encourage this friendship. However, the parents, of course, should give special consideration to the age and development of the child. In the case of Jean and David, I'm sure they both benefited. It helps to build a good, wholesome character and improve one's personality. It is good that these two people sort of planned out their going steady and set down rules for themselves. However, maybe they weren't ready to setle down to one date for awhile. Yes, I would have to say that going steady is a good influence.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

Dear Martha:

WE ARE ANSWERING your suggestion for our opinions on the letter signed Jean and David. We think they could be home by 10:45 on dates, 11:30 after parties and dances. Their telephone calls could be lengthened from five to 15 minutes. We agree with them on not going steady.

M.T. and E.W.

Send today for Martha Carr's leaflets, compiled especially for teen-agers: "E for Etiquette," "Sub-Deb," "Masculine Popularity," "Teen-Age Games." Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Winter Dream Garden

"HOW IS YOUR GARDEN these days?" a woman asked me at a meeting the other evening.

I almost said, "Beautiful," until I recalled that it is midwinter and the best thing that can be said about our garden is that we never did get all the leaves raked up and they act as a gentle camouflage. But in my mind's eye, our garden has never been lovelier.

CLARISSA START

My husband cannot understand how anyone can read the same thing night after night and still be intensely absorbed in it. Of course there he sits with a stamp catalogue, gloating that a commemorative issue worth 3 cents in 1932 is worth 10 cents today. What good is a stamp if you can't mail a letter with it? What good is 10 cents hinged in a book? He in turn cannot understand the lure of the garden catalogues. I sometimes think there must be some basic differences in the sexes.

For instance, he thinks it's a waste of time to make all these little lists so long before the actual planting season. Instead, it's eminently sensible. I'd never be ordering all these things if it were time to plant them. I won't be ordering all of them anyway because the initial list comes to $86.25, and the budget allows for something closer to $8.62. Clearly, decimation is necessary.

This is all in the planning stage, I say hastily as the man of the house glances over and estimates how much income could be derived from the same amount wisely invested in commemorative stamps.

For instance, planning includes the moving of two small linden trees ("Remember, you said they were too close together anyway, only that isn't why I want to move them, it's so I can put 12 more roses there.") Also building a brick patio, substituting an herb garden for 100 iris, turning the raspberries into a hedge instead of a jungle, and edging absolutely everything with annuals and ivy.

It is on annuals that I go absolutely overboard, probably because an extra 15 cent packet of seed seems like nothing really (until multiplied by 50.) I try to spread the orders around among the half dozen city, state and across-country nurseries that send me their catalogues. That's so they'll keep on sending the catalogues. Some of them offer discounts making it more sensible to order $2.50 worth instead of $2. You do see that, don't you? The original order only came to $1.80. Oh well, throw in another packet of seed, maybe those new pink morning glories.

Everyone knows that garden catalogue pictures are misleading and even if years of experience had not taught me, right on the window sills is mute evidence. There are the paper white narcissus, all greenery and no flowers, the azalea with wilting leaves, the amaryllis which does nothing.

But as the fire crackles and the snow floats down, all things seem possible. Fifty roses in bloom at the same time, fat scallops of alyssum, a lawn not only free of weeds but all the same kind of grass. Lilies, gladioli, amaryllis—amaryllis, hmm. Well maybe it will do better out of doors. I can dream, can't I?

Emily Post

Social Problems

DEAR MRS. POST: I am going to be married soon and would like very much to have my only sister as my maid of honor. She is, however, only 13 years of age and I am wondering if she is too young to fill this position? In addition I am having two regular bridesmaids and two ushers.

Answer: If your sister has poise and is not small for her age, it would be quite all right for her to serve as your maid of honor.

Two-Man Satellite at 300 Miles Up Visualized

By Dr. I. M. Levitt

Director, Fels Planetarium

WE RECENTLY described the Griffon, a long-range rocket transport. Now we will describe the Nomad, first true space ship, as G. Harry Stine visualizes it in his admirable book, "Rocket Power and Space Flight."

The development of the Griffon will not be wasted. A modified Griffon will become the final stage of the Nomad —the interim manned satellite. The concept of this two-man satellite is ingenious and unique. Let's examine the details.

The first stage of the Nomad will be a modified first stage of an I.C.B.M.

In the present I.C.B.M.'s the first stage consist of three motors. One motor is integral with the first stage and the other two are demountable and are jettisoned after they have exhausted their fuel.

The Nomad first stage consists of five motors. One will be integral with the first stage and the other four will be jettisoned after the fuel has gone.

Shortcomings of chemical propellants necessitate the use of the above staging. The use of new high energy fuels may reduce the number of motors in the cluster.

In addition to this series staging there will also be parallel staging in which the bottom half of the fuselage will be a solid fuel rocket to be jettisoned after use.

Even after this has been exhausted there will still be fuel left for the return trip to the earth.

Now in our imaginations let us move to, say, 1967 and to the rocket launching center at Cape Carnaveral. A huge 180-foot, 300-ton rocket stands on a platform ready for the signal which will send it into the sky.

After the final and dramatic countdown 1,000,000 pounds of thrust lifts the giant into the air. It rises slowly but, as the fuels burn, begins to accelerate.

At the end of 90 seconds the Nomad becomes invisible to the eye. Reaching an altitude of about 20 miles, it sheds the four auxiliary rocket motors and continues its climb, firing the center one.

The acceleration, which reached a peak of four g's before the jettisoning, now falls to a nominal level but the ship continues to climb.

Four minutes after its launching the Nomad has attained a speed of 15,000 feet pre second. It is 50 miles high and rising at a 45 degree angle. At this point the single motor quits. The passengers are in free-fall.

The rocket continues to coast up and finally reaches peak altitude—300 miles. On signal the pilots prepare to fire the solid fuel booster underneath the Griffon—the final stage—and some of the residual fuel in the Griffon's tanks.

A check indicates the injection point of the orbit is correct and instantly the other motors begin firing—this time to bring the final stage to circular velocity, 26,500 feet a second.

Author Stine figures the men can stay in the orbit for 1000 hours or about 40 days. By this time they will have exhausted their provisions and atmosphere and must return to the earth.

The Griffon will be reversed with tiny jets. First the exhaust jets will fire in the direction of motion. This will slow the ship and instantly the ship will begin — spiralling— toward the earth.

The final maneuver will be to bring the ship in for a landing. This should not be difficult for it will have been performed many times by the same pilots.

Thus, after 1000 hours in space the two men will step from the satellite to deliver their studies and records and finally to acquaint the space medicine doctors with their reactions to gravity free space.

The concept of the Griffon, and the Nomad which houses the Griffon, is a novel one. The man who conceived it is a professional with intimate knowledge of what is going on in the field.

He could be wrong, but this writer doubts it. This writer believes Stine has shown the shape of things to come.

A NEW 15-minute interview program, "Who's Who in Government," with Frank Eschen doing the interviewing, will start on KSD-TV at 6 tomorrow evening. Eschen's first guest will be Gov. James T. Blair of Missouri.

British television promises in a few years to catch up with the United States on a per capita basis, according to Ernie Hill of the Chicago Daily News foreign service. Britain, he says, now has 7,000,000 sets for a population of 50,000,000. The United States, with a population of 170,000,000, has somewhat over 40,000,000 sets.

Tod Andrews, who stars in "The Gray Ghost," presented on KSD-TV Sunday nights, will be in St. Louis this weekend to meet several St. Louisans who are direct descendants of the Confederate raider, Maj. John Mosby, whom he portrays in the television series.

Charles Van Doren will narrate a 12-week series of dramatic plays on "Frontiers of Faith" beginning Feb. 9. The program is carried by KSD-TV Sunday mornings.

Heavyweight Clarence Hinnant will substitute for the ailing Tony Anthony on tonight's fight on KSD-TV at 9. He will meet Yvon Durelle.

A special hour-long program will mark the silver anniversary in broadcasting of "The Lone Ranger" on KWK-TV at noon tomorrow. Clayton Moore plays the title role.

MARION STAFFORD . . . "Pirate Girl" of the "Treasure Hunt" morning program will also have the same role on the Tuesday evening version of the show, replacing Greta Thyssen.

Bob Hope is scheduled to return to Broadway in a revival of "Roberta" in late 1960. He originated the role on Broadway in 1933. There's also talk that Hope may do the musical comedy at the St. Louis Municipal Opera next June.

AN ICEBERG is a mass of ice which floats in the ocean. We might speak of it as a large "chunk" of ice. The name "iceberg" means "ice mountain."

One of the bergs may weigh several hundred tons, or even thousands of tons, but it will keep floating in the water until it melts. It floats because it is less heavy than an equal volume of water. A cubic foot of water weighs more than a cubic foot of ice.

Place an ice cube in a glass of water, and it will float. A bit of the cube will be above the water surface. On a larger scale, an iceberg projects above the surface. About 12 per cent of the ice in an iceberg is in view. The rest is hidden in the water.

Q. Is an iceberg composed of fresh water which has been frozen?

A. True icebergs (as set apart from ice floes) contain frozen fresh water. They come from land and are parts of valley glaciers. Snow may cover them while they are floating on the sea, but snowflakes arise from clouds of vapor, and the vapor is without salt.

Q. How does an iceberg get into the sea?

A. When a valley glacier moves down to the coast, the forward end goes ahead until it is out in the water. When the tip of the glacier breaks off, we have a new iceberg.
